

INSTRUCTOR WRITES TEXT-BOOK ON LOGIC

C. H. Patterson Says His Book Will Show Practical Side of Logic.

C. H. Patterson of the Department of Philosophy, will publish soon a new text-book on logic. This book will deviate from the paths of the logic text-books now in common use. It is generally conceded by logicians that there is a place to be filled in beginning logic. The author has written the book with the idea of filling that vacancy.

"It will enable the students to see the practical value of logic in each field of science," says Mr. Patterson. "It will show them how the mind actually does work in solving these concrete problems."

Mr. Patterson's book contains specimens from most of the sciences taught on the campus. Each chapter is a series of specimens of some science with notes discussing the different methods of logical argument. The author has completed the first four chapters of his book. They are: The Discovery of Casual Relations in Bacteriology.

The Formulation of Scientific Laws in Physics.

Problems in Eugenics.

Development of Hypotheses in Astronomy.

To Write More Chapters.

Mr. Patterson expects to write at least three more chapters dealing with the logical methods as used in Economics, Sociology, and Law.

In the introduction to his book, Mr. Patterson says that "no discoveries which have been of great benefit to mankind have come about by mere chance observations. They have resulted from close and careful analysis of facts and from the activity of the mind in putting these facts together in an orderly fashion. The remarkable progress of the sciences in the last century has been brought about by mental labor from an effort to understand the relationship involved in concrete and apparently isolated data of experience."

Ag College Offers Courses for Public

Several departments of the Agricultural College will offer short courses for the general public during January. They will be limited to a week's time and will precede the regular winter short course of four and six weeks which begin the last of January.

The department of poultry husbandry will give instruction from January 14 to 17, inclusive. It will include lectures, demonstrations, and observations of houses, breeds, and equipment in use on the Ag College poultry farm.

MINNESOTA—Co-eds will be included in the program now under way to make Minnesota the "Dartmouth of the west" in winter sports. Arrangements are being made for the large winter carnival which will be carried on later in the winter.

BIG DONATION TO MIDLAND COLLEGE

FREMONT—It was announced recently at Midland college that Henry C. Luckey of Lincoln had donated $50,000 to the college to be used for the erection of a girls' dormitory to be known as Mr. and Mrs. Henry C. Luckey hall. Work will start in the spring. Mr. Luckey is vice president of the board of trustees of Midland.

Henry C. Luckey resides at Fortieth and Holdrege streets in Lincoln and is improving and marketing a ten acre tract which he owns in that neighborhood. He is a graduate of the state university, where he has received three degrees. At the time the world war broke out he was on his way to Europe to further pursue his education, but was compelled to abandon this plan. He returned to Lincoln and went to work on his property and is said to have been very successful financially. He came to Lincoln from Memphis, Neb., in 1900.

LONDON—Great Britain is willing to participate in an international conference for submarine and airplane disarmament if President Coolidge summons it, according to foreign office officials today. So far the foreign office has not received any definite information about the reported conference except what was conveyed in press dispatches from Washington.

STETSON Hats
In buying a Stetson you need only be concerned with the style—the quality is guaranteed by the name "Stetson".
STYLED FOR YOUNG MEN

Style
FROM raw silk to cravat this tie is a "Cheney" throughout, in quality, pattern and style. This means that the silk is Cheney made; that the pattern is wrought by Cheney's master designers; that the colors are rich and popular—that the style is the last word in up-to-date men's fashions.
The name CHENEY on the neckband guarantees quality of material and workmanship and "correctness" in every detail.
