most is the backing that loyal Nebraskans have achieved. He recalled an incident where one class had trouble in raising $5,000 for the pipe organ in the Armory. This seemed to be very trivial when the combined efforts of the state in recent years had made possible the building of the stadium.

Rev. Walter Aitken suggested that Nebraska football teams take a chaplain on its trips to foreign fields and jokingly said that he thought he could well fill the office. In his talk on "The Game and Life," he stated that a healthy body was necessary to success.

Captain Verne Lewellen gave a review of the past season and related a few sidelights which heretofore had been secrets.

Captain-elect Weir declared that he was unable to make a just prophesy of the season of 1924 but said that there was one thing sure—that Nebraska colors would be properly upheld.

COLORADO—Florenz Zeigfield, said to be the most famous judge of feminine pulchritude, will pick the prettiest girl in the beauty contest at the University of Colorado.

Nebraska Professor Exhibits Painting

The School of Fine Arts is represented in the fall exhibition of the Chicago Art Institute by Miss Hermine J. Stellar, associate professor of drawing and painting. She has contributed a painting under the title of "Grandmother." She was a teacher in the Chicago Art Institute before she came to the University of Nebraska.

MISSOURI—There are 115 former soldiers receiving vocational training in the University of Missouri. There are more men in training in Missouri schools than in any other state in this district. This can probably be accounted for by the fact that there are four schools in Missouri where agricultural training can be received.

FORMAL SEASON PROFITABLE TO JACOB BODINSKY

no place in town to rent one. He wouldn't go but then—she was expecting him. She was expecting him to wear a good looking tux. She was expect—

"Oy, and mebbe the muffler?" "Oy," continued the thoughts of the youth, "if I don't hurry you'll have it all."

"Where are they, the tuxes?" he asked aloud.

"Ah," Jacob rubbed his hands, "Right over here."

The young man walked toward the rack, a scowl on his brow. "I won't," he muttered, but singular to say twenty minutes later Jacob again sat alone and gazed at his stock. There were rings, watches, alarm clocks, typewriters, a coat, gloves, a muffler, a hat and a pair of shoes. The formal season had opened and Jacob Bodinsky rejoiced.
