KEEP TO THE WALKS.
The University has spent a great deal of money that the campus might be beautified. A large force of men have been employed to plant grass and shrubbery, that the scenery might be improved. And again this year those in charge of this work are hampered by students who cut across the lawn, and do other things that detract from the beauty of the campus.

Every student in the University should consider it a personal matter to avoid doing anything that will take away from the appearance of the school. Cutting across the grass is the worst evil. Throwing waste paper and refuse around is another. In a number of places shrubs have been planted across the short cuts, as a gentle reminder that every one is to keep to the walks. But even this has not stopped some of the students who have continued to follow the beaten path.

This should be stopped. The distance between the buildings is not so great that numerous short cuts are a necessity. The average student is not so weak that he can not follow the walks and get to his destination in time.

Keep to the walks. They are so designed to connect the buildings by the shortest routes. Stay off the grass. Help beautify the campus.

INTERFRATERNITY BANQUET.
Every fraternity man in the University of Nebraska should plan to attend the banquet this evening at the Scottish Rite Temple.

Ballard Dunn, editor of the Omaha Bee, will present the views of an outsider on scholarship. Chancellor Avery and Professor R. D. Scott will also speak.

The banquet will mark the inauguration of a movement, started by alumni of fraternities, to raise the scholastic standing of the fraternities here at the University of Nebraska.

Honor plaques will be given to the organizations having the smallest number of delinquent hours during the past two semesters.

Over 800 fraternity men have already signified their intention of attending by purchasing tickets.

It was first planned to use the Chamber of Commerce, but it was found that it would not accommodate the crowd.

It is to be an annual event, and the plaques will be reawarded each year.

Every fraternity man should attend.

THE NEW COUNCIL.

Members of the student council that were elected yesterday for next year are all extremely capable and representative students, and with this personnel the council should be able to expand and assume a more important role in the life of the University.

The charge has been made in the past that the council was not representative, that it was not efficient and that the people best suited for it never got places. No such conditions will exist next year.

Regardless of the results of the election, the candidates were representative and from the field that tried for places it would be possible to take any combination and get an assembly of students that represent every type in the University.

This year has witnessed an expansion in the powers and duties of the student council. It has become a more important body, and there is no reason why it should not seek new fields of endeavor and service to the University.

It is a good sign that such representative students should stand for election to this body. Let us hope that the council branches out and take a still more active place in University life.

RAG CARPET

The flowers that bloom in the spring—waterlilies.

"The scholarship report will soon be out."

"Er-r speaking of the weather, it's a nice day."

"However, I'm bound to rise," said the student as the alarm clock went off.

"Yes, I suppose I can claim to be a financial success. And just think, I started business with a shoestring."

He's a genius. A man who could get anybody to buy one shoestring couldn't help but succeed.—Boston Transcript.

CAMPUS NOTES.

If the student who lost the chewed up pink pencil which was found in U hall last week will apply at the book store he will be given a new yellow pencil—if he has 5 cents to pay for it.

"When I was young," boasted the civil war veteran, "I never took my girl out flivvering."

Of course, when the Farmers fair was over, it got warmer.

He gave his pin away, alas, The only one he had. Forsooth it was a common pin, But it was needed bad.

GARDEN HINTS.

"See here, old bean, quit shooting up the garden like that."

The best thing to plant is either seeds or plants.

Best results are obtained if the seeds are not planted upside down.

The same thing applies to t' plants.

And remember as you do not sew, so shall you rip.

Student Opinion.

We have a communication signed "Senior Girl" which we would like to use if we knew the name of the author. The Daily Nebraskan will not print letters that are not signed. The writers name will be withheld when requested.

THE REINS.
(Purdue Exponent.)

We are led again to reflect upon the selection of leaders for student affairs for the next school year. Each days news brings word of the election of new men to office, the men who are to take up the reins of management and government of student affairs during the next year. With their election comes the exiting of men who have carried the duties for the past year.

The constantly changing personnel among student leaders makes it difficult to maintain a continuity of policy which will insure progress without everlasting back-slipping. New men in new offices cannot be expected to carry on with a similar assurance with which the old leaders left off. They must have time to realize the responsibilities of their office, to appreciate the duties which have fallen upon their shoulders, to take up the reins of management, and above all, to lose the feeling of newness.

There is one great service that retiring leaders can perform. It is in the instruction and advice of those who follow them. Unless they pass on the lessons of their experience, unless they make their knowledge and the things they have discovered which are lacking or essential to progress a source of easy access to those who would seek advice, the experience which they have had is lost, and the new leaders must of necessity learn the same lessons over again.

With cooperation between the new and the old, with a careful going over and turning over of the problems that arise with every office, the gap which occurs with the change can be cleared and the successful carrying on of student activities effected.

Retiring leaders must help the new men take the reins.

To Give Intelligence Tests for Applicants

For the convenience of students who wish to take the entrance tests of the University, an intelligence test will be given Saturday, May 10, at 11 o'clock in Social Science 101. The regulations for admission to the undergraduate colleges of the University provide that an applicant for admission who is a graduate of a non-accredited, four-year high school will be admitted on meeting the specific requirements of the college and passing an intelligence test with the standing of an average freshman student.
