CRIME IS SUBJECT OF ADDRESS BY MATSON

Breaking Up of Home Develops
Criminals, County Attorney Says.

"Breaking up and letting down the home influence is responsible for the major amount of our crime today. In questioning a criminal in nearly every case I find that there was something wrong back in the home. The parents were divorced and often degenerates. The public schools can help the situation by teaching that manual labor is honorable," said County Attorney C. E. Matson Wednesday evening, speaking to the Figure and Compass Club, Masonic organization of university students, upon the subject "Crime and Criminals."

Numerous statistics were related by Mr. Matson, proving that the criminals of today are the younger men and women. "Forty-four and six-tenths per cent of persons committed to state institutions for the commission of crimes within the past two years were under eighteen when sent up. Eighty-eight and six-tenths per cent of those sent to the state reformatory and penitentiary were under thirty years of age. Of recent years there has been an alarming increase in crime among juveniles," were some of the outstanding points in the address.

Brigadier General Martin Hardin, U. S. A., retired, who was born in Morgan county, Illinois, June 26, 1837, died Wednesday. He was the last survivor of the class of 1859 from West Point.

G. A. LEE SPEAKS TO ENGINEERS' MEETING

Says That Attitude of Courts Has Encouraged Utility Companies.

"In the recent attitude of the courts all utility companies have, indeed, cause for hope, encouragement, for in recent years the courts have breathed and infused into the Fourteenth Amendment to the Federal Constitution a new life, vitality, meaning and significance that that amendment never had before," stated Mr. George A. Lee, Nebraska, A. B. '03, L. L. B., '05, now general counsel for the Continental Gas and Electric Corporation, at the monthly convocation of engineering students 11 o'clock Thursday.

Lecturing on the subject "The Legal Aspects of Engineering Practice," Mr. Lee discussed several of the most common phases of the connection of the law and engineering, and told of the steps necessary before the courts could recognize that utilities are really business enterprises.

All through the address the marked difference of the view of the law upon the public utilities of twenty and thirty years ago, and the last few years was apparent.

The way to discover the number of words in a woman's vocabulary is to show her another woman who has a hat just like hers.

Dean Sealock to Meet Prospective Teachers

Dean W. E. Sealock, director of the bureau of recommendations, desires to meet all prospective teachers for next year at 4 o'clock Friday or at 5 o'clock Tuesday in room 200 at Teachers College. Not only students in this college but students in all other colleges are requested to attend the conference. Dean Sealock expressed the desire that all who were able to come Friday should do so.

COLLEGE OF LAW IS GIVEN HIGH RATING

America Bar Association Puts It in "Class A" Among Law Schools.

The College of Law of the University is rated a "Class A" college among the standard law schools and colleges of the country, according to an announcement by the American Bar Association. Out of 146 law schools in the country, 39 are in Class A. This is the first year that such rating has been made by the association. The first step toward such classification was taken in 1921 when the association passed a resolution advocating that no one should take the bar examination who has not had two years of college training and three years in a standard law school.

The Nebraska College of Law anticipated final action on this resolution by adopting its provision in January, 1922; the recommendations of the association were adopted in the summer of that year; so that at present time Dean Warren A. Seavey is able to state: "We are complying with the requirements of the association in spirit and in letter and in spirit with the recommendations of the American Bar association."

The faculty of the College of Law strongly recommends that freshmen have more than two years of preparatory work, and in line with this policy over one-third of the freshman class this year have more than the two years of required Arts and Science work. It is pointed out that the two-year term is the minimum and not the desired maximum. One year of preparatory work was demanded for the first time in 1911.

LIVESTOCK RETURNS FROM CHICAGO SHOW

The livestock of the University of Nebraska, which won over $1,000 in premiums at the International Livestock Exposition in Chicago, returned this morning.

GIRLS' PARTY TO BE GIVEN TONIGHT

Prizes to Be Awarded for Funniest, Most Unique and Prettiest Costumes.

FIRST CELEBRATION HELD TEN YEARS AGO

Everything is prepared for the Girls' Cornhusker party at the Armory tonight.

The merry making will begin promptly at 7 o'clock and close at 10:30. It is urged by the committee in charge that all girls come early so that there may be no delay in the arrangements.

This is the tenth anniversary of the tradition of the Cornhusker party. The first party, given December 5, 1913, was not called a Girls' Cornhusker party, but was designated simply as an all-university party for girls. Since then this girls' party has been an annual affair. The first party was given under the auspices of the Girls' Club, which organization in 1918 became the present W. S. G. A. The committee in charge of the first party, which was held in the Armory, was composed of Florence Hill, Mildred Peery and Ruth Brownell.

Prizes are to be given for the funniest, the prettiest and the most unique costumes. Ruth Miller and Josephine Schramek are in charge of the affair.

Alumni Were No More Studious and Staid Than Students Today

Investigation proves that the "Old grads" didn't use quite all their time for study, much as they would prefer us to believe. Distracting influences ran riot on the campus then quite as effectively as now.

Ten years ago the evidence of fraternity probation had not disappeared from the university grounds. A certain fraternity freshman had received among his fellows the characterization "lady's man" the term was mildly abusive, rather in contrast to the hearty admiration bestowed to-day upon the fellow who can "get the women."

Probation week presented itself, and the Greek brethren took advantage of the chance to symbolize to the full their contempt for the activities of the attractive freshman: for five bitter days the victim was forced to carry a large satin cushion to every class and to persuade a pretty co-ed to avail herself of its comfort throughout the class session. A contemporary sorority pledge carried her share of probation tortures by replacing a handsome shell pin in her Moving Pictures and Music on Program; Fraternities Close Tables.

MAKE PREPARATIONS FOR 1,000 AT DINNER

All fraternity houses have ordered their tables closed this evening and members will attend the banquet. Tonight will be the final chance for Nebraska students to show their appreciation to the 1923 football team for their work on the gridiron during the past season. The committee of innocents in charge of the banquet wishes to announce that it will be over in plenty of time for Friday night dates.

Letter Men To Be Guests.

The twenty-one letter men of the Scarlet and Cream gridiron will be the honor guests at the banquet together with the coaches and assistants. Invitations have been sent to all former Nebraska football captains and several of the ex-players are expected to be present.

MISS INSKEEP SPEAKS ON RACIAL RELATIONS

Student Secretary of National Y. W. Board Addresses Forum Luncheon.

Miss Mildred Inskeep of Denver spoke to the World Forum luncheon Wednesday noon at the Grand hotel on "Racial Relations and the Christian Ideal." She showed by a number of illustrations how Americans disregard the belief of equality among races and treat people of foreign races as though they were not equal. She gave examples of the treatment of negroes in American colleges, and the small chance they and other foreigners have of gaining important positions which they are entitled to hold.

Miss Inskeep is student secretary of the National Board of Y. W. C. A.s, representing the Rocky Mountain region. She was a member of the American seminar in England last summer, and she represented the Y. W. C. A. at the student conference at Parat, Austria.

A. J. Hollingsworth, pastor of Tabernacle Christian church, will speak at the luncheon next Wednesday on the subject, "The Problem of Industry in America."
