CHANGES LINEUP FOR KANSAS AGGIE GAMES

Coach Kline Shifts Infield; Will Not Announce Battery Until Thursday.

The lineup which the Huskers will present to the Kansas Aggies when the home baseball season opens here Friday afternoon will be very much different from that which met the southern teams on the trip during the spring vacation, according to information from the Husker baseball camp yesterday.

As nearly as can be ascertained the lineup will be like this: "Mutt" Volz will be shifted from second to first. Janda, veteran outfielder, will probably take second. Gibbs will continue to hold down the hot corner. Bell will replace Locke at shortstop, the latter going to right field. The center and left field positions will be held down by Bloodgood and Collins respectively.

Will Not Announce Battery.

It is also possible that Eckstrom, Somborg and Hollingsworth will see action Friday or Saturday.

Coach Kline will not announce the battery for the game until Thursday. Poole, one of the catchers, will probably be out of the game the rest of the season because of acute tonsillitis contracted on the southern trip. The other catchers are E. Lang and Hubka. The pitching staff includes Captain Peterson; Lewellen, B. Lang and Rhodes.

Reports from the Aggie camp indicate that a formidable team has been developed at Manhattan and that they are out to bag the Missouri Valley title. The Manhattan nine defeated Kansas university last Friday, 4 to 2. Cunningham, the Aggie hurler, held K. U. to five hits during the game.

Prepare Field.

Special efforts have been made to have the Rock Island diamond in good shape for the game. A good deal of time and money have been spent on it since the flood that inundated it last fall.

The admission to the game will be fifty cents, or by season athletic tickets.

Following is the complete schedule for the remainder of the Cornhusker season:

- May 2 and 3—Kansas Aggies at Lincoln.
- May 9 and 10—Kansas Aggies at Manhattan.
- May 19—University of Meiji, Tokio, at Lincoln.
- May 26 and 27—Oklahoma at Lincoln.
- June 7 and 9—Kansas at Lawrence.

UNI NIGHT NEXT YEAR COMES FEBRUARY 28

Committee Secures Options on Temple and Orpheum for 1925 Production.

February 28, 1925, is the date which has been selected for the next annual University night, according to an announcement made yesterday by Bennett S. Martin, general chairman and manager of the affair. The date is announced at this time so organizations can keep it open.

Options on both the Orpheum and the Temple have been secured for that date in order that a better show can be put on and more spectators accommodated. The show this year was held at the city auditorium where it was impossible to stage an elaborate entertainment because of the rulings and restrictions made by the fire department. The lack of equipment at the auditorium is another disadvantage.

Both the Temple and the Orpheum are fully equipped play houses and it will be possible to put on a much more elaborate show.

University night is the annual fun fest of the university. Members of all committees will be announced by general chairman Martin at the opening of school next fall.

NEW YORK—A committee of Cornell upperclassmen has launched a campaign for better sportsmanship among spectators at colleges baseball and lacrosse games. Groups of students will be stationed in the stands who will try to discourage personal remarks aimed at players and coaching officials.

Freshman Girls Take Second Team Honors

The freshman second team carried off the honors in the womens second team baseball tournament when it nosed out a 2-point lead on the junior second team yesterday noon on the field back of Social Science hall. Only the last of the five innings of the game showed real playing but then each side rallied. The juniors tallied 22 of their 38 points in the fifth, while the freshmen scored 14 of their 40 points.

The first round of the first team tournament begins today when the freshman and senior teams meet at noon.

COUNT FOUR PLACES IN FRAT TRACK MEET

Use of Outdoor Field and Cinder Path Makes More Events Possible.

The interfraternity track meet next Tuesday afternoon will be run on a place basis, the first, second, third and fourth place winners only, counting in the compilation of points according to plans outlined for the meet by Coach Schulte. The outdoor track will be used for the events and it will be possible to have the longer runs, including the two mile, and in addition the 880-yard relay races.

Two other track events made possible by the outdoor track will be the 110-yard low hurdles and 120-yard high hurdles. The 220-yard dash will be an added sprint event. All the field events will be held also, including the javelin, discus, shot-high jump.

Each fraternity entering the meet must enter at least three men in each event. The results of the meet will have no bearing on the indoor meet held several weeks ago. Awards to winners of the outdoor meet may be given, but no definite action has been taken yet.

CLASS OF '04 TO HAVE DIRECTION OF ROUNDUP

President Sends Letters to All Alumni; Hopes to Make Reunion Outstanding.

The class that graduated twenty years ago this year—the class of 1904—is the honor class at the annual alumni roundup. The members of this class hope to make this reunion outstanding for the number returning, appearance of the parade, and general enthusiasm during the four days of the festivities.

To stimulate interest in the roundup and to urge members of the class to return, Miss E. Ruth Pyrtle, president of the class of 1904, has sent letters to all members of that class. Several replies have been received, showing great interest in the reunion.

F. T. Vasey, superintendent of schools at Mason City, Ia., says in his letter:

Urges All to Come.

"Twenty years! Tempus fugit! "Twenty years ago. Can it be true? How do you look now? What are you doing? How do you feel? How powerful Buckner's speeches must be by this time. How many "Ivy Days" have you had since that time. Where are those 170 people. Let's gather again, 1904.

"The class of 1904 will round up twenty years in June. We are to be the honor class. It's our good time. Come one, come all. Let's rally 'round Miss Pyrtle's banner. Will you be there? Sure. Drive the car. Bring the family."

H. E. Bradford, principal of the University School of Agriculture and professor of agricultural education, is one of the representatives of the class on the general roundup committee. In the following words he urges his classmates to return:

Buckner to Speak.

"I am pleased to learn that Emory Buckner will be the alumni day orator at the roundup. He is one of the outstanding graduates of the University, and will undoubtedly have a real message for us. The class of 1904 should make an unusual effort to attend since this is the twentieth anniversary of the graduation."

"I am sure we are going to have a great alumni roundup," writes R. A. Bickford. "The committee is planning to have the class very busy during the entire reunion with two or three "get togethers" for the class membership, besides all the usual alumni doings."

Miss Mary Hamer, of Lincoln, an active member of the class, writes:

Look Forward to Reunion.

"Twenty years have not cooled the enthusiasm of the class of 1904. Lincoln members are looking forward eagerly to seeing all their classmates back on the campus. Those who knew Emory Buckner in college days—and that means all of his contemporaries—feel pride in welcoming him back as alumni orator. He is one of the most distinguished of the younger members of the New York bar and is managing member of the (Continued on Page 4.)

Exhibit Plan of Farmers Fair Midway

A large plan of the activities, side-shows, dance platform, and amusements on the midway of Farmers fair has been laid out by the agricultural engineering department and placed on the bulletin board in Agricultural hall in order that all side-shows and booths may know exactly where they will be situated. Construction gangs have the exact location of booths they must build and no time is lost in keeping the large crew at work.

A large tent, 70 by 110 feet, will shelter the educational exhibits which will be shown on the midway Saturday. Exhibits from nearby every department will be shown. In former years the exhibits have been shown in the various buildings upon the campus. In order to make them more accessible to the public, they will be shown in a separate tent this year.

Will Exhibit Apples.

Among the exhibits last year was a model farm made by the rural economics department which drew much attention of the visitors at the fair grounds. Another was the one on values of different foods and formulas for balanced rations and the results in feeding experiments on live animals. The apple exhibit of the horticultural department always attracts large numbers.

DESCRIBES FIELD OF MODERN JOURNALISM

Prof. M. M. Fogg Tells Freshman of Relation of Newspaper to Society.

"The newspaper may be called the Bible of democracy. Journalism is a service to society and the government, and one should not go into it for personal gain," Prof. M. M. Fogg, director of the School of Journalism, told freshman lecture students of the College of Arts and Sciences, Monday evening and Tuesday morning. "Journalism, Its Relation to Society and Democracy," was the subject of his lecture.

"We are all gossips," he said. "We are all after the news — what has happened. Never as in our day, here in the United States, has society been so insistent in its search for news.

Should Give News.

"To tell the news, tell the truth, and to interpret the truth is the high and the necessary service that the profession of journalism in a democracy today is rendering to society. The journalist is the historian of yesterday. More progress has been made in journalism in the last half-century than has been made in the eighteen previous centuries."

Development of journalism in America may be divided into three periods, he said. The first, the period of opinion, lasted until about the middle of the last century. Newspapers printed during that time were filled with personal opinions rather than news. Party politics ran high. The period of news broke about the time of the civil war. People wanted news from the battlefields instead of personal opinions.

News Field Is Broadened.

A third period, that of a broadening of news, came about the time that Joseph Pulitzer bought the New York World, in the latter part of the nineteenth century. Previously, news had been written for the upper strata of society. Pulitzer wrote for all classes, and his lead was followed by such newspaper men as William Randolph Hearst and James Gordon Bennett.

"The modern newspaper is nothing less than a miracle when one realizes that the 2 cents paid for it would probably not buy the paper necessary in printing it," Professor Fogg said. The commercialized side of the newspaper, advertising, is responsible for this, he explained.

Has Three Tendencies.

There are three tendencies in modern journalism, the speaker said. They are to commercialize a newspaper (Continued on Page 4.)
