

REGENTS ASK HIGHER LEVY

Board Wants Minimum Raised to One-Fifth of a Mill for Ten Years.

PUBLISH PAMPHLET TO DISTRIBUTE IN STATE

If adequate educational facilities are to be provided students, the University of Nebraska must have, for the next ten-year period, a minimum levy of one-fifth of a mill, declares the board of Regents in a statement just issued, which will be published soon in pamphlet form for distribution to alumni, taxpayers, and other interested persons.

"Now and then it is desirable," the forward states, "that the Board of Regents and the officers of the University should take stock of their own institutions, and its needs. This holds—the people of the state—with the dividends it is paying, the economy with which it is carrying on its own affairs compared with other institutions, and its needs. This stock-taking has been a revelation to the Board. It takes a just pride in passing these facts on to its stockholders. It believes no other institution has done as much with its money as has the University of Nebraska."

Practice Strict Economy. Only by the utmost economy has the University been able to get along so far, the report says. Omaha has expended more money on high school buildings than the University has spent for all the buildings of the University in fifty years. An eastern university has erected dormitories for its freshman class which cost practically as much as our University has expended for buildings in the last fifty years.

"The University of Nebraska asks nothing for itself. People sometimes speak of what the University wants. The University is an impersonal sort of thing and wants nothing. It is what you want. If your children are to have an education, the University must have equipment with which to do the work," declares the Board.

Give Statistics. The registration of the University is outlined in ten-year periods: 1871-72, 130; 1881-82, 284; 1891-92, 883; 1901-02, 2,298; 1911-12, 3,657; 1921-22, 8,196; 1923-24, 10,352. In 1903-05, 4,475 students attended the University and they were educated at a cost to the state of $166 per student; in 1913-15, 8,722 students were educated at a cost of $280 for each student; and in 1923-25 the enrollment is 21,000 and the actual amount appropriated by the legislature for each student is $155.

"It seems almost unbelievable that with a registration of approximately two and a half times that of ten years ago, the appropriations have increased only a third," the pamphlet states.

With the average cost of educating a student in a collegiate course in twenty-five state educational institutions in 1923 was $281.44, Nebraska accomplished it for $159.32. Among these twenty-five institutions Nebraska with one exception educated its students at the lowest cost per student. Out of twenty-three state universities, Nebraska had next the largest number of students per instructor, the booklet reports.

10,000 Have Graduated. The accomplishments of the University are also outlined. More than 12,000 degrees have been granted, representing over 10,000 graduates, many of them leaders in their communities and some of them world famous men and women. Approximately 15,000 patients, many of them poor and needy people, have been cared for at the University hospital at the College of Medicine in Omaha. The dispensary departments of the College of Medicine have 25,000 visits a year. Experimental and extension work of the College of Agriculture have increased the income of the farmers of the state more than $26,000,000 every year, or six times the total amount spent for all University buildings in the last fifty years.

For every dollar of tax money, approximately only two and one-half cents now goes to the University. The program suggested by the Board

Annual Olympics Were Introduced To Supplant Custom of "Hazing"

The annual Olympics contest between the freshmen and sophomores will be held the morning of November 29, according to plans made by the Innocents, senior men's society, Iron Sphinx, sophomore men's society, and Green Gobins, freshman society. The complete program of events has not been decided upon, but in general it will consist of track events, pole rush, and tug-of-war.

The Olympics contest originated in 1908 following a suggestion by G. E. Condra, professor of industries and surveys, as an event to take the place of the custom of "hazing." Nebraska was one of the first universities to adopt this form of deciding supremacy of classes instead of the old method of fist fights and absolute warfare.

A. J. Mask of the University of Nebraska was elected chairman of the program committee. Wickendon of New York, chairman of the national society's committee on the investigation of methods of instruction in engineering schools.

RAIN INSURANCE NOT CARRIED

Athletic Department Drops Practice Used Last Year. No rain insurance is being carried by the athletic department on the football games this fall. This insurance was carried last year, but proved too expensive, amounting from ten to twenty per cent of the gate receipts, depending on the rainfall that was insured against and the hours for which it was carried.

Rain last year cut down the receipts from the Nebraska-Missouri game, but it did not come at the hours covered by the policy, so nothing was recovered. Latest reports from Nome and Monte Carlo indicate that there will be plenty of faro games and roulette wheels running November 8, the night of the military carnival in the Armory. Lieutenant John Kellogg, in charge of the gambling devices, promises that everyone will win and that every game will cost but a small sum. "Klondyke" currency will flow freely for those who have the winning fever and the Pi Beta Phi barmaids will serve the thirsty until the official decree declares that another University party must come to a close.

UNIVERSITY BUYS PROPERTY

Four City Blocks Purchased for Use of Athletic Department.

Four city blocks of property have been formally deeded to the University and will be used as an extension for athletic activities. The property was formerly the Reimers Kauffman stone plant ground and extends from Eleventh to Fourteenth street directly north of the campus. Work has already begun on the ground from University Avenue to Fourteenth Street will be ready for use soon. $30,000 was paid for the property.

SORORITIES TO ENTER CONTEST

To Sell Tags During One-Day Campaign to Send Band to Notre Dame.

WANT EACH STUDENT TO GIVE TEN CENTS

A number of sororities have announced their intentions of entering the contest to collect the greatest sum of money toward sending the band to Notre Dame, according to the chairman of the campaign. The sorority turning in the greatest sum of money will be given a special concert by the band as a reward for their services to the University.

Sending the band to Notre Dame will make Nebraska represented by approximately five hundred students besides the alumni that will be in South Bend for the game. Downtown stores will send one hundred and twenty-five students, the band will be composed of forty or more pieces, many students will go by train, and some are already talking of driving through according to reports.

In the one-day campaign, it is hoped that each person will give ten cents. It is entirely optional whether anyone contributes to the fund or not but as plans now stand, the committee feels that Nebraska spirit will prompt everyone to help send our band to Notre Dame. The annual game with the Irish is always the most important game on the Husker schedule. By defeating the Notre Dame team twice in succession, Nebraska established a precedent, and now to defeat the South Benders on their own field would establish the superiority of the Cornhusker team over the Irish.

Will Help Rooters. The band plus the large number of students would make a lively rooter section for the Cornhuskers to foster fighting spirit in South Bend, the chairman stated.

Students will be given tags Wednesday to show that they have contributed toward sending the band to South Bend. Sorority girls will solicit for one day only, the results being announced at noon, at the close of the day, and in the Daily Nebraskan the next morning. The winning sorority will then be given the privilege of naming the day and hour when the band will give the concert. William T. Quick, director, stated that most any time would be perfectly agreeable to the members of the band.

PROMISE NUMEROUS GAMBLING DEVICES FOR MILITARY CARNIVAL, NOVEMBER 8

Latest reports from Nome and Monte Carlo indicate that there will be plenty of faro games and roulette wheels running November 8, the night of the military carnival in the Armory. Lieutenant John Kellogg, in charge of the gambling devices, promises that everyone will win and that every game will cost but a small sum. "Klondyke" currency will flow freely for those who have the winning fever and the Pi Beta Phi barmaids will serve the thirsty until the official decree declares that another University party must come to a close.

For those who believe that Captain Kidd never had a barrel of money, there will be more than a barrel full there for them to see, and more than that, to buy at reduced prices. Policemen for the occasion asked that it be announced that guns be parked outside. Those feeling vicious will be furnished knives. The reason being, according to the chief, that the discharge of the guns will disturb the gentle peace of the evening.

HUSKERS CONQUER KANSAS IN HARD FOUGHT CONTEST

Robertson and Collins Make Touchdowns for Nebraska in Third Quarter and Starr Counts for Jayhawkers in Fourth, Making Score 14-7.

500 NEBRASKANS AMONG 14,000 FANS AT THE GAME

(Special to the Daily Nebraskan.) UNIVERSITY OF KANSAS, LAWRENCE, Kas., Oct. 25.—Fourteen thousand howling Jayhawk fans saw their team go down to defeat here this afternoon because a young man from Nebraska, Rob Roy Robertson, scooped up a Jayhawk fumble and raced thirty yards to a touchdown. This bit of opportunity provided Nebraska with seven points which proved to be the margin needed for a 14 to 7 victory.

Perhaps Nebraska played slightly better football but the 500 Cornhuskers who were present were exceedingly content with a seven point margin. It was a determined Jayhawk squad, stung by three consecutive defeats, that came on the field this afternoon, determined to beat Nebraska or die trying. While matters hardly came to this condition, the Kansans gave all they had. Had they received the breaks instead of the Huskers, the story might have been different.

KANSAS OBSERVES HOMECOMING DAY

Fraternities and Sororities Decorate Their Houses for Annual Event.

(Special to The Daily Nebraskan.) University of Kansas, Lawrence, Kansas, October 25.—The University of Kansas observed its annual Homecoming Day today with fraternity and sorority houses decorated for the return "grads" and Cornhusker visitors. The Nebraska-Kansas football game was the main attraction. Greek letter organizations were busy entertaining Kansas alumni and Nebraska visitors.

At the game five hundred Cornhusker rooters massed on the fifty-yard line rose to their feet with a yell for the team when it trotted on the field at 1:53. A few minutes before the Kansas supporters had sent crashing across the gridiron the famous "Rock Chalk, Jay Hawk, K. U." chant.

Entertainment between the halves was provided by the Jay Janes, Kansas women's pep organization, Ku Klux chapter of Pi Epsilon Pi, and the Nebraska Tassels and Corncocks. The four organizations marched to the center of the field and set afloat scarlet, blue, and cream balloons. The balloons floated thirty yards above the field and were held in formation by strings running to the four corners of the stands.

The Corncocks, Nebraska chapter of Pi Epsilon Pi, marched around the field chanting, "Rock Chalk, Jay Hawk, We'll Get You." The ninety-piece Kansas band, half in scarlet jerseys and half in blue, formed a semi-circle in front of the Nebraska section and played Kansas and Nebraska songs. Another diversion was provided by broken men forcing freshmen who had broken university rules to run a gauntlet of paddles.

NIGHT CLASSES HAVE ENROLLMENT OF 220

Night classes conducted by the Extension Division now have a total enrollment of 220, not including the students in the courses in fine arts. UNIVERSITY OF INDIANA

Forty men are required to keep the campus in shape. It is considered the second most beautiful one in this country.

More punting followed with neither team having any material advantage. Later Kansas took the ball on its 41-yard line and carried it to Nebraska's 18-yard line, where another pass was grounded behind the goal line for a touchdown. The half ended with Nebraska in possession of the ball on Kansas' 3-yard line as the result of a pass to R. Mandery. Nebraska carried the ball down the field at the beginning of the second half until Rhodes fumbled and Mulkins, Kansas tackle, recovered. More punting followed, until Hodges missed Bloodgood's punt and the ball went to Robertson. After the latter's touchdown, A. Mandery kicked goal. Nebraska took the ball on its 28-yard line on the kickoff and carried it past the middle of the field and then received a penalty. Rhodes
