Last Week's Results. Iowa State 54, Washington 7, at St. Louis. Drake 41, Grinnell 0, at Grinnell. Nebraska 7, Missouri 7, at Columbia.

Games This Week. Iowa State vs. Drake at Des Moines. Kansas vs. Oklahoma at Norman. Missouri vs. Kansas Aggies at Manhattan.

All roads lead to Manhattan, Kan., this week-end where the Kansas Aggies meet the Missouri Tigers in the Missouri Valley grid mix that seems to be attracting most attention among local pastime followers. The Kansas-Oklahoma Indian encounter at Norman ranks a close second in importance to the Manhattan affair while Nebraska sits idle until November 17 when the Cornhuskers journey into Iowa to meet the Ames machine.

Judging from past performances of Valley aggregations the dope bucket has been overturned too often already during the present season to continue to trace the channel in which the proverbial juice shall flow. Although Nebraska and the Aggies did make better showings against Missouri and Kansas Saturday, the winners of the main events on this week's card cannot easily be foreseen.

From the reports of members of the Cornhusker team on the comparative opposition offered by Kansas and Missouri, the Aggies loom up as favorites over the Tigers in the coming contest since the farmers had little trouble in their knotted argument with the Jayhawks Saturday. A close decision with Kansas holding the long end of the count is expected to be the outcome of the Jayhawk-Oklahoma test at Norman Saturday, although the Indians are said to have made great improvement since their clash on Nebraska soil.

Though these decisions are only on paper and are made from comparative score and performances, it is not unlikely that all expectations will hold true. From the showing of a strong offense against Grinnell last week, Drake appears to be high in the running and should they turn the trick against Ames at Des Moines this week end will doubtless rank among the most likely title holders of the Valley. However, Ames is known to have a fast combination of gridsters and since Drake has failed to meet any upper rate teams, Iowa Staters seem to be most likely winners.

The Cornhuskers, Grinnell, and Washington will not be in the Valley scramble this week.

At Michigan University, more than 270 different makes of cars were counted among those parked around the campus. There were all kinds of them, from "tin chariots" of all colors and descriptions to Cadillacs and Lincolns. Most of the cars were from that state but licenses showed some that were even as far away as from New York.

Growing Popularity of Football Shown by Crowded Fields

The growing popularity of football in the United States is apparent from the large crowds which throng the fields and stadiums at every major game played this year. Last Saturday was a record breaker for crowds in the east. About 217,000 people saw the six leading games. At both the Yale-Brown game, which Yale won 21 to 0, and the Harvard-Dartmouth game, there were 50,000 spectators to cheer the teams. A crowd of 42,000 saw Penn U. battle Centre. Forty thousand saw Navy and Princeton tie and 25,000 saw the West Virginia-Penn State game. In Chicago 32,000 spectators witnessed the Illinois-Northwestern fray. Virtually every school in the country reports increased attendance at the games.

EASTERN CRITICS RATE SYRACUSE PILOT HIGH

Freshman Flash of 1921 Stars Again After Year of Poor Health. When the Syracuse football aggregation lines up against Coach Dawson's Cornhusker eleven on stadium field November 24, grid followers will witness in action one of the greatest quarterbacks developed in eastern football for several seasons. Barring unforeseen development eastern critics pronounce Roy Simmons among the greatest football quarterbacks ever seen in an Orange uniform.

And that is saying a great deal, for head coach John "Chick" Meehan himself starred at the pilot position on the Syracuse combination in 1916. Simmons was no less than a veritable world beater in his freshman year. His work at quarterback brought him mention on several all-American first-year elevens. He was a fighting, plunging, rearing, hard tackling back who could carry the ball as well as call signals. Last year it was a different story. Simmons was only a shadow of the terrific performer he had been in 1921. He was sick most of the season and played but few of the games, being forced to leave college during the second semester because of ill health.

According to New York sport writers, Syracuse has one of the strongest teams in the east this year. In their game with the Pitt Panthers which they won by a 3 to 0 score, the Orange warriors showed an extremely strong offense, which was stopped three times during the game only after Syracuse had the ball within the Pitt 10 yard line.

Bowman, the Syracuse half who scored against Nebraska last year, did most of the ball lugging for the first half until he was taken out on account of injuries. McBride and Zimmerman also did great work at line plunging and tackle smashing.

Syracuse appeared weak on passes and most of their attempts were intercepted. Their defense, however, was very strong and the heavy Pitt backfield was unable to gain consistently through the Orange line. In McBride Coach Meehan has a real asset. McBride besides being a versatile backfield man is an extremely accurate place kicker.

Besides a quartet of veteran, hard hitting backs Syracuse has in Captain MacRae an unusually strong end.

K. K. Rockne, coach of the Notre Dame eleven, refused to schedule a game with Syracuse at New York in 1924. It was reported last week. This is because of a ruling of the faculty which permits not more than two eastern trips in a season. Army and Princeton are already on Notre Dame's schedule.

CAGE SQUAD TO TAKE TRIP DURING HOLIDAYS

Itinerary Will Include Colleges in Iowa and Probably Missouri.

A practice trip during Christmas vacation is planned for the basketball team by Coach Theisen, as a conditioner for the Valley race in late winter and early spring. No definite arrangements have been made yet, but the trip will include a string of colleges in Iowa or Missouri. The regular schedule will be like that of the last two years, when all Valley conference teams played a round-robin schedule similar to that used in a baseball league. One or two schools outside the conference may be played on the open dates.

From twenty-five to thirty-five men are coming out for practice. They include a lot of promising material. Several high school stars who made a mark for themselves in the state tournament two years ago are among those out.

Coach Theisen, who was called home last week on account of illness in his family, is expected back today, and intensive training will begin in a few days. In the absence of Coach Theisen, the squad has been working out at the Armory under direction of Captain Usher.

A light workout each night is the program until the men get into shape for more strenuous practice. The regular practice hours are Monday, Wednesday and Friday from 4 to 6 o'clock.

Big Munn, Former Husker Grid Star, Enters Prize Ring

Once more the good news bird returns to tweet on Cornhusker soil. This time concerning the former Nebraska grid performer, Wayne Munn. Munn has recently stepped into the prize ring and has just finished three months' training under the direction of Mike Gibbons, brother to Tommy, who stayed the full limit recently with Dempsey. Munn has been sending his partners to sleep at a merry clip during his workouts in St. Paul and exhibited his wares during the past few days against his brother Monte at the local Y. M. C. A.

According to his manager, Gene Melady of Omaha, "Big" Munn will make his professional pugilistic debut early in November and already numerous offers have been received to match the newcomer with the best in the heavyweight division.

Big Munn has an exceptional boxing build and far surpasses Firpo, Willard, and even the champion himself in physical development. While at Nebraska Wayne filled a big gap in the forward wall on the varsity eleven for three seasons, and was placed on several mythical all-conference teams.

The construction of seats in the Stadium of the University of California will be completed by the end of the week. Seats have been installed in thirty-one sections while construction is progressing rapidly in six more sections. The seats are being built more rapidly than was expected.

Work is being rushed on the Stadium to have it ready for use for the Stanford-California game on November 24.

Word has been received by the history department of the present locations of the following alumni who received their master's degrees in the spring and summer of 1923: Bruce M. Raymond, Tulsa, Oklahoma, high school. Harry P. Johnson, Kansas City, Kansas, high school. Rachel Sutherland, Long Beach, California, high school.

Faculty Members Go to Authors' Dinner

Several members of the University of Nebraska faculty were among the Nebraska authors who were entertained in Omaha Saturday, October 27, at a dinner given by the Omaha Daily News at the Chamber of Commerce.

Mrs. Shotwell, literary editor of the Omaha Daily News, presided as chairman and several others were called upon for impromptu speeches. A Nebraska authors' program was given out by radio later in the evening.

The dinner served as a meeting place for eight members of the old University English Club: George Shedd, Ashland; Edwin Ford Piper, professor at Iowa University; Keen Abbott, Omaha World Herald; Dr. H. B. Alexander, professor at Nebraska University; Mr. and Mrs. George W. Kline, Lincoln; Dr. Louise Pound, English department at Nebraska University, and Miss Flora Bullock, English department of Nebraska University Extension Division.

This club, made up of faculty and student writers, was a strong literary organization which thrived on the University campus between 1892 and 1905. The "Kiote" was the University monthly, containing stories, essays, and poems, published under the auspices of the English Club.

Eighteen members of the varsity glee club of the University of California will leave Berkeley on November 8 for the annual trip to Los Angeles before the game with the University of Southern California.

Little Dorothy never again will enjoy anything as she now enjoys using the word "whom."
