

OFFER PRIZE FOR BEST TITLE PAGE

Vestals and Alumni Hold Contest for Student Verse Anthology.

WILL MAKE AWARDS FOR STUDENT POEMS

The best design for a title-page for a Nebraska anthology of student verse will receive a prize of ten dollars.

The anthology is being published in connection with a prize contest for the two best poems by Nebraska students. Two prizes, of fifty and twenty-five dollars, have been offered jointly by the Vestals of the Lamp, honorary women's organization of the College of Arts and Sciences, and the alumni of the class of '98.

Poems may be submitted for publication in the anthology which are not entered in the contest, however, since it is desired to make the book as inclusive as possible. There is no limitation on the length or subject, and some poems of a light vein are wanted for the book.

About twenty of the poems submitted in the prize contest will be selected by a local committee for submission to a committee of three persons not connected with the University. The prize-winning poems will be given a prominent place in the anthology, which will be a sixty or seventy-page volume.

Octavo Size Wanted.

Any design for the title-page should be of the correct proportions for an ordinary octavo volume, and should contain the words "Nebraska Poems, 1923-1924." While the design is primarily for the title-page, it may be used for the covers as well. It should be a black-and-white drawing of a printable character, that is, it should not be so finely shaded or intricately designed that it will blur when printed on soft paper.

Both designs and poems should be submitted to Prof. J. A. Rice, of the department of ancient languages. The deadline for the poems is March 1, but the designs need not be handed in until March 8.

It is hoped that the judging and typographical work can be completed in time to get the publication out early in April.

Author Must Be Student.

Poems submitted in the prize contest should be handed in in sealed envelopes containing three unsigned copies, and one signed one. No restrictions are placed on the length or subject of the poems, but the writer must be a student in the University carrying at least twelve hours of work this semester.

Although not caring to enter the prize contest, a student may submit poems for publication in the anthology. These may be light or "familiar" verse, or of a more serious tone.

The book will probably be a paper-bound volume of sixty-odd pages. It is planned to make the page size large enough to accommodate the

"Beat Nebraska" is Notre Dame Slogan for Coming Grid Season

Notre Dame is already talking about beating Nebraska in 1924 and is making plans to that effect, according to an item which appeared recently in the Omaha Daily News.

Coach Rockne is planning to point his team for the Husker conflict and wants to win it if he has to lose all the rest of the games on the Notre Dame schedule.

Notre Dame publications have already adopted the slogan "Beat the Huskers."

Following is the item:
Nebraska is going to get a taste of the same medicine she gave Notre Dame.

That is if the plans of Coach Rockne works out.

He plans to use the same little pill called psychology which the Huskers swallowed before the famous game of last November 10, when the much vaunted Irish team was whipped and the football world started.

The Huskers pointed for that game.

In 1923 Notre Dame pointed for the Army game.

Next year Notre Dame will point for the Nebraska game. So says George Mullen, a former Creighton student, now at Notre Dame, who returned to Omaha recently.

"Beat the Army" signs will be rubbed out and "Beat the Huskers" substituted.

"Nebraska is the big game for 1924; let's win it if we have to lose all others," says Rockne.

The slogan is already appearing in the Notre Dame publication.

SHOULD ENVY WILSON AND UNKNOWN SOLDIER

HAMILTON HOLT

World Forum Speaker Details Graphically Work of Wilson.

"Some people pity that man and that boy who thus gave their lives for their country (Woodrow Wilson and the Unknown Soldier), but I envy them. I pity the people who today sit back leaving unfinished the task which those two so nobly commenced," Hamilton Holt, speaker for the League of Nations non-partisan association, concluded his address to the word forum luncheon group on "Woodrow Wilson" yesterday at the Grand hotel. Mr. Holt speaks today at the 11 o'clock convocation on "America and the World."

Over 150 students and professors filled and overflowed the dining room. Mr. Holt presented his story of the late ex-president Woodrow Wilson and his work toward the establishment of world peace. He spoke from personal acquaintance and from numerous contacts in public life both in this country and at the peace conference of 1919.

Attempts to Bring Peace.

The history of the attempts of the last five or six presidents to establish peace in the world, began Mr. Holt's address. Although each of the presidents from Washington to Coolidge might be quoted in favor of peace, the efforts in the past few administrations have been ever growing and increasingly significant. Cleveland, McKinley, Roosevelt, Taft, Wilson and Harding all tried in some form or other and each in his own conception to work for peace, according to the speaker.

In every case the United States senate had defeated or so messed the proposal as to disgust the president so that nothing concrete resulted, said Mr. Holt. The notable exception to this assertion is the case of Harding and the disarmament proposal, but the plan to enter the world court has not yet met its fate at the hands of the senate, as Harding died too soon.

The League is the most successful and most epoch making effort toward world peace in history, continued the speaker, but had Wilson done any one of a number of things his name would be among the foremost in the annals of history.

THREE MATMEN ARE ON INJURED LIST

May Be Unable to Meet Hawkeyes in Initial Home Meet Saturday.

Three Nebraska mat performers are listed on the injured report and it is doubtful that the trial of varsity grapplers will be able to represent their divisions in the initial wrestling meet of the home season with the University of Iowa matmen at the Armory Saturday afternoon.

Hyley will not likely be seen in action in the heavyweight division against the Hawkeyes Saturday due to injuries received in both the Ames and Northwestern meets while Uhlir, the only Husker to win a fall last week end, received a slight dislocation of his right shoulder while working out Tuesday. The third casualty occurred in the drubbing Wednesday when Robertson left the mat and cut a gash above his right eye.

Daily exhibitions in preparing for the Iowa meet have caused Dr. Clapp much concern over the representatives in the 145 and 158 pound classes. It is likely that two new mat artists will be seen in action for the first time in a real match this week end. However, providing brand of wrestling shown at Ames last week local followers will see some of the fastest mat work seen at Nebraska for several seasons.

The University of Iowa bonecrushers come to Lincoln with no other idea except to trim the Huskers since it has been three years since the Hawkeyes have won from Nebraska. Iowa is rated among the best wrestling teams in the Western Intercollegiate race this season being undefeated to date and boasting of five veteran performers. Coach Howard of the visitors and ex-proscouted the Husker-Ames meet last week and in a short conversation with the local tutor rated his team as the best ever developed at Iowa state.

Although the score of the Ames meet was 17 to 9 against the Nebraska matmen, figures fail to tell the story. The scoring method of the Western Intercollegiate conference allow five points for a fall and two points for a decision. Ames registered three points and a decision while the Scarlet gymnasts could only score one fall and two decisions. Coach Clapp describes the meet as one of the closest that Nebraska has ever participated in. "The contestants of both teams were in there wrestling all the time", stated the Varsity coach.

The meet Saturday is slated to start at 2:30 and both coaches have agreed upon O. B. Anderson of the Lincoln Y. M. C. A. to act as referee in the dual match. Student tickets will admit to the contests and a large matinee gallery is expected.

Director to Attend Press Convention

Prof. M. M. Fogg, director of the School of Journalism, left last night for Grand Island to attend the meetings of the Nebraska Press association to be held there this week end.

J. Rodney Gillette, '22 (Bachelor of Science in Business Administration) was married to Miss Irma Wilson of Seattle, Wash., February 10. They will make their home in Los Angeles, Calif.

HUSKERS PREPARE FOR WASHINGTON

Regulars Find Trouble in Holding Berths From Second Team.

DRAKE AND AMES TO BE LAST OPPONENTS

Coach Kline's hoopsters have been working hard this week getting ready for the invasion of the Washington quintet Friday night. They have been scrimmaging the freshman team on the Coliseum floor every night this week, and are in the best of condition.

The Cornhusker team has three games to play after this week's fray meeting Drake and Ames in Lincoln. The other game is with Ames on their court.

The second string men have been showing up especially well the past week. Ekstrom, DeWitz, Beerkle, and Black have all been giving the regulars a real run for their berths.

Washington and Nebraska are now tied for third place in the conference basketball race, so the importance of Friday's game is very great. Kansas seems to have a standing claim to the valley title for the second time with only one defeat this year. Oklahoma has practically lost its chances for the title, since it plays only one more game.

Kansas meets both Drake and Grinnell this week, thus there is a chance that the Kansas cinch on the title may be lost. With only two or three weeks ahead, the outcome of the valley race is yet uncertain, with many of the teams showing up well.

Nebraska has two men to fear in Seago and Minner, of the Cougar team. Minner was the player who ran wild against Nebraska last year and ran up the score. Both of these hoopsters are wonderful shots from the center of the floor.

MAJOR COMPLETING COMMANDANT FILES

Erickson Wishes Pictures of Richard Townley and Isaac Webster.

Pictures of the late Lieutenant Richard Townley, U. S. navy, the third commandant of the University, and Lieutenant Isaac C. Webster, U. S. A. artillery, the second commandant, are wanted by Major Sidney Erickson to complete the files of past commandants in the military office. Major Erickson is anxious to get in touch with any one who can aid him in securing these pictures.

Major Erickson is collecting pictures and historical data of past commandants of the University for a historical collection to be kept in the military office. He now has pictures of all past commandants except Lieutenants Townley and Webster.

Lieutenant Richard Townley was head of the military department from 1882 to 1884. His people once lived in Lingola where he made his home after retiring from the service. He is buried at Wyuka cemetery. Isaac C. Webster was first lieutenant in the artillery, and was commandant from 1879 to 1882. He was the second commandant of the University.

The role of commandants at Nebraska numbers 25 army officers many of whom gained distinction after service here, chief among them being commandant Pershing.

CHURCH WORKERS WILL BE VISITORS

Religious Delegates to Offer Students Opportunity of Service.

ARE REPRESENTATIVE OF 7 DENOMINATIONS

"Visitation teams" of men and women prominent in church work of seven denominations will be the guests of student organizations of their respective churches at Nebraska from February 23 to 26. General meetings will be held on the campus at which the visiting speakers will be in charge.

"For some years the churches have had visitation teams upon the campus to meet the students in groups and as individuals to acquaint them with the great opportunities offered by the church for life service," says J. W. Hilton, student pastor of the Christian church. "No other institution offers a greater variety of types of service or issues a more urgent call to well trained, great-hearted men and women than the church."

Most of the visitors who will be at Nebraska are holding meetings of a similar nature at the University of Minnesota this week. Luncheons, interviews, services and convocations will comprise the program here.

Visitors include Alumni. Among the members of the teams which will visit Nebraska are alumni of the University, who have become famous, since their graduation, in other parts of the country and other countries.

The churches to be represented in the meetings are, Baptist, Christian, Methodist, Congregational, Lutheran, Episcopal and Presbyterian. Each denomination will have several visitors among whom are:

Miss Frances Greenough, student secretary of the department of religious education of the Baptist church, and George Baker, A. A. S. W., will represent the Baptist church. Both are well informed in religious education, particularly volunteer service.

E. A. Worthley, an alumnus of Nebraska and now secretary of the commission of life service in the Methodist church, and Miss Muriel Day of the life service commission will have charge of the Methodist meetings.

Missions Represented. The Christian church will have as its leaders, Miss Lila Taylor of St. Louis, secretary of the foreign mission board, A. S. W. McRae of St. Louis, and Ray Rice, a Nebraska alumnus and a resident of Lincoln. For a number of years Mr. Rice has been a missionary in India.

Mrs. Grace Mayer-Oaks, and Dr. A. S. W. Stock will represent the Congregational church. Both are very active in student volunteer and recruit work.

Miss Mary Markley of the board of education of the Lutheran church, and Dr. A. S. W. Harry will represent that denomination.

Mrs. A. W. Barbour of Denver and A. S. W. Micou will have charge of the Episcopal meetings.

The Presbyterian church will be represented by Miss Margaret Lewis, student secretary of the women's board of home and foreign missions, and Dr. Millard Lampe, student pastor of the University of Pennsylvania for the past ten years. Mr. Gilbert Lovell, now a traveling secretary for the Presbyterian church, will also be a Presbyterian guest.

TRAINING UNDER WAY FOR SPRING CONCERT

Two hundred and fifty people registered for the oratorio, "The Elijah," which will be presented in the stadium this spring, and have been training under the supervision of Mrs. Carrie B. Raymond, who is in charge of the music for the event. Additional male voices can be used and those who have ability to take part are urged to register immediately.

"The Elijah" is a musical program that will be unique in this state and one that will excel any dramatization that has ever been presented in this section of the country. Such a presentation is considered as quite rare in this country, being known to England alone.
