

Freshman Classes Excused Thursday 10 to 12

YEARLINGS TO ATTEND FIRST CONVOCATION

Nebraska Spirit to Be Instilled by Speeches from Chancellor and Coach Schulte and Singing of Husker Songs.

FROSH MEN AND WOMEN TO MEET IN ARMORY

1500 to Be Seated; Entire First-Year Class From Agricultural College Will Come in a Body.

Freshman! Thursday is the big day! All first year classes that meet at 10 and 11 o'clock Thursday have been excused by the executive dean, and every freshman man and woman is expected to report at the Armory for the annual freshman convocation and initiation.

The entire first year class from the College of Agriculture will attend the convocation in a body, and a section in the Armory will be reserved for them. Special cars will bring them in to the city campus.

Plans are being made to seat more than 1500 first year students for this first big meeting of the year. The men will occupy a section on one side of the room, and a section opposite will be reserved for the women.

A varied and lively program has been provided by the committee of Innocents and Mortarboards which has charge of the convocation. Everything will be brief, and the entire program is designed to instill the real Nebraska spirit in the new students, and to present to them some of the many sides of University life.

Chancellor Avery will be the first speaker, following the opening numbers by the band. He will advise the freshman students how to spend their time.

The Varsity Quartet, in its first appearance this year, has promised some popular selections as its part of the program, and will lead in the singing of the Cornhusker and the Chant. It is said that the members of the quartet will appear in full concert regalia.

Coach H. F. "Indian" Schulte, well known to all high school and college students, will have a place on the program. He will explain to the freshmen what real Nebraska spirit means, and he will tell them something of Nebraska's ideals.

Two cheer leaders will be active on the program, and will teach the frosh the Nebraska yells. The band will probably play outside the Armory at 10 o'clock, to summon the first-year men and women to convocation.

DEAN OF WOMEN TO ENTERTAIN THURSDAY

All University Women to Be Introduced to Mrs. Samuel Avery at Reception.

Miss Amanda Heppner, dean of women, will entertain at her annual opening reception for all University girls, women of the faculty, and chaperons of sorority houses and dormitories from 4 to 6 o'clock Thursday afternoon at Ellen Smith hall. The purpose of the reception is to introduce university women to Mrs. Samuel Avery.

Miss Erma Appleby, secretary of the University Y. W. C. A., Mrs. J. F. Thompson, hostess of Ellen Smith hall and Miss Helen Cook and Miss Gertrude Streeter, assistants in the office of the dean of women, will be in the receiving line with Miss Heppner and Mrs. Avery. The guests will be met at the door by Jean Holtz, president of W. S. G. A., and Grace Spacht, president of the Y. W. C. A.

The Senior Advisory Board will assist in introducing the guests in the court, and the W. S. G. A. board will receive in the dining room where refreshments will be served. Y. W. C. A. members will act as hostesses in the drawing room.

Green caps must be worn by all first year men.

These caps must be worn at all times whether or not students are upon the University campus.

The caps may be discarded after Olympics if the freshmen beat the sophomores in the annual classic.

The Iron Sphinx will be in charge of the enforcement of the green cap rule and each sophomore man is appointed a committee of one to see to the enforcement of the wearing of the green caps.

TICKETS ARE ON SALE TODAY FOR IRISH HEADGEAR

Pasteboards Priced at Cost, 75 Cents, Are to Be Exchanged at Magee's, 12th and O, for Top Pieces.

EVERY FRESHMAN MUST HAVE CAP BY FRIDAY

Iron Sphinx to Devise "Persuaders" for First-year Men Who Do Not Wear Green Caps at All Times.

Sale of tickets entitling the freshmen to green caps begins today. Tickets are sold by all members of the Iron Sphinx for 75 cents. Magee's Clothing company, 12th and O, is furnishing the caps to the Innocents at cost. Every freshman is expected to have his Irish headgear by the time he goes to the freshman convocation tomorrow morning. The sale will continue for three days.

Enforcement of this widely-known Nebraska tradition has been given over to the Iron Sphinx, honorary fraternity for sophomores. The Iron Sphinx will make a check on all freshmen to see that every one has a cap. If it is found that freshmen are trying to evade the rule, suitable "persuaders" will be devised.

By Friday morning, September 28, every first year man must sport a green cap. The sale, although managed by the Sphinx, is sponsored by the Innocents. The caps must be worn at all times, on or off the campus, on Sundays, and on "dates." Each member of the Iron Sphinx is a committee of one to enforce the tradition.

Caps will be worn by the yearlings from Wednesday morning until they have won from the sophomores the privilege of discarding them. Definite plans for the Olympics have not yet been made by the Innocents, nor has the date been settled.

It has been customary at Nebraska for many years, that the freshmen should wear the verdant top-pieces. It is not a senseless hazing plan, as might appear to the first year men, but there are a number of cogent reasons why it was started, according to members of the Innocents.

It is essential that the yearlings become acquainted with each other, for they will be thrown together all during their stay at Nebraska. Friendship, promoted by the wearing of the green, makes it possible to

Co-ed Solicitors are Gentle ---but Sometimes Suspicious

"You got your Nebraskan yet?"

"Yup!"

"Where's your tag?"

"Lost it."

"Hard luck—you better get another one. Where's your receipt?"

suspiciously. (Hesitation) "You haven't bought one, and you know it."

"Well, I have, too, but the receipt's at home in my top-coat."

"What were you wearing your top-coat for yesterday? It was warm, and it wasn't raining either. What's your name? Will you pay by check?"

The transaction is complete. Some co-eds are like that, but not many.

The maid-of-manner gentle and retiring who has developed in the belief that nice girls do not speak to strange men is no better than a loafer on the job. Yesterday morning one such, asked how many Nebraskans she had sold, replied in lachrymose accents:

"One. In three hours. I nearly fainted when I sold it."

Another co-ed was temporarily incapacitated by the following retort:

DAILY NEBRASKAN STAFF MEMBERS ARE ASSIGNED

Feature Editor, Sports Editor, and Assistant Editorial Writers Chosen.

OVER 70 ATTEND MEETING

Plans for Semester Completed at Gathering of News Writers.

A meeting of the staff of the Daily Nebraskan was held Tuesday evening in the Nebraskan office in the basement of University hall to complete the plans for the paper and to make permanent assignments for the semester. New members of the staff were given instructions in the fundamentals of Nebraskan work by Editor Emmett Maun, who made a short talk. Seventy members of the staff attended the meeting.

Announcement was made at the meeting of the appointment of Richard Elster as feature editor. He will be in charge of the Nebraskan feature department, which is expected to have interesting feature stories on all campus activities.

John Hollingsworth was appointed sports editor, and will cover the activities of Nebraska's "Fighting Cornhuskers" from day to day for the Nebraskan readers. Helen I. Peterson and Hugh Cox have been chosen as assistant editorial writers.

The following is a complete list of the students who will report for the Nebraskan during the coming semester:

TODAY IS BUSIEST OF CAMPAIGN FOR DAILY NEBRASKAN

Forty Co-eds to Be on the Campus to Tag Students Who Have Been Missed on First Two Days of Drive.

OVER 1000 SUBSCRIBERS SECURED IN TWO DAYS

Careful Check Will Be Made to Prevent Anyone Picking Free Copies, Says Business Manager Hicks.

Nebraskan subscription lists are booming, and have already reached a mark well over one thousand, but they have not boomed enough, the sales staff believes, and Clifford Hicks, business manager of the publication, plans to make Wednesday, the last day of the drive, the busiest of all. Forty co-eds have been on the campus both on Monday and on Tuesday, but all are to tag at the same time Wednesday, and few of the students who walk the campus are expected to be left without a Nebraskan pennant.

"Some students, especially upper classmen, expect to pick up free copies of the paper," Mr. Hicks states. "We intend to stop that. A careful check at the postoffice distributing booth is to be made Wednesday, and none but those holding receipts will have a chance."

At the present rate, the subscriptions will be equal in number to last year and over the year before, but the management had hoped to make a big advance this term, according to the business manager. To those who expect to get anything other than mathematics and dead languages out of the curriculum, he explains, the Nebraskan, official publication of all student activities, including sports, will be almost a necessity. In it are carried features and articles which no other daily paper, with its different interests, can be expected to print, and it is thru these articles that such a student body as this one is able to meet on common ground.

Unlike many dailies, the Nebraskan has not increased its rates. Two dollars a year and a dollar and a quarter a semester remains the price, though the paper has been enlarged. By subscribing for the year, students save fifty cents.

Practically every sorority and fraternity member flies the white pennant. These organizations which are not 100 per cent are expected to become so in the near future.

The daily football workouts on the new Stadium field are attracting many spectators. Cars were parked several deep along the main entrance to the field.

Attention!

All solicitors for The Daily Nebraskan are to check in all books in their possession after today at noon. All arm bands are to be returned also at that time. Check in at University hall or in the Daily Nebraskan office.

Chancellor to Deliver Address at Nebraska City

Chancellor Samuel Avery will deliver an address at Nebraska City Thursday afternoon, following the presentation to the state of Arbor Lodge, former home of J. Sterling Morton.

Jay Morton will make the presentation of the park and Governor Charles W. Bryan the address of acceptance.

Others who will speak are J. S. Kroh, president of the Nebraska Press association, and W. F. Moran, mayor of Nebraska City.

ALL-UNIVERSITY PARTY TO BE HELD SATURDAY

Floor to Be Roped Off for Dancing; A Program and Refreshments Planned.

One of the big events of the opening week will be the All-University party to be held at the Armory at 8:15 Saturday evening, September 29. It will be given under the direction of the All-University party committee and is the first of six parties to be given this school year.

Circulars will be sent this week to all fraternities, sororities and dormitories, pointing out the advantages which students will derive from these parties in the way of getting better acquainted. For this reason all students are urged to attend, freshmen in particular.

Students will be greeted by a reception line which will include members of the reception committee. A pleasing entertainment has been planned, including dancing. For the convenience of the dancers the floor will be roped off so that they will not be crowded. There will be artistic decorations to make the affair festive. Refreshments will be served thruout the evening, bringing the party to a close at 11:30.

The opening party last year was an unqualified success and those in charge have every assurance of a highly satisfactory All-University mixer this year. Everyone is urged to reserve Saturday evening for this opportunity of becoming acquainted with the less serious side of University life.

Beg Your Pardon!

In a headline on a story concerning the Rhodes Scholarship, it was stated that the registration closed Wednesday of this week instead of Wednesday of next week, October 3, as is correct.

The Daily Nebraskan subscription campaign is progressing with a great measure of success. The drive closes today. Such drives should not be necessary when every student is in the position to estimate the importance of the official college paper.

CHURCHES TO GIVE RECEPTIONS FRIDAY

Annual Entertainments for University Students Planned for September 28.

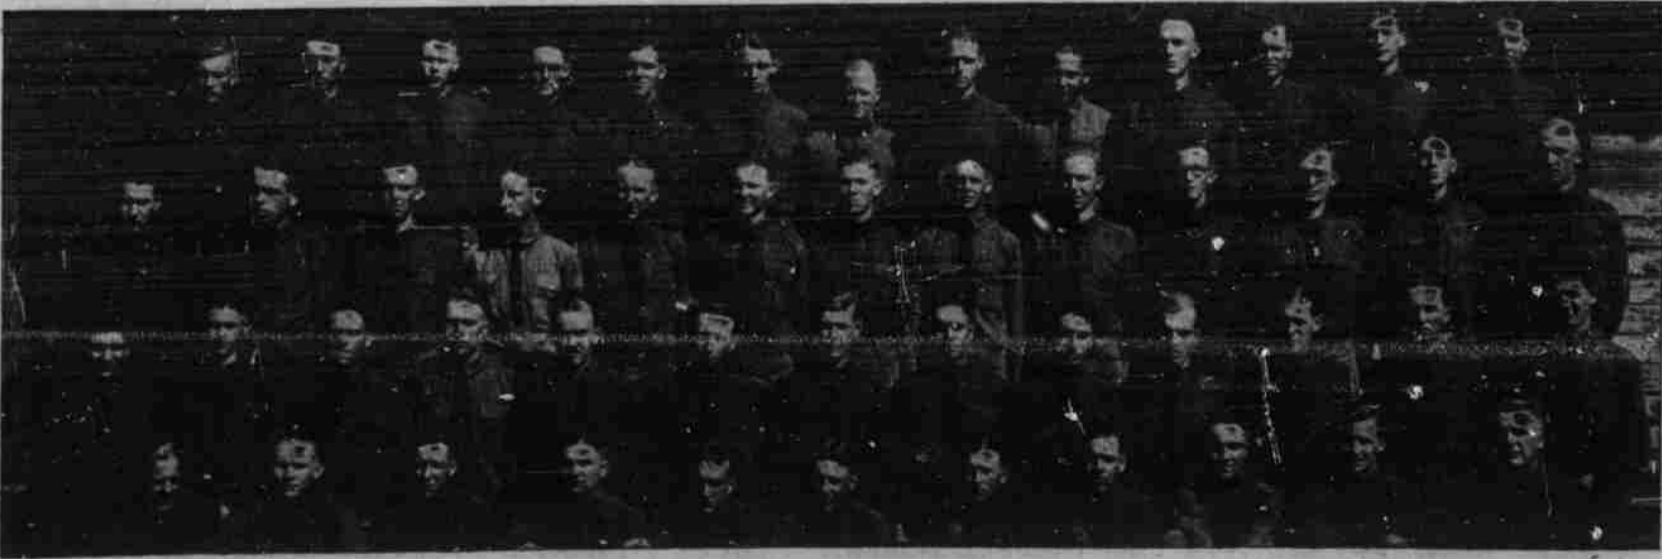

The annual receptions given by the churches of Lincoln to all students, especially University students, will be Friday, September 28. Special programs of music, games, and refreshments are planned by nearly all of the city churches. In past years student receptions have been well attended and the night for them is officially closed to dances. The hour has been set by most churches at 7:30 or 8 o'clock.

Of the Methodist churches, St. Paul's at 12th and M; Grace at 27th and R; Trinity at 16th and A; Emmanuel at 15th and U; Epworth at 30th and Dudley; and Elm Park at 29th and Randolph, are planning programs for Friday evening.

The First and Vine Congregational churches expect to entertain with young people's programs, and refreshments.

The First Christian church invites all students to attend a similar entertainment scheduled for 8 o'clock Friday.

The three Presbyterian churches, the First church at 13th and M; the Second church at 26th and Q; and the Westminster at 23rd and Garfield, also plan to hold receptions at 7:30 and 8 o'clock.

This is the University of Nebraska platoon which took the advanced course at the Fort Snelling R. O. T. C. camp this summer. Most of the men promoted by the Military Department yesterday, were members of the Nebraska platoon at Fort Snelling. Captain Hagan was the platoon instructor at the camp.
