WELCOME THE TEAM!

The overwhelming victory of Notre Dame Saturday has convinced Nebraska followers that Rockne's team is the best in the country. The Cornhuskers were literally unable to halt the "four horsemen."

THE CORNHUSKER.

The sales campaign for the 1925 Cornhusker begins Monday and the yearbook is in as great need as ever of subscriptions.

The usefulness of the Cornhusker is the most valid reason for its publication, but it is a sufficient reason in itself.

The Cornhusker "preserves the present for the future" in its sections of photographs of members of the junior and senior classes with the accompanying sketches of their University activities.

In Nebraska, the annual serves to present the case of the University to the people. Through the advertising accomplished by students taking the book to their homes there is greater likelihood this year of securing new legislative appropriations.

In other states the Cornhusker helps the other student publications to give the state a high place in comparison with other commonwealths, and to increase the prestige of the University among other institutions of higher learning.

The best of which the staff is capable is being given to the production of the Cornhusker. The students should support this student activity and secure to themselves a reminder of this year of their attendance at Nebraska.

SCHEDULE CHANGED.

The University Senate recently changed the schedule of events in the period taken up by final examinations for the second semester and Roundup week.

There is a practical side to the question, however, which the Senate probably did not overlook, but to which it may not have given enough weight in making its decision.

If every student who wishes to begin his summer work June 1 or before tries to make such arrangements most of the final examinations in the end, will be given before Roundup week.

Then, there are the students to be considered. They must study for final examinations and daily work at the same time if they try to get away from the University in time to take up necessary summer employment.

The alumni should be considered in fixing the schedule for the end of the academic year, but the University is or should be operated primarily for the convenience of the students.

The College Press

"Leaders" Who Are Followers.

On the campus there are many persons who modestly designate themselves as "leaders." They have in many instances achieved their heights of prominence by work and an equal number of cases by that indefinitely established but much talked of quantity known as "pull."

Much talk is heard today about the number of students who are careless about their morals and personal habits, who do too much drinking. Rumors are prevalent concerning the "wet" parties and wild times of the student community.

Organizations of students whose purpose it should be to foster a better sort of law-abiding spirit are often most prominent in the promotion of practices which are questionable in character and at times definitely reprehensible.

Until prominent students and their influential organizations take a stand for what they know in their innermost self to be the right the excessive breaking of the law in University communities will never be eliminated to any great extent.

Twenty Years Ago

A mass meeting was called to impress on every student the fact that it was his duty to come out to the coming game with Bellevue and aid in the Shedd benefit.

Under the column "In Other Colleges" there was an exchange from the University of California stating that there would be no coed rooters at the football games.

Ten Years Ago

Two plans for campus extension had been submitted to the board of regents. Appropriations had been made for three million dollars for the extension of the campus and the erection of more than a score of new buildings.

OLYMPICS THIS YEAR

Junior girls joined in the fight with the sophomores and freshmen. The senior girls were out for junior caps and the juniors were out for senior caps.

caps at the clothing store and burned them at the main gate of the campus. The class fight was over. The next day an article appeared in The Daily Nebraskan which said: "Never before in the history of the University has such a great class disturbance occurred."

The issue of the Nebraskan which contained details of the defeat of the freshmen and burning of the class caps was interfered with to some extent by what was believed to have been first-year men.
