

FINE ARTS WEEK IS IN FULL SWING

Convocation, Banquet, and play Constitute Program for Today.

DRAMATIC DIRECTOR TO LECTURE AT 11:00

A convocation, the Fine Arts banquet, and the play "You and I" are today's program for Fine Arts week. Saturday evening the Century carnival will be staged in the art rooms.

Garnet Holme, director of the California Mountain, Forest and Desert Players, will give an illustrated lecture on open air theatres at the 11 o'clock convocation in the Temple.

Following the Fine Arts banquet at 6 o'clock at the Grand hotel, the University Players will again present the popular comedy "You and I." Reservations for the banquet may yet be made at the Fine Arts and Dramatic offices. The plates are one dollar.

The carnival in the art rooms on Saturday evening promises to be the most elaborate affair of the week. The decoration of each room will be carried out in historical motives, depicting the various periods in American history, Colonial, Puritan, and Frontier.

Pete Coniglio's orchestra has been secured for the dance. Skits and dances will be given between dances, and other skits and booths will be in evidence during the entire evening.

There will be one large costume dance, by Fine Arts students and an old-fashioned dance by Pauline Gellatly and Darleen Woodward. Marianna Cummings is in charge of the skits and dances.

Mr. Holme, who is brought here by the School to direct the University players in their production of "McBeth," was here in 1921 also, directing the Shakespearian production of the Players. He is English by birth and was at one time director of the Memorial players at Stratsford, England, and was until recently in charge of the dramatic department of the University of California where he has directed the Pilgrimage Play at Hollywood for the past three years.

Mr. Holmes has spent the past winter in England, and lecturing in France and Italy.

ENTERTAIN MEDICAL NOTABLES IN OMAHA

School of Medicine Is Meeting Place for National Association.

The College of Medicine at Omaha is entertaining representatives of the leading medical colleges of the country in Conkling hall Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week at the thirty-fourth annual meeting of the Association of American Medical Colleges.

Dr. Irving S. Cutter, dean of the medical college and president of the Association of American Medical Colleges, was the first speaker on the program Thursday afternoon. Burton D. Meyers, assistant dean, Indiana University; L. S. Schmitt, associate dean, University of California and Samuel P. Capen, chancellor of the University of Buffalo, all spoke on subjects pertaining to medical education.

This morning the doctors will attend classes of the medical college for practical demonstrations in teaching. This afternoon a round table conference will be held, the subjects to be presented for discussion by Nathaniel W. Faxon, chairman of the interne committee, American Hospital association; Stuart Graves, dean Syracuse University College of Medicine; H. G. Weiskotten, dean, Syracuse University College of Medicine; and William Dick Cutter, dean, New York Postgraduate Medical school.

At the first session Thursday morning, Don R. Joseph, vice-dean of St. Louis University School of Medicine; O. H. Perry Pepper, assistant professor of Medicine in the University of Pennsylvania, and Walter L. Biering, examiner in pharmacology, gave talks on technical subjects. Walter L. Niles, dean of Cornell University Medical college, spoke on "The Poor Boy in Medicine."

Players Show Finish and Skill in Presentation of "You and I"

"You and I," presented by the University Players last evening, was a most delightful comedy drawn with a skill that characterizes the work of the local players. The Temple theater was filled to overflowing long before the play began and hundreds were turned away. The play will be given again this evening at 8 o'clock.

No one character was pictured with an outstanding skill, but Gertrude Moran taking the part of Etta, the Whites' maid, rendered a truly twentieth century version of a "lad." "Etta" added much humor to the play in the scene where she attempted to live the part of the "lady" as whom she had posed for the portrait. Mary Yabroff, as Nancy White, the mother, felt her part more than the other players and expressed that feeling in her acting. Roderick White, the son, played by Harold Felton, added much life and vivacity. Dwight Merram as the father, gave a realistic interpretation of the dissatisfied business man.

Following is a resume of the comedy:

Roderick White, a young architect just out of Harvard, falls in love with Veronica Duane, a friend of the Whites. Roderick gives up his plans to go to Paris to study because of his infatuation for "Ronny." His parents try to dissuade him but he is obdurate.

Roderick's father has given up his ambition to be an artist in order to marry. His wife discovers that he still harbors a yearning for the career he has given up, and decides that he should have an opportunity to paint. She approaches him on the subject and he is willing to give up his work. Their maid is selected as the model.

Work is started on the portrait, but the small fortune dwindles, since there is no income now. When the portrait is finished an immediate market is sought. The picture is displayed as the work of an unknown artist, a protégé of Mr. White. It is criticized freely but G. T. Warren, former employe of Mainland White, offers a large sum for it as an advertising poster. White considers his portrait a work of art and resents the offer.

Meanwhile "Ronny" discovers Roderick's love for architecture and decides that it is best that their engagement be broken so that he may go to Paris to continue his studies. She masks her real reason for breaking the engagement and tells him that she no longer loves him. She confesses to his father the real reason. The father then decides to accept Warren's offer and to send Roderick to Paris, telling him that his grandfather left him some money that is no available, and that he can now marry "Ronny" and go to Paris. Roderick accepts and the play ends as all comedies should—"and they lived happily ever after."

ENGINEERS ANNOUNCE OFFICE CANDIDATES

Society Also Nominates Aspirants for Positions on Blue Print Staff.

Nominations for offices in the Nebraska Engineer's society and for the staff of "The Blue Print" were made at the monthly meeting of the society in Room 206 M. E. Building Thursday morning. Elections will be held in March.

The following were nominated: President; Francis Boucher, Roy Randolph. Vice President; Everett Crites, Noel Smith, Harold Edgerton. Secretary-Treasurer; Judson Meier, Theodore Armstrong.

The following engineers were nominated for positions on the staff of the magazine; associate editor; Harry Haberstroh, Wilson Watkins, Forest Hall. Associate business manager; Mark Fair, Gus Lundberg, John Carr. Associate circulation manager; C. R. Dalton, Frank Phillips, George Work, Ed. Jolly, Ellis Ekeroth. Plans are being made to make the publication a monthly instead of a quarterly next year.

Pins for the society were discussed and the following committee was appointed to take care of the matter: Robert Slaymaker, E. L. White, Don McCoskey, Melburn Bengston, Albert Kendall, and Fred Wehmer.

WHITES ARE VICTORS IN COLOR TOURNAMENT

Win Decisively Over Purples With Count of 22-12.

The White team captained by Luella Reckmeyer won the championship in the women's basketball color tournament with a decisive victory over the Purple team captained by Betty Roberts. Class teams were chosen Wednesday and the class tournament starts Friday with the third teams playing.

The final game of the tournament played Thursday noon in the Armory ended 22 to 12 in favor of the Whites. At the half the game stood in favor of the Whites by only one point, but the team gained consistently in the last period.

The champion team and runners-up follow:
The White team; J. C. Luella Reckmeyer, captain; S. C. Marie Meyer, F. Angela Fangeman, F. Jeannette Follmer, G. Rosalie Plauer, and G. Anna Hines.

Tradition Section Wants Snapshots

The tradition section of the Cornhusker is in need of pictures to use as illustrations. Snapshots are especially in demand of scenes connected with Olympics, last years competitive drill, the Cornhusker campaign, probation week, the Bizad day parade and events, Engineers week, Law day, Armistice day parade, torchlight parade for Notre Dame game, the freshman barbecue.

Contributions of any sort will be appreciated. Prints will be made by the management if the films are turned in. Pictures may be handed in at the Cornhusker office or to Frank D. Scriven (B3626), who will call for them. Pictures or films will be returned to the person loaning them.

RUTH CARPENTER TO ATTEND CONVENTION

Is W. S. G. A. Delegate to Activities Meeting in Minneapolis.

Ruth Carpenter will leave Sunday night for Minneapolis to represent the Nebraska W. S. G. A. at a Women's Activities exhibit to be held at the University of Minnesota, March 5-8. Delegates from universities throughout the northwestern section of the country will attend.

The purpose of the convention is to discuss the advantages and disadvantages of vocations open to women.

While in Minneapolis, Miss Carpenter will stay at the Kappa Alpha Theta sorority house. She is a member of the Nebraska chapter of that sorority and has been on the W. S. G. A. Board for three years.

Missouri Tracksters Score Over Kansas

The track squad of the University of Missouri gave the Jayhawks track men of Kansas a decisive trouncing at Kansas City, Wednesday night, by a score of 47 2-3 to 37 1-3.

The indoor worlds record for the 50-yard high hurdles smashed before Keeble, a sophomore of Missouri. The results of the meet indicate that the Tigers are going to make a big bid for the indoor Missouri Valley honors at Kansas City, March 8.

Keeble who stepped the high hurdles in six seconds flat, is coached by the former world hurdle record holder, Bob Simpson. Richeson, also of Missouri, broke the conerence record in the shot put, by heaving the weight 45 feet 3 1-2 inches.

TRACK SQUAD IS BADLY DEPLETED

Six Members Unable to Take Part in Illinois Relay at Urbana.

IMPOSSIBLE TO WIN MEDLEY THIS YEAR

Hard luck has cut the list of Husker track men who will make the trip to the Illinois relays to a small count, and has weakened the team making the trip. The squad will leave for Urbana over the Burlington today, by the way of Omaha.

Rhodes, with a sprained ankle received in workouts last Saturday, will not be able to make the trip. Captain Maurice Gardner has not yet fully recovered from an attack of appendicitis. His absence in the mile with that of Zimmerman, who undergoes an operation for bad tonsils today, makes it impossible to enter the medley race that Nebraska won last year.

Hartman, star shot-putter for the Huskers, may not be able to go on account of the death of his brother. Locke, Bloodgood, and Trexler will not make the trip because they did not get themselves in shape.

Six or seven men will make the trip according to Coach Schulte. The mile relay team has been chosen, but the other men to go are not picked as yet. Crites, Layton, Whipperman, and Scherich have been chosen for this race. "Hob" Turner will no doubt make the trip as Nebraska's high jumper, and Ed Weir will represent the Huskers in the hurdles, and perhaps the pentathlon events. Davis, pole vaulter, will make the trip.

TOURNEY ROLL IS RECORD BREAKER

Management Needs Men to Help Care for 251 Teams Entered.

University men, preferably those with a good knowledge of basketball, who can work full time next Thursday, Friday and Saturday, are needed by the athletic management to act as scorers and timekeepers during the Nebraska high school basketball tournament for which the record breaking number of 251 teams are already entered. Men who can work should report to Herbert Gish. They will be excused from classes if they are in good standing.

Men are also needed to serve on a Y. M. C. A. committee which will meet the teams at the stations, and escort them to their rooms. The committee will maintain a checkstand in the lobby of the city Y. M. C. A. Passes to all tournament games will be given to the workers on the committee.

Varsity Squad to Referee.
Members of the varsity basketball squad will referee most of the games. Basketball coach W. G. Kline will be in charge of the referees. John K. Selleck, student activities agent, will handle the finances.

Pairings and classifications of teams will be made this afternoon by a committee composed of W. J. Brehm of North Platte, chairman of high school athletic board; W. G. Brooks, of York, secretary-treasurer of the board; A. M. Nelson of Auburn; and Herbert Gish, student basketball manager. (Continued on Page 4)

Art Exhibition Includes Productions From World-Renowned Galleries

Paintings from France, from the Chicago Art institute, from the Metropolitan, N. Y., and from the National Gallery at Washington, D. C., form the annual exhibition of the School of Fine Arts which is being held during Fine Arts week. Most of the paintings will be on exhibition until March 26.

Included in the exhibit are twenty-five pictures from the Chicago Art institute which were personally selected from the Chicago Fall exhibition by Rev. S. Mills Hay, president of the Nebraska Art association. This collection is composed of paintings that are more modern than are those of the national gallery, are painted in a high key, and are of rather brilliant colors. P. H. Grumann, director of the School of Fine

Weather Forecast

Friday—Fair and continued warmer for Lincoln and vicinity.

Saturday—Fair and continued warm with not much change in temperature.

Y. W. C. A. HOLDS ANNUAL ELECTION

Agnes Kessler Chosen President of Organization for Coming Year.

LOSING CANDIDATES TO ACT ON CABINET

Agnes Kessler of Beatrice was elected president of the University Y. W. C. A. at the annual election of officers of the organization held on Wednesday and Thursday. Other officers elected are: Vice president, Doris Trott; secretary, Kathryn Warner; Treasurer, Ruth Wells; undergraduate representative, Margaret Williams.

A total of 276 votes was cast in the election. Several of the successful candidates won by very narrow margins.

Miss Kessler, who was elected to the presidency over her opponent Helen Guthrie, is a junior in the college of Arts and Sciences. She is a member of the present Y. W. cabinet, being chairman of the world fellowship committee.

The new vice-president, Miss Trott, is from Lincoln. She is a sophomore in the school of journalism and is an assistant news editor on the Daily Nebraskan.

Miss Warner is a junior in the Arts and Science college, and is a member of the present cabinet. She belongs to Alpha Phi. Her home is in Dakota City.

Ruth Wells of Lake View, Iowa, is a member of Gamma Phi Beta and Xi Delta. She is a sophomore in the University.

The undergraduate representative, Margaret Williams of Lincoln is a junior, a member of Delta Delta Delta and the cabinet.

The defeated candidates will become cabinet members. The candidates were nominated by a nominating committee.

Installation of new officers and cabinet members will take place with an elaborate ceremony on the evening of March 26 and 7 o'clock in Ellen Smith hall. Miss Grace Spacht is the retiring president.

Will Take Officers' Photos During Drill

Owing to the fact that some of the officers failed to appear at the hours stated for the taking of the pictures, the arrangement has now been changed so that they will be taken at some time during the drill period.

No pictures will be taken this noon. Instead, the cadet officers will be given a brief recess during the class period to go to the campus studio. This will assure the Cornhusker of every cadet appearing in uniform with the group picture of officers.

Starting with Headquarters company next Monday, company pictures will be taken throughout the week, the Cornhusker office stated yesterday.

FINAL MAT MEET COMES SATURDAY

Minnesota and Nebraska to Complete Husker Schedule at Armory.

EXPECTATION IS TO HOUSE RECORD CROWD

The final dual wrestling meet on the Husker schedule comes when Nebraska meets the Minnesota Gopher tomorrow evening at the Armory.

Plans are being made to house the largest crowd in the history of the winter sport at Nebraska and Coach "Doc" Clapp of the Varsity matmen announces that his team is in the best of condition. Nebraska is given the edge over the visitors due to comparative scores during the present season and should have little trouble in registering on the credit side of the ledger Saturday.

Nebraska has lost close contests to both Ames and the University of Iowa this season and both of the Iowa teams scored shut-out wins over the Minnesota representatives. Both teams gave the northerners a coat of whitewash to the tune of 21 to 0 while the Huskers lost to Ames 17 to 9 and to Iowa state 19 to 10 in a match undecided until the final tussle. Minnesota has failed to turn in a single victory during the season while Nebraska is represented by one of the best mat teams ever turned out at the institution.

With Uhlir the welter weight artist wearing the Scarlet and Cream again in the 135 pound group, the Varsity will be greatly strengthened. Uhlir has won every match he has participated in this year but was unable to make his appearance in the inaugural exhibition on local soil last week due to injuries received in daily workouts. The regular lineup will be used Saturday according to the local mentor with the exception of the heavyweight division. Hyley may be kept from wrestling due to early season injuries and Coach Clapp may be forced to use Hamser in the heavy class.

Final Meet of Season.

The Minnesota classic will be the final Lincoln appearance for the Huskers this year and also the final dual meet of the season. Next week end is the annual Missouri Valley championship meet at Ames and the following week the outstanding of Nebraska grapplers will uphold local colors at the Western Intercollegiate individual championship at Chicago.

Two hundred ringside seats are being erected for the Saturday meet which is slated to start at 7:30. Student tickets will admit to close-up seats. Both coaches have agreed to have O. B. Anderson of the Lincoln Y.M.C.A. officiate.

The following is the probable lineup.

Nebraska	—	Minnesota
Blore	.....115.....	Dahly
Kellogg (C)	.....125.....	Leahy
Uhlir	.....135.....	Tunnell
Skinner	.....145.....	McCurdy
Thomas	.....158.....	Ieensee
Robertson	.....175.....	Catansero
Highly or Hamsa	H.Wt.	Seastrand
