THE VISITING ATHLETES.

A total of 264 athletes are entered in the track and field events in the Missouri Valley meet Saturday, and forty more are entered in the tennis and golf tournaments.

These 300 contestants will be guests of the University of Nebraska for the two days that they are here, and it behooves every student to treat our guests in such manner that they will want to return to Lincoln for the meet next year.

The athletic authorities are very anxious to make Lincoln the permanent home of the Missouri Valley track meet, and this can only be done with the whole-hearted support of the students, both in the matter of ticket sales and also in the treatment of the visitors.

These athletes will form some sort of impression of the students here and of the University of Nebraska during their stay here. They will go back to their homes with kindly feelings toward us, or an attitude of indifference.

It is up to every student to go out of their way in order to make the stay of our guests pleasant, and send them home with the desire to return to the University of Nebraska.

Help make Lincoln the permanent home of the Missouri Valley track meet.

THE EVILS OF EXAMINATIONS.

Are examinations necessary? Do they serve any useful purpose? Is there a better way of accomplishing the desired result?

Examinations are the necessary or unnecessary evil to which students of the University of Nebraska are subjected at the end of each semester.

A number of progressive professors have abolished semester examinations, so far as their individual classes are concerned. They do this with the idea that they do not have to give the student an examination at the end of the semester to find how much he knows about the course. They assume that they know all along just what the student is doing, and that it is not necessary for them to give an examination at the completion of the course to find out how much the student is learning.

Other professors continue to give the old-style final examinations, compelling the students to go into "cram" sessions in order to glean enough knowledge to "get by." And usually these same instructors let the student slide along all semester, not compelling him to learn as he goes, but conducting the course on a system that will let the student "cram" to get through at the end of the semester.

We are told by learned educators that "crammed" or "canned" knowledge does not stay long. We believe it.

There has been a great deal of discussion in universities in all parts of the United States on the subject of final examinations. The Daily Californian, student newspaper of the University of California, sent questionnaires to every university in the country, trying to find out what student opinion was on this subject.

In some courses final examinations may be necessary, but there are very few courses that should come under this classification.

Most of the instructors who have abolished final examinations in their classes give frequent quizzes and examinations every week or two weeks. The students are compelled to cover the material as they go along. There no "stuffing" until the end of the semester as under the other system.

College life has undergone a decided change in the last quarter of a century. Requirements have stiffened and the courses are harder. More is required of the student.

The large increase in enrollment has caused new problems. The col-

Prof.: Order! Order!
Stude (dreamily): Ham sandwich.

We also hear that both of the seniors who went to the picnic had a nice time.

AGE OF MIRACLES.
S. K. Waiter, please change that mayonnaise nut sandwich I just ordered into a lemonade.

He: What street do you live on?
She: "Y."
He: Oh, I just wanted to know.

You are excused from all your exams with a grade of 90. Yes, we have a fine paying position for you as soon as you graduate. (Then the alarm went off.)

O death, where is thy sting provided you arrive before next week.

She: Show me the best gloves you have.

Clerk: How long do you want them?

She: Don't get insulting. I want to buy them, not hire 'em.

Honestly, we doubt if anything but a pancake could sit comfortably on our campus pyramid on a hot day.

USHERS NEEDED.

One hundred cadets are wanted to usher in the stadium at the Missouri Valley track meet Saturday afternoon. Men will be given free admission to the meet and will be required to do but a few minutes work finding seats before the events start. They must sign up in the military office on the second floor of Nebraska hall before Saturday. The first 100 men to sign up will be selected.

Military Ball Tickets.

Cadet officers who want tickets for the Reserve Officers association ball may secure them from Emmett V. Maun.

Gloria Swanson with her new boyish bob

To Bob—or Not to Bob?

DEANS of great universities, leading hair-dressers, health authorities, screen and stage actresses express their views on this tantalizing question that is causing the greatest discussion American women have ever engaged in. One woman says the bob is barbaric. A noted hair-dresser fears bobbing will bring bald heads. Others defend it vigorously, while some call it the greatest boon ever conferred upon the fair sex. Their remarks, pro and con, reveal an amazing division of opinion in the first nationwide survey of this important subject.

"The Battle of Bobbed Hair"

If you are planning to have your hair bobbed don't do it until you see all the styles illustrated in June Photoplay. They are authoritative designs and give you a wide selection to choose from. One of them will be the one you will require if you want your bob to fit your head and face.

"Great Lovers of the Screen"

THERE is a kick in every kiss, whether it be on the screen or elsewhere. The thrill of being loved by the greatest Romeos in pictures is bared by fourteen prominent actresses with amazing frankness. They tell which stars are the greatest screen lovers and why. Nothing as fascinating as these intimate disclosures of love-making that has ever been printed.

"The Kiss that Shocked the Sheiks"

RAMON NOVARRO and Alice Terry did it. They walked right out on the Sahara Desert and smacked the kiss that started pandemonium in the land where a man can have four wives and kiss them all at once if he wants to. But such a kiss as the screen stars gave to each other was too much for the real sheiks. They simply gargled Arabic in their excitement and their orchestra of pipes and drums ran wild. Herbert Howe tells all about it in his inimitable style.

$5,000 in Prizes

Don't miss the great prize contest announcement in this issue. $5,000 in cash prizes and four De Forest Radio Sets for the title to a great story by Arthur Stringer.

PHOTOPLAYS reviews of new pictures is the greatest service ever given to picture fans. Authoritative and accurate summaries of current film dramas in tabloid form show you at a glance whether you want to see them. They save you time and money.
