

HUSKERS PREPARE TO INVADE TIGER CAMP THIS WEEK

Scarlet and Cream Gridiron Team Journeys to Columbia Saturday.

SIDELIGHTS GIVEN ON JAYHAWK GAME

With the Missouri Tiger contest at Columbia Saturday in mind, Fred Dawson, head football coach, sent his proteges through a strenuous workout yesterday, including heavy scrimmage with the yearlings and some drilling on fundamentals and plays.

The Husker mentor is resolved to eliminate the weaknesses shown by the Scarlet and Cream eleven in the Kansas game, and the staff is devoting every effort to strengthen the Husker machine before it leaves for the Tiger contest Saturday.

Now that the Kansas-Nebraska game is about three days old, almost all the various post-mortems and "replaying" of the game have gone the rounds. The outstanding feature of these post-mortems is the claim that the tie was the same as a victory for the Jayhawkers.

A close analysis of the cold facts of the game, however, show this claim to be absolutely unwarranted, for the southerners were outclassed and outplayed throughout the entire contest.

The only victory that the Kansas team can claim is in the "Lady Luck" column, for, while apparently the actual breaks of the game were about even, the facts show that the Huskers made fifteen first downs to 2 by the Kansans, and 255 yards from scrimmage to forty-four by the Jayhawks, a comparison which cannot help but indicate that Jayhawk "horse-shoes and rabbit's feet" had a lot to do with the final tie score.

This story is not, however, an attempt to belittle the playing of the Kansas team Saturday. The Jayhawkers, outweighed and outclassed, put up a game fight such as is not often seen on the grid field. When on two occasions, with their backs to the wall, they held the powerful Husker steamroller within the ten-yard mark, even the most partisan of Husker supporters displayed admiration for the Jayhawker "bulldog" defense.

On the other hand, the playing of the Husker eleven, while rather consistent and at times brilliant, was disappointing in several ways. The Nebraska inexperienced line, which played invincible football on defense, has not yet learned to open holes in the fashion of the Husker teams of 1921 and 1922.

Again, the offense of the Scarlet and Cream backfield, while pleasing and spectacular throughout most of the game, seemed to crumble and weaken whenever the Huskers came within striking distance of the Jayhawk goal line. The playing of the Nebraska team as a whole, however, showed a great improvement over the playing against the Sooner team the week before, and everything points toward an even faster and greater improvement in the Husker machine in the next few weeks.

Y.W.C.A. Rummage Sale Well Patronized

Over 150 people patronized the Y.W.C.A. rummage sale on O street on the opening day. Warm, practical clothes for winter were collected last week by the conference committee under the direction of Lila Wyman.

Girls are needed to help sell and should leave their names with Miss Appleby in Ellen Smith hall within the hours they could work. One hour between classes given to help the committee would be a big boost toward the success of the sale.

SCABBARD AND BLADE SMOKER THURSDAY

To Get Cadet Officers Better Acquainted Is Purpose of the Affair.

A smoker is being planned by the Nebraska chapter of the Scabbard and Blade, national honorary fraternity for Thursday night at the Temple.

The time has been set for 7:30. All advance course students will attend the affair.

The purpose of the smoker is to get the cadet officers acquainted and to get a more united spirit among all of the members. It will also afford the members a good chance to look over to prospective new members.

There will be several kinds of music. A quartet will sing and other music will be furnished. There will also be two or three speeches by well known men.

PLAN PICNIC FOR BIG AND LITTLE SISTERS

Sell Tickets for Wienie Roast at Antelope Park Thursday Evening.

All freshman girls and all big sisters are invited by the senior advisory board to a "weenie" roast Thursday evening at Antelope park. Tickets will be 35 cents and go on sale at 1 o'clock this afternoon in Ellen Smith hall. The sale will continue until Wednesday night, and every girl who expects to go to the picnic must have a ticket.

Further announcements will be made Wednesday morning.

Some big sisters still have not been able to get in touch with their little sisters on account of changed addresses. But every upper class girl who has been assigned little sisters, and every freshman girl in school is urged to attend the picnic.

Varsity Squad to Attend Elks' Dinner

The University of Nebraska varsity football squad and their coaches will be guests at the regular weekly dinner party of the local Elks' Club tonight.

Special arrangements have been made for a big time. It will be called Cornhusker Night and the local men will attempt to show their appreciation of our fighting team.

Stadium Pledges Must Be Paid To Reduce Loan on Structure

Castles can be built on air, but it takes real money to build a stadium. Nebraska's memorial stadium is "a stadium;" it is not a castle. It is taking real money to build it. It has taken real money to bring it to the point of completion as it was dedicated last Saturday. It will take more money, thousands of dollars more to finish it, as the original architect's drawing specified.

When the Nebraska Memorial Association let to contract for the building of the Nebraska Memorial Stadium, it contracted only for so much of the structure as the money then available warranted. It used some $350,000 in pledges as security for a loan of $300,000 in order that the maximum seating capacity might be available for this season.

To secure this $300,000 took money. Every day that loan is outstanding, the memorial association must pay a good many dollars in interest. Every cent which the association holds in pledges means an equivalent amount must be borrowed and interest paid on that borrowed money.

You Can Help. Every "Stadium Builder" can help toward the ultimate completion of their stadium by paying their pledges now. Every cent that the memorial association can collect means that many fewer outstanding pledges, that many fewer dollars to borrow and pay interest on.

The stadium needs money. It is now paying interest on the pledges of some forty-five hundred students, it is paying interest on nearly $100,000 in student pledges. That means that every month $500 at least goes to the holders of stadium bonds rather than into a more nearly completed stadium. And that is on student pledges only. In addition there are more than $200,000 in pledges of alumni and friends of the University. That means that every month the memorial association pays $1,500 in interest, every week it pays nearly $400 in interest, every day it pay $50 in interest. And $50 is enough to build five seats in the new stadium. It would take the interest of but two thousand days, of but sixty-five weeks to raise enough money to complete the oval ends. And that does not take into account compound interest.

Students Lose. Every time the memorial association pays out a dollar in interest, the students of the University of Nebraska lose a cent.

SECOND DAD'S DAY SET FOR NOVEMBER 10

Special Section Reserved for Sons and Fathers at Notre Dame Game.

November 10 is Dad's Day.

When the Cornhuskers line up against Notre Dame, Nebraska dads and Nebraska sons will cheer the team from the stands of the new stadium.

A special section will be reserved to seat the sons and fathers who attend the game together.

A banquet will be given after the game and will be attended by fathers and their sons.

The Vikings are in charge of the program and will make all the necessary arrangements.

Dad's Day this year is the second annual reunion of students and their fathers.

"Dad's Day was a big success last year, and no doubt this year's event will eclipse its predecessor in every way," said a member of the committee in charge yesterday.

Ivey Gives Lecture Under Great Strain

The following extract concerning Professor Ivey, who has been professor of marketing for the past three years and who is now on leave of absence, was clipped from the Des Moines Capital of October 11:

"Professor Paul W. Ivey of the University of Nebraska kept up a rapid fire line of jokes as he ridiculed negative salesmanship at the meeting of the National Association of Stationers and Manufacturers at his own jokes.

"His thoughts were on the tragic message of his mother's death he had received by telegram just before he went on the platform. His hearers were unaware by the strain under which he was laboring until President Mitchell announced the news at the close of his lecture."

Helen I. Redford, resident pharmacist, has secured leave of absence for a year to carry on her studies at Chicago for a higher degree. Miss Leona Crawford, will have charge of the pharmacy dispensary during Miss Redford's absence.

Peru Students Hold Banquet Tonight

A Peru students' banquet, to which all former Peru students who are attending the University are invited, will be held at the Lincoln hotel at 6 o'clock this evening.

The object of the meeting is to discuss plans for the founding of a permanent Peru club at the University. Although a goodly number of Peru students have already signified their intentions of attending the dinner, there are still a few plates left, and any Peru student who would like to attend, should notify Della Watherrhogg at phone M1213 sometime early today.

Florence Wittwer, Della Watherrhogg, and Katurah Lowe make up the committee in charge of the affair.

HOLD CANDLE-LIGHTING SERVICE AT VESPERS

Miss Erma Appleby to Speak to Y. W. C. A. Girls This Afternoon.

The candle-lighting service of the Y. W. C. A., at which new members formally take the pledge of the association and old members restate their purpose, will occupy the vesper hour from 5 to 6 o'clock at Ellen Smith hall this afternoon. Approximately 300 new members are expected to participate in the ceremony.

Miss Erma Appleby, secretary of the University Y. W. C. A., will speak to the girls on "Following Jesus Christ." Special music by the vesper choir, devotions, and the lighting of the candles will complete the service.

A small white candle, signifying individual membership and obligation, will be lighted by each girl. Large candles, representing the Y. W. C. A., will be held by Grace Spacht, president, and Ruth Small, vice president and chairman of the membership committee.

The formal membership campaign of past years was abandoned this fall and an effort was made to invite every girl to become a member. The purpose of the quieter method of invitation is to encourage girls to sign the pledge with greater seriousness and sincerity.

Freshman girls have assisted the membership committee in reaching new girls, but many have not yet been invited to join. Membership cards are available at Ellen Smith hall and any girl interested in becoming a member is urged to call at Miss Appleby's office.

Other candle-lighting services will probably be held during the year according to temporary plans.

Alumni Mixer Ends Homecoming Program in the College World

An all-University party, which closed the annual homecoming day and stadium dedication service, was attended by a large crowd of students and visiting alumni at the Armory Saturday night. This was the second dance of the year given under the direction of the all-University party committee.

FOUR CLASSES HOLD MEETINGS AT SAME HOUR

First Assemblies of Year Scheduled for 11 O'clock This Morning.

DEAN ENGBERG URGES ALL STUDENTS TO GO

All four classes in the University elect minor officers at 11 o'clock this morning. Classes will not be dismissed.

The senior class will meet in the Social Science auditorium; the junior class in Social Science 107; sophomores in Law 101; freshmen in the Temple theater.

Officers to be elected are vice president, secretary, treasurer, and sergeant-at-arms. These meetings afford the first opportunity for the two lower classes to discuss the coming Olympics.

Every student was urged to attend by Dean C. C. Engberg, who said it was impossible to dismiss classes. He commended the idea of having the meetings at the same hour.

H. Stephen King will preside at the meeting of the senior class in the Social Science auditorium. Plans for the junior-senior prom and the class debt will probably be considered.

The juniors will see their newly elected president, Philip Lewis, in the chair. The regular business of the class will be gone over. The meeting will probably take up the same subjects as that of the seniors. Marion Woodard and Jere Mickel will preside at the sophomore and freshman meetings respectively. Besides discussing the Olympics, the two classes will take up plans for the year.

COLLECT DECORATIONS FROM ALL OVER STATE

Military Ball to Be Regaled in Martial Fashion This Year.

Decorations for the military ball are to be military in character and will be collected from all over the state.

"No reasonable expense will be spared to make the ball attractive and entertaining," said Robert F. Craig, cadet colonel.

The military ball is one of the oldest traditions on the campus and in pre-war days it was an annual occurrence. It was given for the first time last year since before the war and it is the largest of the three proms held during the year, as all students may attend the ball. It is the first formal of the season and is given under the auspices of the cadet officers' association.

The committee in charge of decorating for the ball follows: Major Turner, chairman; Major Miller, Captains Mulligan, Leaming, Woodard, DeFore and Rathack. Lieutenants Gish, Gardner, Morris, Pennery, Falmer, Skinner, Wehmer, Madden, Goddard, Wimble, Hyatt, Foss, Wolfe, Gramlick, McLaughlin, Millson, Kier and Bowen.

Dean I. S. Cutter Will Attend Medical Congress in London

Medical science made great progress during the World War but has done little of value since, and the purpose of the International Medical Congress to be held in London November 12, 13 and 14 is to find further means for advancement in this field of work, declared Dean Irving S. Cutter of the University of Nebraska College of Medicine, to a reporter of the Daily Nebraskan, in discussing his proposed trip to London.

The findings of this meeting will undoubtedly be of great value to American schools, although at this time it is impossible to say what new ideas may be brought back. During the past few years there have been some changes in English and other European schools, looking toward the adoption of the American system of college instruction in medicine, he continued.

Sir George Newman, British Minister of Education, has made a special study of medical education during the past four or five years, and he is the one who has called the Congress. There will be representatives from the United States, France, Switzerland, Italy and possibly from some South American countries.

While in London Dean Cutter will visit a number of hospitals to study the relationship between the clinical pathological laboratory and the hospital. Later he will visit those in Edinburgh, Scotland.

A thousand dollars toward the expenses of his trip were recently voted by the board of regents. He will leave during the first part of November and will return in the middle of December. He will not visit any other foreign country.

Dean Cutter came to Lincoln Monday afternoon to deliver a lecture on "Recreation and Health" before the freshman lecture students of the College of Arts and Sciences Monday evening and Tuesday morning.

Charles Ray Shys at Tribute Paid Him by Co-Eds at Train

What University man could persuade several scores of co-eds to skip 1 o'clocks just to see him step from a train to a taxicab? Charles Ray did that very thing without even trying, Monday afternoon at 1:40.

Ray himself was nine-tenths of the attraction; the remainder embodied itself in the fact that the best snapshot of the movie idol would win ten dollars for the amateur photographer.

The girls began to gather at the Burlington station about 1:10 p. m. Coats, blouses, and swaggar-jackets displayed bulges that could easily have been caused by kodaks, for instance. The Denver train, which bore the actor and his company, was due at 1:20, but arrived twenty minutes late.

Mr. Ray appeared first when he stepped from the vestibule of one coach to another adjoining, possibly for the benefit of twenty persons or thereabout who were squeezed on the observation platform of the Kansas train on the next track. Their disappointment at the brevity of the first attraction voiced itself in the following declamation from a fat man with a fat voice:

"Hey, pohtuh! Tell Charlie to step out and let people look at him. The crowd's all here!"

Mr. Ray, despite his success in acting, appears before a crowd as furiously embarrassed as the fourteen-year-old boy whom he portrays in so many of his productions. He doesn't look much older in other ways, either, although chronology has his age as unquestionably approaching the third decade.

The famous, pensively twitching smile of the star will be very much in evidence in the best of the many snapshots which were obtained Monday afternoon. If a picture could be obtained which portrayed the believed attitude of Mr. Ray when he finally escaped from his fair worshippers and rode away, the question of the ten dollar prize would be settled right there.
