TRAINING IN CITIZENSHIP.

Only about 1250 students took time Tuesday to vote for next years student council. About one-fourth of the number entitled to vote chose the men and women who will comprise the governing body of the whole school.

Despite that fact, an exceedingly good group of representatives was elected. Capable and efficient representatives have also been chosen at previous elections—by a small part of the student body.

But what kind of preparation for citizenship is the student who does not vote at college elections making? In a few years those who are now University students will be the leaders of the community, the state, the nation. Will students who refuse to vote for members of the governing body of their school, vote for members of the governing body of their nation?

No matter how skilled professional men this school may turn out, no matter how famous artists it may produce, no matter how many millionaires are to be found among Nebraska alumni of the future, this University will fail in its real purpose if its graduates are not good American citizens.

The price of good government in a democracy is the attention of every citizen. The minority is exposed to far greater temptations in state and national politics than in University politics. Let every student, instead of one-fourth of the students, begin now to lay the foundations for good citizenship, and form the habits essential in a democracy leaders, that the University of Nebraska may best serve the state and the nation.

THE RIGHT OF WAY

(The Notre Dame Daily)
 A college education provides a man with a right of way. It furnishes the nucleus which he may transform into a weapon for his own advancement. Education and courage are the requisites.

Courage is born in the bosom of the men of Notre Dame. Our gridiron heroes, past and present bear witness to our courage and our strength.

Football, without its glamour of competition, is a builder of men. And when the player casts aside his helmet for the last time he does not stop fighting, he merely takes up a different sort of battle, a struggle much more difficult.

Life is just a game to play; Play it!

When you have a thing to say, Say it!

Do not stammer "if" or "but" Courage takes the shortest cut. When your task is hard to do, Grit your teeth and see it thru!

Life is just a prize to get; Get it!

If the stage is not well set. Set it!

Men of mettle seldom find What they're looking for behind. Fat is passing down the street; Follow him on nimble feet;

You have the right of way, take it! You have success to make, Make it! Take the right of way!

FOOLS FATE

(The Daily Cardinal)
 Three young men two of whom could not swim a stroke and one of whom had made three tank records at a recent meet, stepped into a 16 foot sail canoe one murky afternoon and shoved off from the pier and glided away over the waters.

One of them had the nerve to suggest that they had no life preservers and that it might be a good idea if they returned to secure the missing

RAG CARPET

All the little hayseeds can be seen on the grass.

Somebody got a prize for writing a parody on the old oaken bucket. Not to be outdone we wrote one about a flivver:

Between one town and another As we flivver with speedy desire Comes a pause in the day's locomotion, That is known as the blownout tire.

She: Did you ever kiss a girl when she wasn't expecting it?
 He: I doubt it.

"Just my luck," said the prisoner as he threw the magazine across his cell in disgust.

"Nothing but continued stories and my execution is fixed for next Friday."

essentials to their safety. But he was laughed out of scorn by the other two. As they sailed the sky darkened and the wind arose so that they sped over the water like a fish. Suddenly a flash of lightning struck across the sky. They looked about and found that most of the canoes on the lake were already heading toward the shore. But on they sailed.

In a few minutes the lake was practically cleared of craft when the university whistle blew announcing an approaching storm. But on they sailed.

They not only continued to sail, but made straight for the middle of the lake. The warning whistle blew again. But on they sailed, and very happy people they were.

Then the rain began to fall and they finally turned the canoe toward the shore. But they had not gone more than 100 yards before a wave struck their craft with a terrific blow.

That was all there was to it. After the upset, two heads appeared on the surface, the heads of those two who had never swam a stroke in their lives. Knowing their companion upon whom they had depended had gone down with the craft they lost their nerve, became panicky left the canoe and plunged away for shore, a mile or so away.

When the speedy Isabel arrived on the scene a couple of minutes after the accident had occurred, all that the pilot could find was an overturned canoe and three circles of air bubbles.

Plan Features for May Day Breakfast

New features are being added every day to the plans for the all-University May-day breakfast to be held on the campus Saturday morning under the auspices of the W.S.G.A.

Representatives of every house will be on the committee to boost attendance. The cost will probably be 25 cents per person.

The W.S.G.A. is assuming all responsibility for the breakfast this year, but next year all organizations on the campus will be expected to cooperate. At Ohio, a May-day breakfast has been held annually for twenty-five years and it is attended by nearly every student.

STAY ON THE WALKS.
 Help make the campus of the University of Nebraska more attractive. Keep on the walks and off the grass. Each student should do everything possible to aid the University authorities in their efforts to beautify the campus.
