RIFLE TEAM HAS HEAVY SCHEDULE

Forty-five Colleges and Universities Accept Nebraska's Challenge.

FIRINGS TO BE MADE EARLY IN NEW YEAR

Forty-five colleges and universities have accepted Nebraska's challenge for rifle matches to be held this winter. The schools are scattered from the Atlantic coast to the Pacific, and will be met in telegraphic meets by Nebraska during a period of nine weeks extending from January 12 to March 15.

The first group of colleges in the west ending January 12 will include eastern schools in the New England states. Each week the schools met will be farther west, ending up on March 15 with a match against eight universities on the Pacific coast.

The all-university rifle team representing Nebraska will consist of thirteen men, the ten highest scores counting in the matches. The scores made by Nebraska in each week's shooting will count against all the schools met that week.

The shooting at each school will be carried out by regular army officers detailed to the university K. O. U. C.

The rifles used will be standard United States army .22 caliber gallery rifles, single shot. The range will be the standard indoor range of 50 feet.

Huskea Is Coach.

Captain Huskea, director of marksmanship in the university K. O. U. C., is coach of the rifle team and has arranged the schedule.

High men in the all-university team will represent Nebraska in the seventh corps area matches to be held later in the year, and the high men in the area will probably be entered in the national rifle meet held in summer.

Inter-Company Matches.

Inter-company matches are being shot off next week. Most of the teams have already been chosen and the fellows are practicing in the gallery now. Seven men compose the company team. The five highest scores will be counted.

After the inter-company meets are over Captain Huskea plans to have an inter-fraternity tournament. Last year such a tournament was held and a skin awarded to the winner. A similar prize will be given this year to the fraternity with the highest score.

The showing of the men in the inter-company and inter-fraternity meets together with their practice shooting on the gallery will determine in the next month or so those who will make up the all-university rifle team.

The schools that accepted Nebraska's challenge and the week in which they shoot with Nebraska are listed below:

NO CORSAGES IS RULE FOR MILITARY BALL

Large Amount of Decorations Is Being Used to Bedeck the Hall.

No corsages at the Military Ball is a ruling of the Cadet Officers' Association. This applies to students as well as officers and anyone bringing corsages will be asked to leave them at the door.

Plans for the ball are in full swing and the decorations are fast nearing completion. There will be 10,000 feet of crepe streamers used at the ball, 350 yards of wire, 100 pounds of confetti, 1,000 rolls of serpentine, 500 balloons, and four pounds tacks will all be used in the novel scheme of decorating the hall. Around the walls will be a motley array of machine guns, crossed sabers and rifles, and one-pounders.

The chief interest in the ball settles around the presentation of the honorary colonel which will take place in the early part of the evening. After the lucky girl is announced she will lead the grand march in company with the cadet colonel.

CORNHUSKER BANQUET TOASTMASTER CHOSEN

Annual Football Dinner Will Be Held at Scottish Rite Temple—Tickets $1

John D. Clark, '05, vice president of the Standard Oil company of Indiana, is to be the toastmaster at the annual Cornhusker banquet, which will be held Friday evening, December 14 at the Scottish Rite Temple. This banquet, which has become a tradition at the University, is given in honor and appreciation of the football team and the work it has done for the school.

The Innocents are in charge of the dinner and they say that as the Temple has been enlarged since last year, about 1500 men can be accommodated. They have been at work for some time and according to Kenneth Cozier, general chairman, the banquet is to "be bigger and better than ever before." There will be two orchestras playing during the meal, the Kandy Kids and the Serenaders.

All the speakers have not yet been decided upon, but it is assured that Captain Lewellen and Coach Schulte will be on the list and if Coach Dawson returns, he will also talk. In the past all fraternities have closed their tables that night so that their members can attend, and the same will be done this year.

The tickets will go on sale next week, each fraternity being allotted thirty-five of the pastebords, while the Iron Sphinx and the Vikings will have charge of the sale on the campus. The price will be one dollar.

Your Days of Romance

School had just closed. She walked to the station with him and both felt that those wonderful college days were soon to be but memories—idle thoughts punctuated by recollections that threaten to follow the course of time and disappear. What could stop fleeting moments?

Nothing interferes with the progress of time, but time must leave a record. It was a consolation for both of them. There was a record—a complete record that would bring back every individual happening, every interesting event, and every memory of the days that were ending.

He was leaving for the east to take a position. She was remaining at Nebraska to be graduated. Thousands of miles would separate them for many months. Letters were promised, photographs had long since been exchanged—but among strangers, he needed more than that—he needed a Cornhusker and he had it. He was taking a friend with him, a friend that would tell him of his last year at Nebraska. It was his 1924 Cornhusker.

You, freshman, sophomore, junior, or senior, will some day be leaving the old Cornhusker school to enter your work. Do you want to forget your college career or do you want to have it recorded for you.

Cornhusker Office Staff Is Appointed

Ruth Small, office manager of the 1924 Cornhusker, announced the members of her staff as listed below. Work will begin immediately. Miss Small will be in the Cornhusker office from 4 to 5 o'clock every day except Tuesday.

BUYERS MAY RECEIVE REBATE ON ANNUALS

Business Manager Announces That Success of Campaign May Warrant Refund.

The price of the "Cornhusker of Progress," the 1924 yearbook of the University, originally set at $4.50, may be reduced fifty cents or more, in the form of a rebate when the book is issued, dependent upon the number of copies ordered in the sales campaign which began Monday and will continue until Friday, announces David G. Richardson, '25, Omaha, business manager.

cost" is the instruction of the Board of Regents under which the Student Publication Board operates. Limitation of salaries (in line with the practice at other middlewestern universities) and close supervision of the management of all student publications were adopted by the board last winter.

This limitation in the amount of money staff members may make out of their positions makes it possible this year for the first time for the board to consider a possible rebate to buyers of the "Cornhusker," after the costs of the enlarged book are met and the limited salaries of staff members are paid.

"Old Grads" Remembered.

Of interest, not only to present students but to students of former years, the yearbook will carry a motif of history dedicated to "Old Grads," says Robert F. Craig, editor-in-chief. Never before at the University, and perhaps never before in American colleges, has the place of the alumni occupied such a prominent position in the plans of an annual. Fifty-four years of activity at the University, with the record of every organization, will give the book a wide interest to graduates.

This added interest will not be gained at the expense of usual sections; for plans for the 1924 annual include an enlargement of the size of the book—both in page-size and number of pages. Most of the art work will be done by campus artists and the printing of the volume has been awarded to a Lincoln firm.

KORNHUSKER KADET TO BE ISSUED SOON

The "Holiday Number" of the Kornhusker Kadet will make its appearance in another week. According to Charles Sperry, editor, this number promises to be the best of those published thus far.

The staff of the Kornhusker Kadet is now completely organized.

VOTE IS CLOSE FOR HONOR LIST

Seniors Are Nominated for "Representative Nebraskan" Section.

ALPHA PHI LEADS OTHER SORORITIES IN SALES

Voting for the ten seniors for the "Representative Nebraskan" section of the 1924 Cornhusker aroused great interest as shown by the close count at the end of the second day of the subscription campaign.

The following twenty men and women were the ones receiving the greatest number of votes:

- Ruth Small
- Josephine Schramek
- Helen Kummer.
- Amy Martin.
- Gertrude Tomson.
- Emily Ross
- Edith Olds.
- Jean Holtz
- Zella Gilmore.
- Verne Lewellen.
- Kenneth Cozier.
- Grant Lantz.
- Addison Suton.
- Oliver Dirks.
- Stephen King.
- Howard Turner.
- David Noble.
- James Tyson.

Alpha Phi Leads

Alpha Phi was leading Alpha Theta by a slight majority in the subscription campaign, as shown by the results checked up last night. Following close behind them are the Kappas, who won last year, with Delta Delta Delta and Kappa Delta next.

The contest this year is closer than ever before and the winner cannot be assured until Friday noon when the campaign ends.

Winners of first and second places in the contest will be presented with a trophy book containing a gold leaf telling how they won the book. This book takes the place of skins or cups usually given as rewards in such contests.

The business staff urged all students to order their Cornhuskers this week so that the proper number of books may be ordered from the printers. Only a few extra copies will be on sale next spring and in order to insure getting a copy, subscriptions should not be put off.

Making Fine Progress

"The salesmen are making fine progress and are to be complimented on their work," stated David Richardson, business manager of the annual, last night. There are 250 students on the campus taking order and the goal they have set for themselves is 3500 copies by Friday noon.

"Students must remember in voting for the representative seniors to fill in all ten lines if they wish their vote counted," he added. This ruling is made in order to prevent campaigning for individual students. Ballot boxes have been placed in the College Book Store, University Hall, Social Science Building, and in the Agricultural college cafeteria.

The business manager wishes to meet all the college chairmen in the Cornhusker office at 2:30 this afternoon to talk over the sales campaign. All books should be checked in before five o'clock at the office in the basement of the University Hall.

FORM STUDENT LEAGUE OF WOMEN VOTERS HERE

Officers Are Elected at Convocation Held in Temple Tuesday.

Definite plans for the organization of a student league of women voters were perfected at the convocation for university women held Tuesday at 11 o'clock in the Temple theater. The purpose of this league, which is similar to those of other universities of the middlewest, is to teach women the responsibilities of the franchise.

The following officers of the proposed league were elected: President, Ruth Miller; vice president, Julia Sheldon; secretary, Lorna Plimpton; treasurer, Agnes Kessler; corresponding secretary, Dorothy Brown.

A tentative constitution was presented by Miss Julia Sheldon, chairman of the constitution committee. Further action in the formation of the organization will be taken at the meeting tonight in St. Paul church, when Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt will install the chapter.
