

PI BETA PHI'S WIN CONTEST

Kappa Kappa Gamma and Delta Zeta Take Second and Third Places.

SUBSCRIPTIONS REACH HIGH MARK THIS YEAR

Pi Beta Phi sorority was the winner in the contest for subscriptions to the Awgwan which closed Thursday, with Kappa Kappa Gamma and Delta Zeta receiving second and third honors. The winners could not be determined and their full number of subscriptions computed until late Thursday. Competition was very close throughout the contest.

The drive was very successful, said Clayton B. Snow, '26, Chadron, business manager, and more subscriptions were taken than ever before in an Awgwan contest. Kappa Kappa Gamma lead the first day of the campaign. Tuesday the Pi Phi's overcame their lead but at the end of the third day Kappa Kappa Gamma was again in the lead.

Much credit must be given to all the sororities for their work in the contest, Mr. Snow said. The two leading organizations were not assured of those places at any time, as several other contestants were pressing close behind them all the time. Delta Zeta was a consistent bidder for honors, as were Alpha Phi and Kappa Alpha Theta.

The Delta Zeta sorority was in seventh place Tuesday but climbed steadily into its final position of third. Alpha Phi, which finished fourth, at the end of the first day of sales was in seventh place. Kappa Alpha Theta remained in third or fourth place throughout the contest, but finished fifth. The complete final standings follow:

- Pi Beta Phi
- Kappa Kappa Gamma
- Delta Zeta
- Alpha Phi
- Kappa Alpha Theta
- Chi Omega
- Phi Mu
- Alpha Chi Omega
- Kappa Delta
- Alpha Delta Pi
- Delta Delta Delta
- Delta Gamma
- Sigma Kappa
- Alpha Omicron Pi
- Alpha Xi Delta
- Gamma Phi Beta
- Alpha Delta Theta
- Phi Omega Pi

According to Paul C. Larsen, '27, St. Paul, circulation manager, there are still some books which have not been checked in. These must be returned to the Awgwan office, University Hall 10, immediately.

REGENTS DISCUSS UNIVERSITY NEEDS

Chancellor Suggests Asking for Levy To Cover Ten-Year Building Program.

The Board of Regents of the University met yesterday morning in the Chancellor's office. The main point brought up was the needs of the University. No definite report was given out but the observations will be prepared in booklet form for the next legislature.

Chancellor Samuel Avery suggested asking for a small state levy to cover a building program for ten years. The needs of the University were definitely set out by Chancellor Avery in an article in the Nebraska Alumnus. The regents are as follows:

- F. W. Judson, Omaha; J. R. Webster, Omaha; G. N. Seymour, Elgin; W. P. Warner, Dakota City; F. J. Taylor, St. Paul; H. D. Landis, Seward.

All were present except Mr. Landis.

CAFETERIA WELL EQUIPPED

Serve an Average of Fifteen Hundred Meals a Day.

The University cafeteria in the basement of the Temple is now equipped to serve even more students than ever before, as a result of the improvements made during the past summer. Fifteen hundred meals is a fair average for an ordinary "busy" day.

Mrs. Louise Vining, director, has been in charge of the cafeteria for twelve years and has carefully studied the appetites of students. Many of the employees are students, there being more than thirty University men on the payroll.

The cafeteria is owned by the University and is operated solely for the convenience of students. The prices are as near actual cost as possible.

LIVESTOCK MEN MAKE VISIT

Delegates See Exhibit of Cattle; Go to Colgate Game.

South Omaha livestock commission men and Union Stockyards Company officials made their annual visit to the University of Nebraska Saturday. The delegation visited the College of Agriculture, paying particular attention to the exhibit of cattle being prepared for entry in the American royal show to be held in Kansas City and the International show in Chicago. The visitors attended the Nebraska-Colgate football game.

GAMMA PHI'S HAVE BEST DECORATIONS

Win Silver Candlesticks; Alpha O's and Thetas Are Runners-up.

Gamma Phi Beta sorority won the first prize offered for the best-decorated house for Homecoming day, with Alpha Omicron Pi and Kappa Alpha Theta receiving honorable mention. The prize, a pair of dutch silver candlesticks donated by Hallett's, was offered to the sorority or dormitory having the best decorations.

The judges inspected the houses Friday evening. Many of the contestants used electric lighting effects as part of the decoration schemes. The judges were Paul S. Laune, Lincoln artist and designer; Dave Schaefer, head window-decorator for Rudge and Guenzel; and W. Montgomery, head window-decorator for Miller and Paine.

The main feature of the winning design was two large imitations of a tube of Colgate's tooth paste with the inscription, "Squeeze Colgate." Long scarlet-and-cream streamers were strung from the roof to the edge of the lawn and the windows were covered with paper of the same color. A string of balloons strung across the top of the porch spelled "Hello Colgate." The entire scheme was electrically lighted.

DELIVERS LECTURE ON CHILD HEALTH

Grace Scernahorn of New York City Speaks to Women.

Grace Scernahorn, former superintendent of the Home Economics department of the New York City public schools and at present a member of the Child Health Association, of Washington, D. C., spoke before an audience of over 300 girls in the Social Science Auditorium Friday at 1:00 o'clock.

"Health of the College Girls," was the subject of her talk. She emphasized the fact that girls should not try to cheat nature. "Do you know where you stand?" she asked the girls.

"Health education and home economics instruction go hand-in-hand. During the early school years, children are taught the rules of healthful living. When at last they are admitted to home economics classes they are given a chance to put those rules into practice. Under home-like conditions health knowledge is applied. Children are given real food to eat—not merely told what is best to eat; they are instructed in the actual work of bed-making, of washing clothes, of arranging rooms—they not only read from text books how to manage a house, but actually do it."

"Your attitude toward health will make a big difference. There are limitations that keep you from doing the things that you hope to do but you have to face these things. They are nearly all limitations of health."

In talking about the attitude toward health she said, "The open mind which you develop in University toward changes is the thing that marks you from the untrained woman."

In closing, she said, "You have a chance to be Blue-Ribbon people. Will you take advantage of the opportunity?"

Engineering Society Plans for Barbecue

The Nebraska Engineering Society held the regular monthly meeting Friday morning in the Electrical Engineering Building. Barbecue committees gave their reports, and plans were completed for the "All-Engineering Barbecue." Prof. M. I. Evinger of the civil engineering department, faculty adviser of the Blue Print, spoke on the support of university and college engineering activities. "The most wonderful days of a person's life are his college days, so get in the game and enjoy them," he stated.

GRACE ABBOTT.

Chief of the Children's Bureau of the United States Department of Labor, who attended the University in 1902-1903, and who will address the Nebraska Conference on Social Work Sunday.

TO GIVE SPEECH ON SOCIAL WORK

Grace Abbott, Chief of Children's Bureau, Addresses Joint Conference.

TWO ORGANIZATIONS HOLD CONVENTIONS

Miss Grace Abbott, chief of the Children's Bureau, United States Department of Labor, will be the principal speaker at a joint meeting of the Nebraska Conference of Social Work and the Nebraska League of Women Voters at 8 o'clock this evening at the First Baptist Church, Fourteenth and K Streets. Both organizations are holding their conventions this week.

Miss Abbott, who for nine years was director of the Chicago League for the Protection of Immigrants, will speak on "Developing Standards in Child Welfare Legislation." She was born at Grand Island, Nebraska, and was educated at Grand Island College and the University of Nebraska, ex-'06. Her other activities in social work are:

vention in Cleveland last June which nominated President Coolidge as Republican candidate for president.

"Mr. Mondell is now a member of the War Finance Corporation," says Frank Johnson, '25, Cozad, president of the University Republican Club. "The main purpose of the corporation is to furnish financial relief for farmers of the Middle-West. He has devoted his life as a public servant and no one better than he can describe the situations which have arisen in Congress. He has served with distinction and was recognized by his colleagues as a man of unusual ability."

Mr. Mondell graduated from Washington University with the degree of Doctor of Laws. He was mayor of Newcastle, Wyoming in 1890 and a delegate to Republican national conventions in 1892, 1900, 1904, and 1908. From 1897 to 1899 he served as assistant commissioner of the General Land Office. Mr. Mondell was also president of the Dry Farming Congress from 1910 to 1915.

To Announce Rhodes Candidates Monday

The University committee to select candidates for the Rhodes scholarship, to appear before the state committee, interviewed applicants Friday afternoon and Saturday. No definite announcement will be made until Monday, according to Prof. Guernsey Jones, chairman of the committee. The other members are Prof. Philo M. Buck and Prof. E. H. Barbour. Five candidates will be selected to represent the University.

800 CELEBRATE WITH LUNCHEON

Alumnae and Students Meet in Armory Decorated in Scarlet and Cream.

TABLES RESERVED FOR ORGANIZATIONS

With an enthusiastic display of Nebraska songs and yells, 800 Nebraska women celebrated the annual Cornhusker luncheon Saturday noon in the Armory, transformed by a riot of Nebraska colors.

Red and white were used as the color scheme in every detail of the appointments at twenty-four long tables set length-wise in the hall. A canopy formed by red-and-white streamers was arranged above the diners.

At every place were red and white carnations, novel menus in the form of red-and-white N's and vari-colored rolls of serpentine. Waitresses were dressed in red and white.

Nurses Are Guests. Tables were reserved for the Tassels, the hostess organizations and chaperones and the Vestals of the Lamp with their guests, women students of the College of Medicine at Omaha who spent the day in Lincoln.

The prize offered by Hallett's for the best-decorated sorority house or dormitory carrying out the Homecoming scheme was presented to Gamma Phi Beta by Wendell Fayne, president of the Innocents. Berne Smithberger received the silver candlesticks on behalf of the winning sorority.

Presents Stunt.

The University band played Nebraska songs, and Monroe "Duke" Gleason, head cheerleader, led the gathering in some yells. A song stunt was given by the Tassels.

The Cornhusker Luncheon was under the direction of the W. S.-G. A. with Ruth Carpenter in charge, assisted by the following committee: Mary Ellen Edgerton, Mary Towle, Elinor Pickard, Ruth Wells, Doris Pinkerton, Ruth Sunderland and Helen Simpson. Waitresses were the Mystic Fish, Silver Serpents and Xi Deltas.

A. D. Fowler, '24, of the Western Electric Co., of Chicago, visited the University last week.

HUSKERS TRAMPLE COLGATE ELEVEN BY 33 TO 7 SCORE

Long Runs by "Choppy" Rhodes and Eddie Tyron, Nebraska and Maroon Halfbacks, Feature Thrilling Game; Captain Weir Tears Through Easterners' Line.

CORNHUSKERS GET BREAKS; MAKE FIVE COUNTERS

Whatever doubt Cornhusker followers may have had as to the ability and fighting spirit of the Nebraska football team was removed when the Huskers defeated Colgate University, 33 to 7, Saturday afternoon before a crowd of 22,000 assembled at Memorial Stadium.

The game was replete with thrills. Long runs by John ("Choppy") Rhodes and Eddie Tyron, halfbacks for Nebraska and Colgate, respectively, featured the game. Captain Ed Weir also had such success in tearing through the Colgate line and throwing the backs for losses that the Maroon team finally evolved the plan of having three men stop him.

Early in the game the power of the Nebraska offensive was demonstrated, with Rhodes and A. Mandery plunging through the line and running the ends for long gains. Bloodgood, quarterback, made several dazzling runs in returning punts.

Heretofore, Nebraska's offensive has been mainly line plunging. Saturday the Nebraskans took advantage of the speed in the backfield and gave a good exhibition of running the ends.

The work of Rhodes was the high point in the game. Plunging through the line, Rhodes made many long gains, but his most spectacular work was in the open field.

Makes Touchdown.

In the second quarter Bloodgood tossed a 20-yard pass to Rhodes. The Nebraska halfback then shook off several tacklers and ran 30 yards to the goal line. This was shortly after Collins' 60-yard run when he intercepted a Colgate pass and raced to a touchdown.

Rhodes again flashed in the lime-light in the fourth quarter, when he broke through the Colgate line and ran down several tacklers, finally getting away for 70 yards and a touchdown.

Locke intercepted a pass and ran 90 yards to a touchdown in the last quarter. The play was unusual and was undoubtedly a break in the luck for the Huskers. Due to the Colgate team's being offside, the play stopped and Locke, who had caught the ball, also stopped. Everyone had lost interest in the immediate proceedings when Captain Ed Weir shouted to Locke, "Go on; run!" Locke, who had a clear field, immediately began to sprint. The few Colgate men who realized what was going on were too fra away to do anything. Some argument ensued, but the Huskers were awarded the six points.

Colgate Out-downs Huskers.

In fact, the statistics show that the Huskers made only 7 first downs while Colgate made 11. In yardage, the Huskers made 182 from straight football and 60 from passes, while Colgate made 180 from straight football and 67 from passes.

The fact that the Huskers were heavily penalized—80 yards in all—and the Colgate team set back only 10 yards by penalties, may account for the disparity in first downs.

Colgate, made desperate by an inability to score, resorted to the forward passing game with only fair success. The Maroons attempted 20 passes, 5 of which were completed and 3 intercepted. The Huskers completed only one pass which was good for 60 yards and a touchdown. Six were attempted.

The Nebraska forwards showed a surprising ability to sift through the Colgate line. Three times Tyron's kicks were blocked. The great attention paid to Ed Weir may have accounted for the ability of the other linemen to break through.

Plenty of Excitement.

The game itself was one of the most thrilling that has ever been played on Stadium gridiron. The brilliant open field running and the hard line plunging combined to give the crowd plenty of excitement. When "Choppy" Rhodes broke away for seventy yards the stands went wild.

Wostoupal, Captain Weir and Pospisil indulged in an orgy of blocking Tyron's punts. All three managed to stop the ball before it had passed the line of scrimmage. Wostoupal and Pospisil played a strong defensive game and helped to open holes on offense.

Nebraska's first touchdown came as the result of a Colgate pass which Collins intercepted and carried 60 yards. The second was on a pass from Bloodgood to Rhodes. Bloodgood's long return of Tyron's punt, when he carried the ball to the Colgate 8-yard line, put the Huskers in a position to score the third time, and Bloodgood carried the ball over.

Colgate Makes 70 Yards.

Colgate's touchdown was the result of a passing and running attack that carried the ball 70 yards to a touchdown.

Rhodes' great run and Locke's 90-yard sprint brought the last two scores.

A safety was scored in the second quarter when Wostoupal blocked Tyron's punt but Tyron recovered the ball behind the goal line.

The sportsmanship of the crowd, which cheered the Colgate players with almost the same vim as the Huskers, was a fine feature of the game. (Continued on Page Three.)
