Broadcasting

And now, for diversion (and publicity, perhaps) they broadcast together from WJZ. New act for these actors, broadcasting. A new chance to capitalize on their popularity.

Fashion

Fashion gets ideas from the Doug and Mary pair tho. First, in their togetherness, fashion agrees. For it has its combinations that are as inseparable as these Fairbanks-Pickford twins:

A Combination

There is the tailored suit and the scarf. They must go together. And they must be right in fashion in this combination.

United.

Then, there is black-and-white. Going hand-in-hand and hand-in-hand with right fashion. And, unlike usual fashion-right combinations, they've been together for a long time—just as Doug and Mary, unlike usual moving picture people, have been together for a long time. They're still happy together. So are black-and white.

Friends

And the small hat has been a partner of right fashion for longer than previous fashion rules have permitted. But they still are on friendly terms. No sign of a break-up yet.

Partners

Just so with the wrap-around coat held under the arm together with a right-fashioned under-the-arm bag. They belong together, too—and, like Mary and Doug, and like all right fashion combinations, they And speaking of being inseparable Rudge & Guenzel's and too should be inseparable. Fashion-rightness are absolutely just that.

Square and Compass Club Enjoys Banquet

About 250 student and faculty members attended the annual banquet of the Square and Compass club Friday evening at the Grand Hotel. Grand Master Charles A. Chappell addressed the club and Chancellor Avery and Prof. R. E. Cochran also spoke to the student masons. Frank M. Johnson, president of the Square and Compass club, acted as toastmaster.

"Most of you men come here that you may prepare for activities in the affairs of men," stated Mr. Chappell. "Some are here to spend dad's money and to have a good time but few of that type are found in the Square and Compass club. Masonry plays a pivotal part in the affairs of men and it will help every man if he approaches it in the right light. It is a great, living, vital institution for the purpose of bringing its members together to learn of the things that are fundamental and teaching those vital truths, without which our nation would not be safe."

Mr. Chappell also spoke of the work of the Masonic service organization which was organized during the war and has taken up a great educational program.

Chancellor Avery said that people who have a firm anchorage in some strong order or church are the most successful. It binds them to useful work and has a steadying influence.

Professor Cochran told of the growth of the Square and Compass club since its origin five years ago. "The purpose of the club is to get the Masons of the club better acquainted with one another," he stated.

Music was furnished during the banquet by Charles Wiles on the xylophone and Dwight Merriam on the piano. The next meeting of the club will be held April 16 at the Faculty hall of the Temple at 7:00. C. Petrus Peterson will be the main speaker. "Hello Mike" will be his subject.

W. W. Stoner, A. M., '18, is educational director of the Y. M. C. A. schools in Dayton, Ohio.

PILGRIM BLUE WEEK

AT FARQUHAR'S

When the Pilgrim Fathers landed at Plymouth in 1620—that memorable day from which American history really begins—their form of dress was one of the most interesting studies of that period.

Blue Clothes predominated, we are told, and from that day to this, blue has been the "dress up" color of American men.

About six years ago, a member of the Stratford buying organization found in New England samples of some of those old time fabrics—wonderfully woven of the finest wool obtainable. They were the inspiration of the idea to develop a more wonderful blue fabric than ever before been woven. A famous Yankee cloth designer was called in; told to get the finest wool; the most skilled weavers; the best processes known to the woolen industry—and to spare neither time nor money in developing the fabric the Stratford people desired.

From that start has been developed the famous "Pilgrim Blue"—a blue herring-bone cloth without an equal in the clothing realm. This fabric is confined exclusively to Stratford, and no other store in Lincoln can show it to you.

Our sales of "Pilgrim Blue" suits in Lincoln are nearing the two thousand mark. They have a reputation with Nebraska men which has probably never been equalled by any other suit. It is the most satisfactory and longest wearing fabric we know of. No other suit we have ever seen compares with it for service and enduring good looks.

"Pilgrim Blue" has been beautifully tailored by Stratford into seven splendid styles for young men, and we have chosen this week to feature them especially.

They are displayed in our windows, and we cordially invite you to see them; to try them on in the store; to consider a "Pilgrim Blue" for your new spring suit. You'll find it the best suit you ever wore—a garment suitable for every occasion of college life.

Ask particularly to see the "Carlton" and "Finley," the two outstanding college styles for spring wear.
