High School Cage Tourney a Big Success--Many Records Shattered

The 1924 high school basketball tournament, with 249 teams entered, was financially the best in the ten years that the meets have been held.

The University athletic office announced yesterday. The total receipts were fully $2000 more than last year an approximate estimate shows. Last year 60 per cent of the expense of each team was returned. This year it will be nearer 70 per cent, H. D. Gish, general manager of the tournament, stated.

Other than financial statistics the tournament records also show an increase. The total number of points scored in the tournament this year was 5,574 as against 5,411 scored in all classes last year. The class A total was 397 as compared with 427 registered in 1923. Creighton Prep winner of class A honors, was high point quintet during the recent classic counting 83 markers to its opponents 31, with Cathedral high winner of class D was second in scoring with 77 tallies. Chester, class I champs, made the best defensive showing in the week-end tourney, allowing its opponents but 8 points.

Tobias high scored the most points in any single game, winning from Palisade in the first round by a score of 35 to 7. Lincoln made more points in one game in class A than any other quintet, defeating Sidney 37 to 17 in the initial round. "Jug" Brown was high point man in a single contest, making 17 tallies against the Sidney five.

Following the tourney each year those knights of the pencil make appearance and start selecting all star fives. Doubtless high school athletes, 2000 in number, cause the best of dopesters trouble in picking five outstanding performers in their respective positions. The followers of the contest seem to have found selections in Brown of Lincoln and Marrow of Omaha Central at the forward posts with O'Brien of Creighton Prep at the pivot and Lawson of Omaha Central and Monaghan of Prep doing the guarding.

TO REFER SINGLE TAX TO STUDENTS

Council Announces Plan Would Be Used for Support of Activities.

CALL FOR GENERAL EDITORIAL OPINION

A single tax plan which will be used in the support of the student activities at the University, is soon to be placed before the students for a referendum, the president of the student council announced last night. Opinions of students, expressed in short open letters to the Nebraskan are called for by the council in working out the definite plan.

The tax will probably be compulsory if adopted by the regents. If it successfully carries in the student ballot but is not favored by the regents, it will probably be adopted but will be made optional, according to the present plan.

Twice favored for adoption by a student referendum, the single tax plan was vetoed by the Board of Regents in 1916 and again in 1917. At that time thirty-five schools in the country were using the plan and of these thirty-four had found it a success. In most of these schools the tax was more than $7, the sum proposed for the tax.

The Daily Nebraskan introduced the plan in 1916. At that time the plan as outlined was a compulsory tax on each student carrying twelve hours or more. The amount was $3.50 a semester or $7 a year. This sum was to be used for the support of all student activities, dramatics, debating, the college paper and other branches of student life. The tax would amount to approximately $21,000 a year, which would put all University activities on a sound financial basis.

The student after paying the tax would be admitted free to all athletic contests, all dramatic productions, debates, mixers, convocations, the University Night production and Ivy Day celebration. He would also receive the Daily Nebraskan free and would obtain medical supervision throughout the year.

The plan was taken before the regents in the spring of 1916. They did not act upon it at that time because of other matters. It was not started again until 1917 when a vote was taken among students and parents. The results of the vote were decidedly in favor of the plan. Of a total vote of 3362, 2853 were in favor and only 509 opposed to the system. Of these totals, 2026 students and 827 parents favored the plan against 366 students and 143 parents opposing it. After this vote the plan was presented to the regents. They were not in favor of it and it was dropped.

The Student Council has been reviewing the plan and will present it to the students for a vote soon. The plan will be about the same as before except for changes in the amount of the tax and working of it.
