SUBSCRIBE TODAY.

The sales campaign for the 1924 Cornhusker began yesterday. Before the campaign closes Friday, every student and faculty member will have an opportunity to subscribe for the Cornhusker. The goal for the campaign is 3,000 copies sold.

Of course every student wants a Cornhusker, which in future years will represent Nebraska to him, and be an everglowing account of the activities and life of his college career. An examination of the plans and work on the 1924 Cornhusker however, make this yearbook even more desirable and worthwhile to the student than past yearbooks.

The 1924 Cornhusker will be more than an annual. It will be a memory book, filled with the close personal touch that will make it appeal to every loyal Husker. In it campus activities are to be accurately and fully portrayed, a more inclusive picture of the life of the Cornhusker institution during the 1923-24 year will be given, and new and noteworthy features will be found in every section.

The "Historical Section" will be a feature never before attempted in the Cornhusker. This section, with its story of the founding and development of the University, will give the students a new appreciation and consciousness of the great University of which they are a part. The origin and the history of Nebraska's ever cherished traditions, as explained in the book, will give these customs a new meaning and a greater significance to the undergraduate.

Besides these outstanding features, the Cornhusker will show improvement on every page. The class sections will be more representative, the athletic section will recall tense moments on the playing field, and the student life section will provide more laughs per line than ever before.

Nebraska is to play Notre Dame at the home of the "Irish" team next year. Altho Nebraska supporters would like to see the Catholic team come here again next year, it is obviously only fair that the Huskers journey to the home of the Indiana eleven, since the last two contests between these teams have been played at the home of the Cornhuskers. Then too, we imagine that Irish fans would like to get a first-hand view of the team that has taken the measure of the pride and joy of their life for the past two years.

ARE YOU HAPPY?
Everyone can be happy if he tries. If you have a critical, unsatisfied attitude, change it and make the best of the lot that befalls you. One should not be discouraged if his plans are thwarted but he should put forth even more effort in trying to obtain his chosen ideal.

Do you have an ideal? A goal or purpose toward which to work brings happiness. Students who make their school work center around some definite aim for accomplishment are more contented than those with no plan in mind. Following such a course and avoiding discouragement which follows all endeavor, leads to contentment. The possibilities of the future to be realized by diligent effort make for happiness. It is your duty to yourself and to your friends to pursue such a policy.

UNEDUCATED COLLEGIANS
Dr. Alexander Mielckjohn, former president of Amherst college, tells an audience in New York that America has neither proper appreciation of education nor a proper system for developing it. That will be a shock to many of the millions of college graduates in this country, and to many other complacent persons, but there is something in it.

Education is coming to mean in this county something a young man or woman can find on a university campus and carry away as he or she carries away a sheepskin. Hundreds of thousands of our young people are going to these institutions annually and remaining for four years, after which they leave with the idea that they are educated because they can, perhaps, read Herodotus or Anatole France in the original, and differentiate scientifically and safely between ethyl and methyl alcohol. The fact is that no knowledge of languages, history, literature, and science, however great, constitutes education.

Dr. Meikeljohn says, and we believe he is right, that true education "is the teaching of people to be free and yet to live together side by side in excellence." That is, the young man or woman who is truly educated not only has attained the knowledge outlined in the academic curriculum, but has developed a mind with which to apply that knowledge in daily intercourse with mankind. There is too little of that. Education ought to teach people to think as well as to know. It is more essential to use the brain as a productive machine than as a filing cabinet.

When minds are stocked with information, and trained to use that information for the improvement of the conditions of life, we will become an educated people, and not until then. It is not sufficient to know a thing. We must be able to apply knowledge. The degree of controlled activity of the human mind and character is the exact degree of excellence in education. Too many college graduates are less well educated than high school graduates four years their junior.—Chicago Tribune.

The three weeks remaining between now and the Christmas vacation offer an opportunity for conscientious scholastic effort that should not be overlooked by students, especially those who may be low in one or more subjects.

Student Opinion.
Contributions to this column are very welcome and invited. Student opinion is valuable to the editorial staff of the paper, consequently we welcome it.

To the Editor:
When I glanced over one of the Sunday Lincoln papers, my attention was called to the statement by one of the staff of that paper as to the probable choice for football captain now that Dewitz had been declared ineligible. Out of the twelve or thirteen men eligible for captaincy, this writer included but three or four as possible captains evidently deciding that the other men weren't worth consideration.

While the University has always appreciated the support that is given University athletics by the Lincoln papers, it seems that they are going a little too far when they begin to pick captains for our athletic teams. If at any time the University deems it necessary to call upon outside assistance in selecting its athletic captains, it will secure the services of those who it believes capable in assisting in these selections.
