GEOGRAPHER TALKS AT LECTURE CLASS

Bengtson Addresses Freshmen on Economic Relations Among Nations.

"Economic conditions in Europe affect our affairs. Europe is our greatest buyer of surplus products and the amount of our exports depends upon the economic condition of that continent," Prof. N. A. Bengtson, chairman of the department of geography, told freshman students of the College of Arts and Sciences Monday evening and Tuesday morning. The subject of his illustrated lecture was "The Economic Conditions of Europe in Connection with American Affairs."

"The United Kingdom is our greatest single market," Professor Bengtson said. "In 1922 approximately 22 per cent of our total exports were shipped there. Other large markets are Germany, France, Belgium, Netherlands, Poland and the Scandinavian countries."

"In 1922 the principal economic commodities to be exported were cotton, bread grains, meats and fats. Wheat was the principal grain," Professor Bengtson continued.

ADMINISTRATION COPY DUE SATURDAY NIGHT

Includes Organization Histories, Official Lists, and Picture Keys.

Copy for all organizations in the Administration section of the Cornhusker must be turned in this week. This includes a 250 word history from each organization, a list of its officers and a key to its picture.

The Administration section comprises the first 140 pages and will be printed first. All of the organizations affiliated with any of the ten colleges are classified in this section. The work of editing the copy for this section will begin next week. Managing Editor Berge has announced that all of this copy must be in the Cornhusker office not later than Saturday night.

Copy for all the sections should be turned in as soon as possible. The Cornhusker staff feels that many organizations are carelessly putting off their writeups, which is handicapping the work of the staff.

Thirty-three Students Have Entered Verse Anthology Contest.

BOOK WILL APPEAR EARLY NEXT MONTH

One hundred and ninety-five poems by thirty-three students have been submitted for "Nebraska Verse, 1923-1924," the anthology of student verse which will be issued the first week in April.

Christopher Morley, Percy MacKaye and John G. Neihardt will select the two poems to win the $50 and $25 prizes offered jointly by the alumni of the class of '98 and the Vestals of the Lamp, honorary women organization of the College of Arts and Sciences.

A hundred and fifty of the poems submitted for the anthology were also entered in the contest. Twenty of these will be chosen by a committee for final consideration of the three outside judges. This committee is composed of Prof. S. B. Gass, Prof. Louise Pound, and Miss Constance Syford of the English department, and Dr. Hartley B. Alexander of the department of philosophy.

The twenty poems selected will be sent separately to the judges, who will be asked to assign a number to each which indicates the place it takes. The poem receiving the lowest number will be awarded first prize, with the exception that if any poem receives the vote of two of the judges for first place, it shall receive first. One student may receive only one prize.

No announcement of the poem winning the prizes will be made previous to the publication of the book, and probably no announcement of the awarding of the prize.

VOCATIONAL WORKER SPEAKS AT VESPERS

Says Aim of Activity Is to Fill Present Needs For Children.

"The aim of the vocational school is to take a boy or girl where he is and give him what he needs at the present time," said Mrs. Eva Morse of the State Vocational Board and teacher in a vocational school in Omaha, in her address at Vespers Tuesday evening at 5 o'clock in Ellen Smith hall. Mrs. Morse spoke mainly on her work in connection with the vocational training school for children under sixteen years of age.

Mrs. Morse explained that the state insists that children under sixteen years of age who must work, and are thus unable to attend regular school, must spend eight hours a week in some other school. Many such children are enrolled in vocational schools.

Touching upon the subject of vocations for women, Mrs. Morse declared that the greatest difficulty encountered is the fact that women fail to take the subject of vocations seriously and do not stick to any one thing long enough to cultivate proficiency.

Vespers were in charge of W. S. G. A. and were conducted in connection with vocational guidance week which the association is sponsoring. Mariel Flynn presided, and members of the W. S. G. A. board were hostesses. Miss Jean Holtz sang a solo.

CAGE SEASON TO END THIS EVENING

Nebraska Basketeers Meet Drake at Fair Grounds at 7:30.

TEAMS IN SHIP-SHAPE FOR EXCITING BATTLE

The game this evening at 7:30 with Drake on the Coliseum floor will close the Husker 1924 basketball season. The Bulldogs defeated the Huskers 19 to 15 at Des Moines four weeks ago when the Husker cagemen were out of form during a mid-season slump, and a hot contest will be staged at the Coliseum tonight, as both teams are in the best of shape.

The Husker squad rested yesterday following the game with Ames Monday evening. The men pulled through the Monday struggle with no names added to the hospital list, and every man on the squad will be given a chance tonight to play in the last game of the year.

The Nebraska lineup at the referees starting whistle will be the regular five that has opened all of the Husker games, Goodson at center, Capt. Usher and Cozier forwards; Tipton and Volz guards. The remaining men on the squad who will play are Beerkle, Eckstrom, Black, Wyant and Rufus DeWitz.

In the game at Des Moines Boelter and Everett were two Bulldog players mainly responsible for the Drake victory. They will be in the lineup again this evening, and Nebraska guards will have to do some close defensive work to keep these two Hawkeyes from amassing a victorious score.

The Drake players who will probably start the game are Boelter and Everett forwards, Mantz center, and Gharett and Ashby guards.

The game tonight will be the last appearance of Kenneth Cozier and Rufus DeWitz in Nebraska basketball uniform.

The entire east portion of the Coliseum has been reserved for the high school players, several hundred of which are expected to attend the game. University students are requested by the athletic authorities to seat themselves on the west side of the hall.

Corncocks of Pi Epsilon Pi, Nebraska pep organization, will entertain between halves. The cadet band will play. Ushering will be in charge of the military department.

Officials' Wives Will Judge at Golden Fleece Luncheon.

Mrs. H. D. Landis of Seward expects to be present at the luncheon of the Order of the Golden Fleece on Saturday and will assist Mrs. Avery in selecting the prize winner. Mrs. Landis is the wife of Regent Landis.

An invitation has been extended to Miss Virginia Auld of Red Cloud, the red-haired niece of the novelist, Willa Cather, to attend and assist the judges. Miss Auld recently unveiled the Bakst portrait of Miss Cather at Omaha.

Joan Rocky, five year old daughter of Madame Gilderoy Scott, the contralto singer, is to serve as page at the luncheon.

The Order of the Golden Fleece, nationally celebrated, will hold its annual luncheon and competition this year on March 8. A girl with any one of the twenty-eight stipulated shades of red tresses may attend. A number of prizes will be given, but the girl with the most brilliant red locks will receive the highest honor.
