

Proposes Selection Tests For Prospective Students

Dean Kent of Northwestern University says that the day of selectivity in the choice of college students has arrived. Each student can judge for himself on four things:

First. How good a student were you in high school? Your standing in high school, both in scholarship and school activities, is a great factor in your university entrance. If you were a good scholar in high school the chances are that you will be a fairly good university student.

Second. What can you do in college? Will you be a credit to the school you attend or will you be a hindrance to its advancement? Are you alert mentally? Dean Kent suggests a number of alertness tests as measures of the student's mental alertness. The result of these tests would not be an absolute test of the student's mentality nor would it prevent him from attending school but it would be at least a basis for judging him.

Third. What about your health? To attend classes three hours a day, study on the average of six hours a day, keep up all campus activities, and in some cases earn money outside each week requires that the student be physically fit.

Last of all and perhaps the most important question is: what sort of a person are you? Do you play fair or are you a cheat? Are you a leader in high school. Remember that "the fellow who plays the game square, who does not cheat his fellow students by dishonesty in class and who is loyal to his school is the man the colleges like to build on."

PUBLISHES REPORT ON RETAIL COAL BUSINESS

Research Committee of College of Business Administration Publishes Report

(University News Service.) "Trade Practices and Costs of the Retail Coal Business in Lincoln, Nebraska, in 1922," the title of Bulletin No. 7 issued by the committee on business research of the College of Business Administration, presents an analysis of conditions in the coal business on the basis of data collected by questionnaires and personal interviews.

The bulletin states that the operating expenses of five representative dealers decreased slightly more than one per cent while net profit decreased one and one-half per cent. The net returns varied from a loss of 2.17 per cent to a profit of 2.39 per cent on the basis of sales. Net returns on the amount of invested capital ranged from a loss of 21.95 per cent to a profit of 11.38 per cent, and averaged 1.87. In a thirty-four-year period the average life of retail coal firms has been 4.5 years, while half of the firms lived on an average only 2.3 years.

PRINTING PLANT TO PUBLISH BLUE BOOK

Legislative Reference Bureau Publication Put in Charge of Reports

The legislative reference bureau blue book is to be published soon by the University printing plant, according to an announcement made by the Board of Regents following their meeting Saturday morning. This is the first time that the blue book has been printed under the direction of the Board of Regents.

The book is to be paid for by the board out of a special appropriation. It is not the intention of the regents to print in the University plant any material except that which is paid for out of its own funds, declared Chancellor Avery following the meeting.

Council to Hold Regular Meetings

Future meetings of the interfraternity council are to be regular according to a motion passed at the last meeting. On the first Monday in every month a meeting will be held at the Chamber of Commerce club rooms at 12 o'clock. Matters of importance to every fraternity will be discussed. This plan is expected to help in making attendance perfect.

Most popular college sport

"As I look back on my college days," said the old grad, "it strikes me there were more men playing blind man's buff than all other games combined. I understand this is still the case.

"Get me straight. It was no child's play. What we were groping around for was pretty serious business—nothing less than a career.

"Too many men are in the dark as to what they will do after graduation. Either they neglect to specialize in anything, or hastily select a major which they afterwards regret.

"I know I would be considerably ahead in business if back at college I had sat down for a few hours' earnest thought to find out just what work I liked best—and then gone in for it heart and soul.

"Pick the thing that appeals to you, and don't let them tell you that particular line is overcrowded. Talk this over with graduates you know. Talk it over with your professors. Talk it over with the industrial representatives next Spring. Most of all, talk it over with yourself.

"The main thing is to get on the right track and to keep going. There's no fun in being 'It' in the game of life, with every change in fate ready to push you off an uncertain course."
