CONVICTED BY RUMOR.

The ridiculous rumors that the University of Nebraska is a non-Christian institution that have recently been circulated and unfortunately given enough credence by some editors that they published them, are unfortunate. What could be the basis for the circulation of such gossip?

Faculty members, students, and alumni know that there is no basis for such assertions. Dame Gossip, however, generally manages to find listeners, and because of this, the recent publicity that we are a pagan crew, has done the University no good.

Most of these rumors arise because some instructor gives a class a surprise examination on the Bible, asking a number of obscure questions which only a theological student could answer. Then the answers are tabulated, and offered as proof that the University is non-Christian.

Those who are acquainted with the University know that the students come from representative homes in Nebraska and the Middle West, and are no more religious or non-religious than the sections they represent. The atmosphere at the University is far cleaner and more wholesome than at the average institution. Moral conditions in Lincoln are far better than in the average community.

Registration figures show that almost every student in the University has a religious affiliation, and Lincoln churches all have a large attendance of students. Students contribute large sums every year to charitable enterprises. Philanthropic organizations find plenty of ready workers among the students.

OUR OWN RENAISSANCE.

The appearance of the Freshman Scrapbook is the first evidence of an attempt to encourage literary endeavor that has been seen on the campus for some time. This scrapbook together with the Anthology of Student Verse that is soon to appear, may be taken as healthy signs of a renewed interest in literary and intellectual activity.

For many years interest in such activity has been at a low ebb. The trouble has not been a lack of good work along literary lines,—there has been plenty of that. The chief difficulty has been lack of adequate means of giving this work expression. There has been no publication on the campus which has been exclusively literary in nature and the expense involved has made the down-town publication of literary matter, out of the question.

The coming of the University printing plant has changed all this. It is now possible to print this material and to give literary activity a definite place on the campus. Friends of the University may point to the Scrapbook and the Verse Anthology as two concrete bits of evidence that refute the idea that students are interested only in football and fox-trotting.

Pan-Hellenic has recently taken action to make the fall rushing parties given by sororities simpler and less expensive. Such a course is in keeping with the progress which University of Nebraska women have made in regard to their fraternity problems.

Friendliness and cooperation between sororities exist here in rather an unusual degree. However, during the fall rushing the tendency is to revert to the old spirit of intense rivalry, and the result is that neither the pledges or the sorority receive really fair dealing.

Pan-Hellenic is attempting to equalize superficial differences and put all groups on an equal basis. Next fall there will be but five parties where formerly there were six. Donations from alumni which tend to give the older sororities with

One of the greatest sources of difficulty and outside criticism is the system of rushing and pledging. Advances have been constantly made in the past. Future efforts are commendable.

Student Opinion.

To the Editor:

Several men have been noticed by the writer going about the campus without caps or hats. This practice of men going bareheaded is a commendable one, and should be encouraged. The appearance of the men themselves is considerably improved by the lack of headwear on a warm-sunshiny day, and the general atmosphere of the campus is improved.

Another custom which might well be begun by the men at the University is the practice of wearing old clothes to school. Not that we would like to have them appear in any way shabby or ill-clothed, but have them wear clothes of a reasonable cost. At the present the beau brummels of the campus have so attired themselves that a man wearing a pair of trousers that doesn't match his coat looks like a tramp alongside of the Fashion Park models.

Expensive clothes are nice to wear on state occasions but the practice of wearing only the best of clothes for daily school-wear is to be discouraged. It is unnecessary and expensive, and adds a cold formality to campus life. At California U., Stanford, and other great Universities the men have adopted the policy of wearing old clothes to school. Why not Nebraska?

Why work overtime?

The student who works overtime is often the one who, for some reason, is not truly efficient. The almost imperceptible slowing-down of his thinking necessitates spending more time and labor on his work.

It is a surprising fact that much of this inefficiency is due to a slight neglect in eating. Many people do not realize that all the healthful, nutritive and laxative properties of whole wheat bran can be secured in a really tempting breakfast dish.

Post's Bran Flakes, while retaining all the natural properties of bran, have a rich, appetizing flavor that is deliciously different. Crisp, crunchy, and nut-brown, Post's Bran Flakes appeal to the most critical.

To satisfy your taste and your reason, try Post's Bran Flakes for tomorrow's breakfast. You will be treating yourself to a pleasant surprise, and storing up hours, not for "overtime," but for recreation.
