WATCH YOUR SPIRIT

Nebraska spirit is showing a tendency at a time when it may be highly disastrous. There are critical days ahead for both the football team and for the students.

There is a big prize at stake—Husker spirit. What are you going to do?

A ROOTERS' SECTION

Rooting at the two home football games has been nothing short of a failure. There has been but slight response from the student section—especially at the Oklahoma game.

To successfully co-ordinate the cheering of the thousands of students who occupy the east section of the stadium, there must be a nucleus about which the cheers can be built up. There must be a center upon which the cheer leaders may work.

A suggestion made within the military department might be a solution. It is possible to get about seven hundred cadets out in uniform for every game. The cadets would be allowed to take over the center section of the stadium and they would be the nucleus for all rooting. Their cheering would be under the supervision of the cheerleader. This would enable the students to guide their rooting by the action of the central unit. It seems like a feasible scheme.

Now that the student directory is well distributed among the advertisers of the city, students are receiving their annual buying advice. There is a big stack of mail every morning—but it doesn't mean anything. Why not copyright the directory?

COLLEGE RUSHES.

The Student Council at Cornell has ruled that there shall be no more college rushes. In making the ruling, the Council stated that the danger of class scraps has passed and that there was no longer any need for the rush.

At Nebraska, where the students are very cosmopolitan, where they are in such great numbers that they need to be organized, there is still a need for the annual class rush.

Some day when you attend the Olympics and see the freshmen and sophomores divided in preparation for the annual class fight, you will certainly be impressed by the spirit and unity manifested by the two classes. It is their opportunity to become acquainted with one another and with the essentials of cheering, whether it be their class scrapper or their own efforts. Nebraska is not ready to discard the annual class scrap.

Student Opinion.

Contributions to this column are very welcome and invited. Student opinion is valuable to the editorial staff of the paper, consequently we welcome it.

Dear Editor:

We have read with ire in our hearts the fact that rumors are going the rounds intimating that "our team" is not doing all in its power for the school. We hope that the team does not think this is the sentiment of the student body. Cannot some way be arranged so that we can show them that we do not approve it and are on the other hand back of "our boys" to the man? Must "our team" prepare for the Notre Dame game with the feeling that the student body is not pushing? Allow us to get out and show the team that we admire their work, their fighting spirit, and their efforts to put old Nebraska on top of the pile. Must we wait until the whistle sends our team against Notre Dame to show the boys that we have the old spirit and are "carrying on"? It should not be so. We are interested in every move they make in preparation for "the game of their lives." Why not arrange for a practice game next Saturday between the Freshmen and Varsity, and invite all of the student

RAG CARPET

Contributions Are Invited

The Rag Doll says that the most interesting feature of looking over the new directory is finding out the new ways to spell your name.

Since this cold weather spell we have a feeling that the freshmen will win the Olympics since the exposed portions of the youthful domes are not frost proof.

Wanted—A Ford by a young lady with a self starter.

We suggest importing a few men from the stockyards to help load the students into U-Hall during the rush.

She tried to run, she could not stir, And terror struck her dumb. "I'm caught in a deadly clutch," she cried, "I stepped on a wad of gum."

body that wishes to turn out and cheer the team onward toward Notre Dame? Do it and then every last one of you Cornhuskers of our Fighting Team watch us turn out and see if our spirit is not right.

Fight, Nebraska, Fight! Disregard rumors. Do not think that they express the sentiment of the student body, and put under your headgears the fact that we know your hearts are for Nebraska, and our hearts are loyal and true to the team that is carrying the banner of the Scarlet and Cream.

Why doesn't some enterprising student start a bus line from Library to Bessey hall?

Grey's elegy "On a Churchyard" was probably written in Lincoln during the summer time.

They are putting the names of the counties on the new capitol. Let's rejoice that we have none named Guggenlocker or Razinsputsky.

Why pick on me? said the pocket-book to the pickpocket.

We are sore at the proofreader because he won't make any funny mistakes for us to call attention to. We are still wondering what was meant though when they stated that the stiffness of a football player's neck recently interfered with the velocity of his head.

OCTOBER NUMBER OF BLUE PRINT ISSUED

Articles by Faculty Members and Students Included in Magazine.

The October issue of the Blue Print, publication of the Nebraska student chapter of the American Association of Engineers, appeared yesterday. It contains several articles written by students and faculty members.

"Modern Electrical Advancement" is the subject of an article by Dean O. J. Ferguson. He discusses the progress made in different phases of electrical development. F. J. Moles operator of the University radio station, has written a description of the Nebraska station. Homer B. Kinsinger, a student, is the author of an article in which he discusses several new systems of electric fire alarms. An interview with Hon. L. D. Richards of Fremont on the power possibilities of the Platte river and a description of the new low temperature laboratory in the basement of the Mechanical Engineering building complete the list of major articles appearing in this issue.

Knox F. Burnett, general manager, is at the head of the staff, which is publishing the Blue Print this year. James D. Marshall is editor and Noel Smith business manager. The circulation manager is Roy Randolph.

Professor Almy of the Physics department, was in Omaha last week visiting B. J. Spencer who is ill in the medical hospital there. Mr. Spencer, who is demonstrator in the physics department, has been ill since early in August.

JAPANESE PROFESSOR TO LEAVE FOR EAST

Professor Nazura, Guest of Dr. Poole, is in America to Study Spoken English

Prof. Giro Nagura, who has been visiting at the home of Doctor R. J. Pool, left for Chicago and the East Monday. Professor Nagura is connected with the English department of a Japanese state college, and has been sent by the Japanese government to study spoken English and increase his knowledge of the language.

He attended the home coming celebration and the dedication of the Memorial stadium, and gave a talk at a recent meeting of the faculty men's dinner club. He was especially interested in the fact that Lincoln and the University have been developed in little more than half a century.

Professor Nagura has translated about forty English volumes into Japanese. He is now translating Japanese poetry and stories into English.

"The Japanese language," said Professor Nagura in a speech to Dr. Poole's classes, is made up of one hundred thousand symbols. Until two years ago, children in the public schools were required to learn six thousand symbols but this has been cut down to two thousand. The Japanese children are rapidly learning English and I predict that in a few years the universal language of Japan will be English. The Roman numerals are now used in accounting and mathematics.

"The symbols that are so confusing to your people, represent syllables, and are combined to express thoughts," he stated. "Our language is founded on reasoning. For instance, the symbol for women, when written in a group means 'noisy.' The reason is easily understood.

"The Japanese business men," said Dr. Nagura, "wear American clothes during the day in Yokohama and Tokio, but changes to his traditional garb in the evening." Dr. Nagura followed this custom during his visit in Lincoln. His gowns were decorated with his family crest which has been in existence for fifteen centuries.

Style

FROM raw silk to cravat this tie is a "Cheney" throughout, in quality, pattern and style. This means that the silk is Cheney made; that the pattern is wrought by Cheney's master designers; that the colors are rich and popular—that the style is the last word in up-to-date men's fashions.

The name CHENEY on the neckband guarantees quality of material and workmanship and "correctness" in every detail.
