

Varsity Resumes Scrimmage With Frosh As Aggies

First String Battles Yearlings Tuesday in Preparing for Iowa Contest.

Ames Plays of Little Avail Against Huskers

Scrimmage was resumed in the Cornhusker training camp Tuesday afternoon when the first string regulars faced the freshman pigskinners in preparation for the Ames Aggie conflict Saturday.

Monday was spent by the freshmen in perfecting Ames' plays and formations presented to them in chart form by Coach Owen Frank, who scouted the Ames-Drake combat a week ago. In yesterday's workout the frosh vainly attempted execution of these formations. The varsity gridsters were still fighting and they insist they are going to fight until the moleskins have been hung up for the last time this year.

Watch Huskers.
The farmers from Ames were sideline participants in the Nebraska-Notre Dame game and everyone of them watched every move that their respective opponents made. Consequently the Husker machine will have some handicap. But Coach Dawson always has plenty of new plays and formations, so the Ames squad may waste time in preparing and concentrating their time on defensive work against those particular Huskers. Ames is planning to give the Huskers the battle of a lifetime and with that for their objective they have started practice this week with a jump.

Learn New Plays.
All of their injured men have had two weeks in which to recuperate and Monday found them all in moleskins, raring to go. The second string was sent against the freshman in a tough scrimmage while the first string spent most of their time in an intensive signal drill and the mastering of new plays. Toward the close of the workout they were sent into the scrimmage line.

All of the Huskers with the exception of Dave Noble were scrimmaging with the yearlings in yesterday's grid grind.

A stiff workout and scrimmage is on the slate for Wednesday and Thursday, and early Friday the squad will entrain for the Iowa State school where they will endeavor to duplicate their performance of last year.

Speed "Cops" Are Charged With Non-Use of Pure, Unsoiled Diction

To the college student who has had intensive training, the ignorance of the average policeman is appalling. Indeed, although we must be careful when we get in the region of cold facts and simple statistics, we are able to inform our large reader following that not a single policeman in either Omaha, Lincoln, or Fremont (a special investigator left this afternoon for Grand Island), is a doctor of philosophy or has written a treatise for his master's degree. This charge, of course, is so serious that it is not made lightly. We are prepared to furnish names and license numbers to interested persons.

The speed "cops" are the worst offenders in the matter of pure and unsoiled diction. It is especially annoying to be brought up quickly with an ungrammatical sentence like the following:

"Hey, you egg, where dya get that ole stuff speedin'. Jam on yer brakes, yuh dub, and pull up ter the curbin'."

To an ear finely adjusted in rhetoric a sentence like that causes nearly as much anguish as the ten dollars and costs. Imagine Officer Gross addressing Mr. Blank that way! Of course, it is unknown whether Mr. Blank has a car, or if he did have a car whether he would speed, but at rate, kind reader, just imagine it! Suppose that instead of using such barbarisms and slang, the cop had

Kosmet Offers Prize for Best Criticism of Campus-life Cartoon

Sperry Chosen Editor of Kornhusker Kadet

Staff of Military Sheet to Be Made Up of Juniors in the Department.

Charles Sperry has been appointed editor of the "Kornhusker Kadet" the pep sheet put out by the military department twice a month, and issued free to all cadets in the regiment.

The staff is to be made up only of juniors in the military department and several have already signified their desire to be members. Any junior who desires to be on the staff should make his application to Cadet Second Lieutenant Sperry at once.

The first issue of this paper was put out before the Notre Dame game and proved popular among the cadets. "The sheet is designed to unify the cadet regiment, the largest organization of undergraduates in school," stated Robert F. Craig, cadet colonel.

700 to Ames November Issue of Journal Distributed

Much of Space Is Devoted to News of Stadium and Athletics.

The November issue of the University Journal, published monthly by the Alumni Association, devotes much of its space to stadium and athletic news. Snapshots of Nebraska girls in the formation of "NU" and "KU" on the stadium field at the Kansas game appear on the cover. The tabulation of Notre Dame's scores this season is inserted in the magazine.

The stadium dedication address, delivered by C. R. Richards, president of Lehigh University, is printed in part with cuts of several of the speakers.

"Nebraska football in history" appears as well as the record of the season's accomplishments.

"The Veteran Professor" is the subject on which Chancellor Avery writes in the "Chancellor's Corner." He presents the problem of pension for retired professors to the alumni readers.

The latter part of the magazine is given over to class and personal items

Take Pictures for Year Book

Seniors, Juniors, and Sorority Women May Make Appearances at Dole's.

Next Ten Days for Individual Settings

Individual pictures for the 1924 Cornhusker have been arranged for and may be taken within the next ten days at Dole's Studio, 1125 O, according to David G. Richardson, business manager. Seniors, juniors, and sorority girls, must have the individual photographs.

Appointment for sittings may be made today by phoning the studio. The purpose of having the student pictures made earlier than usual is that more time will be available for artistic arrangement.

The contract for the big book was let to the Dole Studio again this year, because of the exceptional service and high quality work that was completed last year. The studio has excellent equipment, the Cornhusker management said, and Dole will be the official photographer of the 1924 annual.

"Another reason for having the pictures made earlier is that we have so many requests to have them taken before Christmas, so that all who wish may have copies made for Christmas gifts," said Robert Craig, editor.

The editorial staff has been hard at work for the past month and the preliminary arrangements for the big annual are completed. The staff is beginning now on the details of the different sections, and work is progressing rapidly.

Marvin Speaks to Freshmen

Head of Physics Department Outlines Field of Natural Science.

Physical Science is Subject of Lecture

"Frontiers of Physics" was the subject of the lecture given by Prof. H. H. Marvin, head of the department of physics, before the freshman lecture students of the College of Arts and Sciences Monday evening and Tuesday morning. His talk was a general survey of the field of physical science, with stress placed upon the advances made in recent years.

To illustrate his lecture, Professor Marvin used experiments with laboratory apparatus and diagrams of other apparatus commonly used.

"The aim of natural science is to investigate the phenomena of nature and to classify those phenomena, grouping them under a few general laws," declared the speaker. "The natural sciences divide into two classes, those dealing with living matter, the biological, and those dealing with inert matter, the physical."

Names Important Discoveries.
The most important discoveries in the field of physics during the past thirty years are electrons, the evaporation of electrons from hot metals when the metals are charged with negative electricity, the X-ray, and radio activity, he said.

Electrons, said Professor Marvin, are very minute particles of matter negatively charged with electricity. The mass of an electron is about one-eighteenth hundredth part of the mass of an atom of hydrogen.

X-ray was discovered in 1895 by Roentgen, a German chemist and amateur photographer. One day when he was experimenting with the vacuum tube he was called out of his laboratory. He placed the tube, still glowing from the electrical charge, upon a cardboard box containing camera plates. When the plates were developed he found on them the impression of his laboratory key which had been on top of the box. He experimented and found the principals of the X-ray.

Frosh Tryout This Week to Represent Class in Olympics

With the annual Olympic games but a week and a half off the freshmen have set this week for tryouts. Today at 3 o'clock in the Armory the green capsters interested in mitswinging and mat work will fight to be chosen class selections. The tryouts will be judged by varsity mentors in the boxing and wrestling departments. All first-year men are urged to try out in order to make the representatives the cream of the '27 division.

Innocents List Events and Points; No "Hazing" Before 9:00, Nov. 23.

Rules governing the Olympics to be held in the stadium Saturday, November 24, have been given out by the Innocents. No "hazing" of any sort will be permitted before 9 p. m. Friday, November 23. All men with twenty-three or less hours may participate as freshmen. All men with less than fifty-two or more than twenty-three hours may fight for the sophomores. Men who took part as freshman last year but have less than twenty-three hours may enter as sophomores.

The following events will be held:

Points	Points
Push ball	25
Flag rush	25
Tug of war	10
Relay, 400 yards	10
Boxing, 145 pounds	5
Boxing, 158 pounds	5

Wrestling, 145 pounds	5
Wrestling, 158 pounds	5
Wrestling, 175 pounds	5

The traditional class scrap between the freshmen and sophomores determines whether the freshmen shall discard their emerald headgears or continue to wear them throughout the winter.

Two years ago a custom was founded when the freshmen burned their green caps on the athletic field between halves of the homecoming game, having won the Olympics. This year because the stadium was dedicated home coming day the Olympics were postponed until the day of the Nebraska-Syracuse game. Provided the freshmen win there will be a bonfire of caps at that game.

700 to Ames Lecturer Visits Dental College

Dr. Francis Scott Weir, lecturer in the educational department of the Dentsply Dental Manufacturing company, was the guest of Dr. Schmidt of the College of Dentistry yesterday morning. Dr. Weir examined the methods of the college and the work of the students. He is on his annual trip from New York, visiting the dental colleges of the west and middle-west. Many of last year's graduates visited the college Saturday and Monday. Among them were Drs. E. M. Leith, O. K. Brt, S. P. Vail, H. L. Kennedy, A. E. Carr, and J. Peters. The school is glad to see the old grads and extends a hearty invitation to the old men, the dean said following their visit.

Military Carnival to Break Loose On Night Before Orange Game

The night before the Syracuse game the annual military carnival will break loose in the Armory under the auspices of Scabbard and Blade, honorary military organization. It is said that the Armory still echoes from the six shooters and dying man's screams of a year ago when the last carnival was called to a halt because the Klondyke ran out of money.

This year Monroe Gleason, general manager, promises that the carnival will be more Wyoming than ever, that the girls will be more beautiful and more numerous, that the bar will be longer, and that the games of chance will be easier. Hundreds of pounds of western paraphernalia are being ordered for the thousands who are

Ames Game Is Crucial Point in Grid Season

Victory Over Notre Dame Brings Back Prestige to Huskers.

Need Decisive Valley Win to Stay on Top

Saturday's game with Ames marks a crucial point in Nebraska's football schedule. A win over Notre Dame went a long way in gaining back prestige in national football circles, but a decisive win over a Valley eleven is necessary to place the Huskers on top.

No one who saw the torchlight parade Friday evening, and heard the animated cheering at the Notre Dame game, can doubt that it was the student loyalty to the team that made possible the victory over Rockne's eleven. That same pep and spirit are expected to enable the team to win the Ames game Saturday by such a decisive score that the ownership of the Valley will no longer be in doubt.

Special to Ames.
An opportunity to support the team and to see one of the best Valley games of the year is offered to Nebraska students by the running of a special train to Ames. At least 700 students should go to Ames to back the team. The day of the Nebraska game will be Homecoming day at Ames and their big game of the season.

The Innocents will have charge of the train and they have turned over the ticket sale to the Corncobs, who will start an active selling campaign today. Tickets for the special are $10.70 for a journey of over 500 miles. The train leaves Lincoln at 6 a. m. Saturday arriving at Ames shortly before noon. The game will start at 2:30. The return train will leave in the evening following all the activities of the day, arriving in Lincoln sometime during the night.

Reserved Seats.
Reserved seat tickets for the game can be procured at Latsch Brothers or at the athletic office. All Nebraska rooters will sit together in a special reserved section. The game is attracting much attention in Iowa and a capacity crowd is expected.

So that somewhere near the exact number of seats to be reserved can be known it is asked that all students reserve their seats early. It will be necessary for the Corncobs to know by Thursday evening the number who will be on the special.

Besides the student delegation, the freshman football squad and the band will make the trip. Monroe Gleason, head cheer leader, will be at the game to organize the rooters. Student leaders are urging that you be one of the 700 to Ames.

700 to Ames Interfraternity Council to Send Representative to National Conference

The interfraternity council held its first meeting Sunday afternoon and voted to send a representative to the national interfraternity conference to be held in New York November 30 and December 1. A vote will be taken at each fraternity house this week to verify the decision.

Zeta Beta Tau was admitted to the council. The council will meet at a luncheon on the first Monday of each month.

expected to attend the annual event. Militarism will be superseded by quickest-on-the-draw law. Sheriffs with great shining stars will arrest the man who shoots from the hip or who throws bottles without aiming carefully.

More Spanish dancers are being signed up every day to be at the carnival to dance the tango with the Valentinos, more cowboys have signified their intentions of letting their herds go over the cliffs while they park their horses and their knives outside, and a second order has been sent in for fruit of the bar.

A complete list of bars, gambling devices, and denominations of money accepted will be announced later.
