University Players Make Good Progress in Selling Campaign; Expect to Sell 1,400 Pasteboards.

Committee Making Canvas of Fraternity, Sorority and Rooming Houses; Drive Is Barred from Campus.

Four hundred students bought season tickets Tuesday, the first day of the University Players drive, according to an estimate made late in the afternoon by Albert Erickson, business manager of the organization.

"Results are much better than we expected," declared William G. Aldstadt, who is managing the drive. "The goal of 1200 purchasers, set this year, is now well in sight. Only four hundred all together bought tickets last year."

"Though by being barred from the campus, our workers are hindered," the manager continued, "the drive can and will be successfully conducted on the outside by means of a stronger organization. About seventy-five students are members of the University Players general committee, and every one of these has been working."

Tickets for the matinee performances are $2 each, until after Thursday, when the price will be raised 50 cents. Evening tickets are $3.50. Six plays will be put on at the Temple theater this year by the organization.

Among those of the committee especially active in the drive for season ticket buyers are: Neva Jones, Merle Loder, Geraldine Swanick, Frances Weitz, Pauline Gellatley, Ralph Ireland, Harriett Cruise, Opal Yeoman, Janet McLellan, Bennett S. Martin, Nina York, Rosalie Platner and Virginia Arganbright. Carl Isaacson is assistant manager.

Committee members are working in sorority and fraternity houses, rooming houses and dormitories. Many in the fraternity houses and men's rooming houses are grouping their purchases so that their seats are together in the auditorium.

A general meeting of the committee has been announced for 4 p. m. Wednesday, in Miss Howell's office.

SYRACUSE EXPECTS SUCCESSFUL SEASON

Though Gridsters Face Heavy Schedule, Backfield Is Best in Years.

Although facing a strong schedule, the chances of Syracuse going through a successful season appear to be excellent. The backfield material is the best of many seasons, and with Captain Macrae at an end position, and Waldorf, all-American tackle of '22, as a basis for the line, Coach "Chick" Meehan should be able to assemble an excellent squad. Syracuse meets the Cornhusker squad on November 24.

The Syracuse Schedule.
October 6—William and Mary at Syracuse.
Oct. 13—Alabama at Syracuse.
Oct. 20—Pittsburgh at Yankee stadium, New York.
Oct. 27—Springfield at Syracuse.
Nov. 3—Penn State at Syracuse.
Nov. 10—Boston university at Syracuse.
Nov. 17—Colgate at Syracuse.
Nov. 24—Nebraska at Lincoln.

Garnet Holmes, who directed the production of "Winters Tale," passed through the city Tuesday on his way to London, England.

Attention!

All sophomore candidates for student managers of basketball, baseball and track, report at once to the athletic office and fill out application blanks. It is very important that such applications be made at this time, according to the Athletic Manager.

Former Nebraskan Represents Oxford In Track Contests

Alfred I. Reese, graduate of the University of Nebraska in 1920 who was selected as Rhodes scholar the same year, has once more carried the names of his colleges to victory. During the past summer Oxford University sent a track team to Africa to compete with the college athletes of that country. Alfred Reese and a Princeton man were the only Americans on the team. The Oxford team competed with the southern universities at Capetown and with the northern universities of Africa at Johannesburg, and in each meet Oxford was victorious. Reese represented his university in the shot put. He won the event in the first meet with a mark of forty feet and four inches, and in the second meet with a mark of 40 feet one inch.

Alfred Reese represented Oxford in previous meets when Oxford and Cambridge sent a team to this country to compete against Yale, Harvard, and Princeton, and also at the time when Yale and Harvard sent a team to England to meet Oxford and Cambridge.

MANY ATTEND DINNER FOR FRESHMEN GIRLS

Two Hundred and Fifty Big and Little Sisters Meet Tuesday.

Two hundred and fifty girls attended the first Big-and-Little-Sister dinner at Ellen Smith Hall Tuesday evening. Dancing was the after dinner entertainment.

The party was given by the senior advisory board to help get the big and little sisters together and to promote better fellowship, and class spirit among the freshmen. Ellen Smith hall will accommodate two hundred and fifty, and the demand for tickets exceeded this number. The board feels that the girls have outgrown the hall and therefore are planning a big outdoor party for all big and little sisters.

The party last evening proved the need of more big sisters. Any girl who will volunteer to be big sister is asked to sign her name on the bulletin board in Ellen Smith hall. At present the files are being rechecked and all new girls will soon be assigned to the care of a big sister.

DR. MILLS SPEAKS AT VESPER SERVICE

Urges Women to Take Life Seriously, Bravely and Hopefully.

Dr. Charles S. Mills of New York city was the speaker at the second Vesper service of the semester at Ellen Smith hall. In his speech Dr. Mills stressed three points, urging his hearers to take life seriously, to take life bravely and to take life hopefully.

Josephine Shramek presided. It was announced that girls were needed to take the camp fire training course and also to do Americanization work. A vocal solo was given by Helen Jones.

Suspect Students of Leaving Tea Room Without Paying Bills

Several years ago a few students who were making a habit of leaving Miller and Paine's tea room without paying their bills were detected and brought before University authorities as well as county officials to make settlement for their dishonesty. After severe censure they were forced to make reparations for the bills they had failed to pay and were allowed to remain in school on probation only because it was near the close of the year.

A similar attempt is being made this fall by students now on the campus. In several cases discovery of the identity of these persons has been made, and steps have been taken to punish them. Other students are continuing the practice.

It is impossible under the system of duplicate order blanks used by Miller and Paine for anyone to suc-

NO TRACE OF DEVELOPMENT OF UNIVERSITY

Institution Has Kept Pace With Trend of Modern Education, Freshmen Are Told in Lecture.

FIRST CAMPUS WAS ONLY ELEVEN ACRES

Athletics Given as Means of Advertising School; Games at One Time Included All Students.

The University of Nebraska has grown from a school of about 200 pupils into one of nearly 10,000 from natural causes, and because it has kept up with the trend of modern education, Chancellor Avery told the freshman lecture students of the Arts and Science college, when giving the first lectures of the year Monday and Tuesday.

The law passed by the legislature making it possible for students in rural districts to go to high school in neighboring cities at the expense of the districts in which they live has done much to promote education and give students the desire and opportunity to go on to university, the chancellor said.

Traces History of Buildings
The topic of his talk was "The University of Nebraska." He traced its history from its foundation to the present day, discussing the increase in the student body, the growth of student activities, and the acquisition of more ground.

When the Lincoln was made the capitol of the state by an act of the legislature, four square blocks, or eleven acres, were set aside for a university campus.

The first building on the campus was Main or University hall. It was built before there were any railways here, and the bricks had to be hauled from Plattsmouth by team and wagon, a team covering about eight miles in a day.

The foundation was built of sandstone, a rock formation found in this vicinity. A year later, when it was found that the sandstone crumbled and would have to be replaced, the legislature would take no action, and citizens of Lincoln raised sufficient money to reconstruct the foundation with limestone blocks.

The chemical laboratory, built in 1885, was originally intended for use by the state in determining the values of various natural resources. It was one of the few buildings in the country devoted entirely to chemical research.

Acquire Farm Campus
The agricultural campus, which now covers about 320 acres outside of town, was acquired after the city campus was started. The city campus now covers about sixty acres, including the ground recently purchased for the new stadium.

The first class was held in about 1870, and there were only three or four pupils. During the first few years the students did not aggregate more than ten or twelve. Gradually the number was increased to 200, and when Chancellor Canfield was in office was increased to about 1800. Today there are nearly 10,000 pupils in the University.

Pertinent Facts Regarding Stadium

That total subscriptions to the stadium are $453,428.99.

That paid subscriptions are $133,209.47.

That a loan of $300,000 became necessary in order to convert stadium pledges into cash for immediate use.

That these bonds mature serially over a period of five years with 6 per cent interest payable semi-annually and are secured by the unpaid subscriptions, a mortgage on the stadium, and interest guaranteed from gate receipts.

That student athletic tickets for seats in this stadium go on sale a week from today on the campus for $7.50 each.

That these tickets admit you to all football, basketball, track, wrestling and baseball events at school this year.

That if you are a loyal Cornhusker you'll be wearing the "N '23" button ticket purchaser next week.

ARTICLE BY LATE PROF. H. K. WOLFE PUBLISHED

Leading Contribution to Journal of Psychology Written by Former Instructor.

The leading article in the July American Journal of Psychology is by the late Dr. H. K. Wolfe, former professor of philosophy and psychology at the University of Nebraska. The contribution represents many years of research, and permission from the author's wife was gained to publish it because, according to the introduction, "its additions to the knowledge in the field of psychology, especially in the field of judgment, seem so great."

C. E. Benson, acting dean of the school of education at the University of Oklahoma, former pupil and assistant of the late Professor Wolfe, wrote the short introduction to the article, "On the Estimation of the Middle of Lines" in the Journal. The article is forty-five pages in length, contains over thirty tables and lists of figures, summaries of experiments in judging the middle of lines of various lengths.

TAKING ROUGH EDGES OFF FRESHMAN TEAM

Use Zupke Plays Against Varsity in Scrimmage Yesterday.

The freshmen team is busily absorbing Illinois football strategy, and making use of it against the varsity in the daily scrimmages. Illinois plays were used entirely by the freshmen yesterday in the practice session.

The ragged edges in the yearling squad which were so apparent in the first scrimmage with the varsity are being polished off by freshmen coaches, Farley Young, Captain Hagan, and George Racy. The freshmen are no longer so shy of sailing in and inflicting damage on the varsity team, and the scrimmages grow warmer each day.

The yearlings were drilled hard yesterday in passing and punting.

Ox-yokes are a novelty these days and few of us ever see one, but the State Historical Society, in the basement of the Library building, has just received as a gift the first ox-yoke ever made and used in Antelope county.

A. L. Hopkins of Neligh, the donor, says it dates back to 1869, when his father, Crandall Hopkins, was the first settler in Antelope county.

Only one man has filed for class office, it was stated by John K. Selleck, agent of student activities, yesterday afternoon.

JONES DESCRIBES ENGLISH SCHOOLS

Says Educational System Is Inferior to That in Use in America.

That the American system of education is far superior to the English was stated by Will Owen Jones of the Nebraska State Journal in an address to the Social Science club at the Grand Hotel, Tuesday. Mr. Jones recently returned from Europe.

He explained that while taxes in England are greater than those covering the cost of the grades, high schools, and universities in America, yet the cost of an education in England is prohibitive to all except the aristocracy.

The training of the higher class of English boys begins under the supervision of a governess at home. Then he enters Eton and finally Oxford. At Oxford they are shut off from the world, and they enjoy an intellectual freedom which fits them to become the brilliant statesmen for which the British aristocracy is famous. Never, under any circumstances do they come into contact with the common people.

"There is a great crisis in England today," asserted Mr. Jones, "because such an education is too expensive for the lower classes."

The professional man is unable to give his son years of training at the cost of from $2,000 to $2,500 per year.

"As a result," Mr. Jones continued, "ignorance is predominate among the lower classes. The British laborers are morons."

In Scotland, however, it is different. Mr. Jones told of a sexton who had written a book and knew the history of all the old graves for which he cared. He pointed out that, although Scotland is a very poor country, they have had public schools for 300 years. Their greatness comes from discipline caused by poverty.

In conclusion, the speaker deplored the present day tendency of Americans to criticize the expense and so-called inefficiency of our universities. The cost is not becoming prohibitive, he declared, and devotion to education is what we need.

"I feel," he said, "that except prohibition, education is the most hopeful thing in America."

Expect Registration at Omaha to Increase

Word has been received from Dean I. S. Cutter that 400 students have applied to enter the College of Medicine this fall. A comparison of this year's enrollment with that of last year shows a total of 323 students last year and 322 this year. However, an increase is expected this fall as the limit of 90 students set by Dean Cutter for the freshman class has not yet been reached.

Miss H. Alice Howell went to Geneva Friday where she read "What Every Woman Knows" before the Teachers County Institute.

STUDENTS PLAN SEND-OFF FOR TEAM THURSDAY

Band, Corncobs, and Cheer Leaders to Instill Nebraska Spirit in March to Burlington Station.

MEET AT ARMORY TO FORM PARADE

Dawson Urges All to Be Present When Team Leaves for Urbana for First Game of Season.

All Nebraska students are expected to gather in front of the Armory tomorrow afternoon at 3:30 o'clock and parade to the Burlington station where the "Fighting Cornhuskers" will leave for Urbana and the initial contest of the season. Plans are practically complete for the parade and the line of march will be announced in tomorrow's Nebraskan.

The Innocents Society will be in direct charge of the parade with the Corncobs, Nebraska's pep organization, assisting. Cheer leaders will be stationed at various places along the line of march to lead the marching students in the cheering. The University band will be in front of the Armory at 3:15 o'clock and play until 3:30 o'clock when the parade will form and march to the Burlington station.

All Corncobs have been requested to wear the official uniform of the organization and be at the Armory a little early to assist with the parade. Since this is the first rally of the year the committee in charge wants the entire student body to go to the station and give the football team the greatest send-off it has ever experienced.

This is the first year for a long time that Nebraska has played the first game of the season on a foreign field and Head Coach Dawson wants to have all the students at the station to let the team know the entire student body is eagerly awaiting the outcome of Saturday's contest. The personnel of the squad and coaches will be found in another part of the Nebraskan.

"I want every student there and I want them to yell their best and let the team know they are behind them. I want those cheers ringing in the ears of the men when they take the field Saturday against Coach Zupke's men. The team hasn't had a chance this year to be spurred on by the spirit of the student body and unless there is a big turnout tomorrow it is going to hurt the team. Every loyal Cornhusker will be there," is the way Coach Dawson put it to a Nebraskan representative yesterday.

Freshmen are especially requested to be in line in order that they may get the spirit of the rally.

Plan Carnival-Mixer for Saturday Night

The Y. M. C. A.-Y. W. C. A. mixer-carnival will be held at the Armory Saturday, October 6, at 8:30 p. m. Welch Pogue and Lois Thompson represented the two organizations at the committee meeting held to discuss plans for games, concession booths, and stunts. There will be no dancing.

Round-up Breakfast Is Planned by Engineers

Students in civil engineering will hold a "Round-up Breakfast" early Saturday morning in Antelope park. The "civils" will meet at the Mechanical Arts building at 7 a. m. and drive to the park. A number of novel and interesting "stunts" have been planned as a part of the entertainment.

Want Fifteen Women For Training Course

Fifteen upperclasswomen are wanted at once to sign for the training course in girl reserve work. This course qualifies a girl for the eight-week camps held summers at Crete. Margaret Hager is in charge. Applications should be in at Miss Appleby's hands early next week. Classes will probably open at the end of the week.
