HUSKERS OPEN CAGE SEASON NEXT WEEK

Basketball Squad to Meet Famous "Blue Diamonds" at Kansas City.

Basketball prospects are getting better day by day at the Husker school and the first practice game of the season comes December 29, in Kansas City against the best semi-pro team in the middlewest, namely the "Blue Diamonds." This team has a record that bears honor and they will function perfectly in endeavoring to take Nebraska's measure.

The squad will leave Lincoln the day after Christmas and go directly to Kansas City where they will have all the privileges of the K. C. A. C. and the use of the big gymnasium and basketball floor, on which they will hold all their practices up to the day of the first game.

Hardly any change has been made in the daily workouts. New plays are being mastered every day and the squads are going through their strenuous scrimmages. The combination that has been in action the last few days is Captain Usher, Cozier, Black, Tipton, Volz, Schroeder, Goodson, Close and Olds. There has been no special team used. Members of this group are picked and used in different combinations. The coaching staff is working to build an eight or ten man team.

Whenever a coach gets his team to working as well with one man at a certain position as it does when there is another one there he has accomplished the ultimate and that is the aim of Coach Kline.

The team will practice here Thursday, Friday and Saturday and will then have a short vacation. They will report again Wednesday to leave for Kansas City.

Valley Wrestling Meet to be Held at Ames in March

A Missouri Valley Conference wrestling meet will be held this year at Ames March 7 and 8, coaches and managers of the wrestling teams in the Valley schools decided at a meeting held two weeks ago at Kansas City.

Dr. Clapp, wrestling coach, said yesterday that Nebraska would be sure to send a team to this meet. Because the contract for the meet at Northwestern has not been returned he said, the schedule cannot be completed.

FROSH CAGEMEN HOLD YEAR'S LAST WORKOUT

Coach Frank Says First-year Men Will Not Practice Next Week.

Freshmen basketball candidates will be given their final workout before Christmas vacation tomorrow afternoon and according to Coach Owen Frank there will be no first year practice in the holidays as was announced several weeks ago. Yesterday afternoon the frosh mentor sent his proteges through a stiff drill consisting of more fundamentals including pivoting, dribbling, and floor work.

Six freshmen quintets have been reporting regularly and the average turnout so far this season has been better than that of the first-year candidates for several years. Following the Christmas vacation Coach Frank will resume practice and from then on the freshmen will probably scrimmage the varsity cagers daily. However, there will be no picked team of yearlings.

This evening another workout resembling that of Wednesday afternoon is carded with the final scrimmage coming Friday. Freshman material is gradually sifting into the limelight with nightly drubbings and several promising hoopmen are coming to the front as likely varsity prospects for next season.

Yesterday afternoon Coach Kline witnessed the brand of floor work exhibited by several fives and pronounced the court exhibition good for so early in the season. During the past few weeks the turnout has been so large that little individual instruction has been given but when play is resumed after vacation special attention will be given the frosh artists.

The freshmen will practice tonight at 7:30. Friday practice may be postponed. This will be decided tonight by the performers themselves, Coach Frank announced.

TROJANS TURN DOWN HUSKER GOLDEN OFFER

University of Southern California Officials Insist on Game at Los Angeles.

After being offered the golden end of the rule the University of Southern California turns back the offer because Nebraska insisted that the Trojans come east for Thanksgiving game next year. California could only see the football game in her own stadium next year and Nebraska, making the offer, insisted upon a Turkey day game in the Nebraska memorial stadium.

California football teams have but a few times given eastern teams a chance to meet them on foreign soil. The cry from the western coast is a Christmas or a New Year game, played many weeks after the season has closed and the men have fallen out of the football atmosphere. California is king of the forest west of the mountains, but the "Big Three" were the high men before they became democratic enough to allow promising invaders a place on their schedule.

A University of Southern California game at Nebraska next year would have almost equalled a Notre Dame game and would have probably been played under about the same conditions. The Trojans and Bears will probably always be bears as long as they stay west of the Rockies, but middle western invasions have proven disastrous to many proud football teams.

Education Director Addresses Ag Students

Mr. Fuller, director of state vocational education, addressed prospective teachers and vocational education students of the Agricultural College in Agricultural Hall Tuesday evening. His subject was "Nebraska's Program of Vocational Education."

After discussing the progress of vocational education and the prejudices against it because of its newness he developed the present program.

This program consists of a federal board of four members, a staff composed of a director, chief of agriculture, chief of trades and industries and a chief of home economics. Each state has a state board.

The Nebraska state board consists of Dean E. A. Burnett, Mr. Matzen, state superintendent of schools, and Governor Bryan.

The program in Nebraska is divided into three classes of schools. One is the day schools for student who have not entered their life work. Home economics schools are in this group. The night schools are for persons employed in business. These are mostly trade schools. The third class of vocational education schools holds part time classes for those who work part time.

A great deal of the present unrest is thought to be caused by persons who have dropped out of school. Figures show that only thirteen out of every hundred people are graduated from high school.

Style

FROM raw silk to cravat this tie is a "Cheney" throughout, in quality, pattern and style. This means that the silk is Cheney made; that the pattern is wrought by Cheney's master designers; that the colors are rich and popular—that the style is the last word in up-to-date men's fashions.

The name CHENEY on the neckband guarantees quality of material and workmanship and "correctness" in every detail.
