ONWARD TO AMES.

The fighting Irish have been decisively defeated and Nebraska has shown that she has that great force that Notre Dame dreads, and that is, fight. That morale and aggressiveness, even when odds were overwhelmingly against Nebraska, has often been mentioned as typically Nebraskan and it is for the students to keep that mention before the eyes of the world.

Ames must be met Saturday. The Cyclones were here on the sidelines, and they saw the Huskers crush Notre Dame. They have been spurred on to beat Nebraska. It can be done, but it shall not be done.

Do not concede anything. Do not grant that Nebraska is going to beat Ames. But continue that old fight, students. Keep up the singing and rooting. Keep the spirit moving.

In a report published Monday, Walter Eckersall of Chicago states that Notre Dame was tired when she played the Cornhuskers. We acknowledge that Walter Eckersall knows football, but he has about ten thousand students to convince that Notre Dame could beat Nebraska any place or any time.

NEWSPAPER PROFESSIONALISM

You speak of the danger of professionalism in football, you fear the advance of commercialism, but every day there are middle-western college newspapers coming to this office, published in editions of from eight to thirty-two pages. Is there enough wealth and news in any university or college in the United States to merit a newspaper that would be competition for many city dailies?

The Daily Nebraskan, a publication that makes no attempt to follow the heels of commercialism, has been commended many times upon its strictly University purpose. The paper, dedicated to the service of the institution, and published expressly to allow an outlet for acknowledgment of University activity, has been directed into channels that are far from those of commercialism.

It is for the readers to decide the policy of the paper, and, since there has been no indication that a metropolitan tendency would be welcome, the Daily Nebraskan has not chosen to deviate from that course which it has followed for many years.

YOUR DUTY TO NEBRASKA.

It is an abusive and a more or less unfair subject, but the use of intoxicants as a means of celebration of University events is nothing short of deplorable. Homecoming and the recent victory are two examples that deserve a sweeping broadside, one that will not mention the physical results, one that will not mention the mental effects, but one that concerns the honor of this institution.

College papers, the only external voice of the students of most institutions, are expressing a measure of alarm and regret that there is surely an evil that must be clipped short and hurled from the very vicinity of educational institutions.

Nebraska (for she too must have her name connected with those of the offenders), cannot afford to have her mighty dignity and her fair name associated with the deplorable habits of those who laugh at discretion, assume no responsibility, and call themselves Cornhuskers.

This is a formative period, this is a time when no student can allow himself to set precedents or follow customs that not only concern him but also concern his fellow students. It is not reform that is needed, it is not better education, it is merely a duty to the University of Nebraska, the institution that every student is proud to claim as his own.

THINGS TO WORRY OVER.
If a cat can get through an open all over America, show a tendency to allow the other fellow to play while they watch. The gigantic stadiums and the great sum expended upon athletics by many institutions are sharp indications of that very fact.

There is no objection to a magnificent stadium, certainly it is a credit, but the fault asserts itself when but few students enter athletics.

Encouragement of intra-mural sports would give men and women a chance for a more vital interest in sports. Much has been done to encourage men to enter the inter-fraternity, inter-college, and inter-class track meets. Women are taking up many forms of athletics. But still there isn't enough. There should be something for every student and every student should enter something. There should be more interest in the tra-mural sports together with the inter-collegiate sports.

WHERE CREDIT IS DUE.

In that defeat Saturday that will always be mentioned as one of the greatest games in Cornhusker history, there were eleven Cornhuskers on the field fighting for the glory of Nebraska and there was another on the sidelines fighting for that same glory. It was Coach Dawson. Perturbed by the lies that have been circulating among the scandal mongers, that there was fraternity politics within the team, the coach branded the lies as false and proved to the world that his assertions were true, by outwitting and outplaying the famous Rockne.

Behind that team that beat "the best in America" there was that force of the Nebraska coach. There was an evidence of his skill and his power in every play. It was a Dawson-Rockne game and it was the best of the football year. That combination presented the football world with the highest type of football on the Nebraska field Saturday afternoon.

To Coach Dawson, one of Nebraska's real Cornhuskers, there is a great measure of credit due for the victory Saturday.

Student Opinion.

Contributions to this column are very welcome and invited. Student opinion is valuable to the editorial staff of the paper, consequently we welcome it.

To the Editor:

In a recent communication to the Nebraskan I took a freshman severely to task for failure to subscribe to the stadium fund though apparently quite able to do so. I have since learned, that, before the publication of this article, the young man had done his share, and therefore take this opportunity of expressing my deep regret over my hasty rush into print.
