

AWARD SCHOLARSHIPS TO THREE STUDENTS

Robert W. Maxwell, Harry F. Amende and Arthur C. Nelson Are Winners.

On the basis of high scholastic standing and sincere interest in economic problems three scholarships in business research have been awarded in the College of Business Administration of the University of Nebraska to Robert W. Maxwell, '23, Lincoln; Harry F. Amende, '23, Syracuse, and Arthur C. Nelson, '23, Sidney, Ia., according to announcement by Dean J. E. LeRossignol.

Miller and Paine, Frank Woods, and Mrs. C. R. Rudge for the Rudge memorial scholarship, have donated these gifts of $500 each to further economic investigation and research in Nebraska.

Arthur Nelson (Sidney, Ia. high school, '19), '23, was on the board of directors of "Bizad," is a member of the Commercial Club, and was chairman of the junior debate committee. Mr. Nelson has also served as assistant to Professor J. E. Kirshman.

Harry Amende (Peru Normal, '16) '23, belongs to the Commercial Club and Alpha Kappa Psi.

As in previous years these students will devote their time to graduate work, investigating certain phases of business administration. Working under the general supervision of Prof. F. E. Wolfe, chairman of the committee on business research, graduate students in economics contribute the results of their research for publication. Not only from this country, but from Canada and Cuba as well, have come letters of inquiry and of appreciation for the efforts of this committee.

Dean LeRossignol, in expressing his appreciation, declared:

erous response of our business men to the appeal for scholarships to carry on this important work. In the past two years scholarships have been given by Miller & Paine, Mrs. C. H. Rudge, H. E. Sidles, William Gold, O. J. Fee, and Frank Woods.

"A number of other business men have expressed their interest in the work and also their intention of donating in future.

"Unquestionably business research can be of great value to business in Nebraska by ascertaining and publishing the best business practice, which makes for efficient management, lower costs, reasonable prices, and reduction in the cost of living. Moreover, the results of such investigations in this region have a wide bearing, as conditions in Nebraska are largely typical of those throughout the middle west."

Ag College Visited By London Engineer

Captain B. S. Owens, consulting engineer of the University of Agriculture, London, England, paid a two day visit to Nebraska's Engineering College on the Agricultural campus during the past week and pronounced the plan of operation of the institution among the best of the country.

Captain Owens is making a complete tour of the United States and visiting various agricultural engineering colleges and departments for the purpose of gathering information and details along engineering lines in hopes of carrying back some definite plan by which an agricultural engineering school may be founded in either Cambridge or Oxford. Mr. Owens was very favorably impressed with the operation and equipment of the Nebraska college.

He spoke highly of the tractor testing station and took several notes on various points concerning the college. Captain Owens referred to the college as being the most practical of any he has yet seen. He left for Ames, Ia., Thursday evening.

English Textbook by Weseen in Demand

An order for fifty copies of "Everyday Uses of English," of which Professor Maudice H. Weseen of the English department of the University of Nebraska is the editor, has been received by the publishers from far-away Peking, China. The order was a result of the review of the book recently published in the London times. The fourth printing of Professor Weseen's work is just off the press, and it is being constantly adopted by more schools and colleges as a text-book for English courses.

Further expansion of the University of Michigan campus will soon be definitely under way. A medical building and the new nurses home will be built, besides the many buildings which are now under construction.

Study tables are held by sororities at the University of Colorado to raise their general scholarship standing and to enable their pledges to be eligible for initiation. The tables are supervised by upperclassmen.

The stadium drive at the University of Oklahoma has been postponed until next year. The extra year is needed to perfect the organization for raising the money.

The emergency building fund of Pennsylvania University has been gradually increasing during the past three weeks and is now a little less than $1,350,000.

The University of Southern California played the first game in their gigantic new stadium last Saturday. The stadium was dedicated by President Harding.

Special trains will run from Michigan to Iowa and Wisconsin in the near future for football games.

The Kansas-Aggies debaters may debate the Penn State team this year.

A single dining car on a trans-continental train reminds one of the conflict between Republican and Democratic principles in a political campaign: the outs want to get in and the ins want to stay in.
