

OLYMPICS COME NEXT SATURDAY

Annual Freshman-Sophomore Battle Determines Whether Caps Are Discarded.

STADIUM AND DRILL FIELD ARE SCENES

The Olympics, the annual battle between the freshmen and sophomores, will start in the Stadium Saturday morning at 9 o'clock. The meet will decide whether the freshmen wear their green caps until Christmas, or for the rest of the school year.

The Order of Events.

- Wrestling:
  - 135-pound class, 5 points.
  - 145-pound class, 5 points.
  - 175-pound class, 5 points.
- Boxing:
  - 135-pound class, 5 points.
  - 145-pound class, 5 points.
  - 175-pound class, 5 points.
- Tug-of-War, 10 points.
- 440-yard relay, 10 points.
- Cane rush, 15 points.
- Bull pen, 15 points.
- Pole rush, 20 points.
- Total Points 100.

The wrestling, boxing and tug-of-war events will be held inside the Stadium, and the cane rush, the bull pen and the pole rush will be held on the drill field.

Wrestle Five Minutes.

Each of the wrestling matches will be for five minutes. The participant with the time advantage at the end of five minutes will be given the five points, should there be no fall before that time. Each boxing match will be for three two-minute rounds, to a decision. Dale Skinner will referee the wrestling matches, and Harry Reed will be in charge of the boxing.

Each team in the tug-of-war will be composed of fifteen men. The event will last until one team has won. The 440-yard relay will also be held in the Stadium, and will be for ten points.

The remainder of the events will take place on the drill field. The cane rush, which is the first event, is started by eight freshmen and eight sophomores, all holding to a pole. Then fifteen others from each class rush in an attempt to gain a hold also. At the end of five minutes, the class with the most hands on the pole wins the fifteen points.

Bull Pen is New.

The bull pen is a new game in Nebraska Olympics. Two sides each composed of about 100 men, are chosen, and lined up at each end of the field. A dividing line, is made, and the object of the game is for each side to get the greatest number of opponents into its territory. The prisoners are not just tagged and placed in an imaginary prison, but must be held down securely until the ten minutes have elapsed. The winning side is awarded 15 points.

The last, and probably the most interesting event of the Olympics, is the pole rush. Robert Hoagland, the sophomore president, will be placed on top a fifteen-foot telephone pole in the middle of the drill field. Around the bottom will be the member of his class. The freshmen will attempt to get Hoagland from the pole. If the first-year men succeed within thirteen minutes, twenty points will be awarded to them. If they don't, the points go to the sophomores.

Prepare on Large Scale.

Preparation for the Olympics has been going on on a large scale this year. Both classes are determined to win, and while the freshmen have the greatest number of victories to their credit, the result this year is by no means certain. Both classes have been holding tryouts and practicing during the last three weeks, and spirit has been steadily growing.

Each class must get its own paint to designate its members. Freshmen will wear green, and sophomores red. Grease-paint is to be used on the faces of all participants in the games.

After the Olympics there will be no burning of caps, regardless of who wins. The freshmen must wear them until Christmas if they win, and the rule will be sharply enforced by fraternities and the Iron Sphinx. If the second-year men are the victors, the caps must be retained until the end of the year.

Women of both classes are urged to attend the games. While they cannot actually participate in a cause that is for them as well as the men, they can lend their moral support, say members of the committees.

Mickelwaite Captains Oregon Gridmen Today

Mickelwaite, tackle, will captain the Oregon Aggie team during the Nebraska game. The player who was elected captain for this year was married and did not return to school. Therefore, Coach Schissler has appointed the system of appointing a captain for each game. Mickelwaite is the selection this time.

BARBOUR TALKS TO FRESHMEN

Tells Freshman Sections of Evolution of Man and Domestic Animals.

REMAINS OF ANIMALS FOUND IN NEBRASKA

The evolution of man and domestic animals and an explanation of the Darwinian theory were the features of the weekly freshman lecture given Monday and Tuesday by Prof. E. H. Barbour of the department of geology. How remains of ancient animals found in Nebraska and Kansas have aided in the development of early stages in the explanation was also told.

"We should realize before we criticize the Darwinian theory that it does not conclude that man was descended directly from the ape," said Professor Barbour. "There is a missing step which has not been explained or discovered."

Resemblance is Strong.

The resemblance between the ape and the man, he said, was very strong. The ape had no forehead nor chin, a small brain, and a curved vertebrae. He developed from a quadruped to a biped slowly and used his hind feet for many of the same purposes as his fore feet or hands.

The first man of which we have any knowledge was a hairy, bent-over creature who hunted with his hands in much the same way as the ape. His first step forward was in the fashioning of crude implements to aid him in hunting and working. Other discoveries show that this primitive man gradually developed a love for the beautiful and a respect for the dead. He made attempts at ornamentation of his utensils and buried his deceased fellow creatures with ceremony.

Development Rapid.

Developments of the first man was fairly rapid. A small forehead developed, indicating a larger brain, and he began to express himself by means of pictures trying to describe his thoughts to others. Later he made distinct attempts at writing history for those who came after him.

The lecture was illustrated by slides, many made by Professor Barbour. They showed different stages in the development of fishes, birds, and land animals.

Pershing Rifles Will Drill Between Halves

Between halves of the Oregon-Nebraska game this afternoon the Pershing Rifles, honorary military organization for men taking the basic course, will drill.

The drill will consist of marching and the presentation of the Butts Manual, one of the best-known army exercises. This exercise was perfected by Lieutenant Butts of the Fifth Infantry and was first used at Fort McPherson. Lieutenant Butts was assisted by Sergeant Linville and Sergeant Kidwell, who is in charge of military supplies at the University. Sergeant Lewis, who instructed the men in this manual, received his training in it at army posts in China and other parts of the world.

ASK STUDENTS NOT TO HAZE

Berge and Engberg Issue Statements on Suppression of Friday Battles.

LETTERS ARE MAILED TO ALL FRATERNITIES

Students are urged by Wendell Berge, president of the Innocents, and Dean C. C. Engberg, to eliminate hazing from the Olympics this year. Dean Engberg and Berge are both in favor of the event, and are concentrating their efforts on its success. Letters have been sent to all fraternities, asking them to do all in their power to suppress hazing Friday night.

In a statement to the student body, Dean Engberg said: "The annual contest between the freshmen and sophomore classes will be held Saturday morning, November 29, and we all hope that it will be a contest worth while—a contest into which both classes have put all their energy and strength for the glory of their class. A successful contest is not possible, however, if ill feeling is engendered by the overt acts of the day before, for the more dissipation of energy there is the day before, the less there is to use in full force when the proper time comes, a fact well-known to all athletes. I am certain that every member of the student body will bear these facts in mind and also remember that he is bound by the rules of honor and personal responsibility not to do anything that may in any way bring discredit or trouble to the good name of the University."

Wendell Berge stated: "The purpose of the Olympics is to settle freshman-sophomore class differences for once and for all. All students in school who are real friends of the Olympics idea will direct their efforts to the organized events. There should be no hazing Friday night and any such attempts will be viewed by the Innocents and other organizations in charge of the Olympics as tending to destroy the purpose of the events Saturday."

Chemical Engineers Make Ulrich Leader

PAN-HEL GIVES PINS TO THREE

Rooney, '27, Doremus, '26, Cannell, '25, Win Awards for Highest Averages.

OTHERS ARE GIVEN HONORABLE MENTION

Laura Rooney, '27, Tecumseh, Mary Doremus, '26, Aurora and Margaret Cannell, '25, Lincoln were awarded Pan-Hellenic scholarship pins at the annual Thanksgiving convocation held yesterday. The scholarship pins are awarded the three women having the highest average in the freshman, sophomore and junior classes of each year. If a woman is not in school the year following the one in which she made the winning average, she is given honorable mention, and the woman having the next highest grades is given the pin. The following women were awarded the scholarship pin or given honorable mention:

Is Not in School.

Audrey Musick, '27, Summerfield, Kans., had an average of 94.96, but she receives honorable mention since she is not going to school here this year. Laura Rooney, '27, Tecumseh, won the pin with an average of 94.66. Honorable mention was given to Neola Skala, '27, Lincoln, with an average of 93.82.

Mary Doremus, '26, Aurora was awarded a pin with an average of 96.27. Honorable mention was given Marian Cronin, '26, Gettysburg, So. Dak., whose average was 96.13, and Genevieve Clark, '26, Stanford, with an average of 95.94.

Wins Honor Twice.

Mrs. Dorothy Lindsay, '25, Lincoln won honorable mention for her average of 99.75. She was not given the pin because she had already won a pin in her freshman year. The scholarship pin was awarded to Margaret Cannell, '25, Lincoln. Her average was 96.96.

The scholarship pin, which is in the shape of a flaming torch, set with tiny pearls, has the name of the woman engraved upon the back. It has been the custom in the University of Nebraska for the last fourteen years, for the chairman of Pan-Hellenic to award these pins at the annual Thanksgiving convocation.

VESPERS ADDRESS GIVEN BY PASTOR

Dr. Ray Hunt Answers Question, "What Is It That Gives Worth to Life?"

"What is it that gives worth to life?" asked Dr. Ray Hunt, pastor of the First Christian church of Lincoln, in his address at Vespers on Tuesday evening in Ellen Smith Hall. "The thing that gives worth to life," he answered, "is the doing of something that has within itself eternal life. Give to life a great objective, devote it, dedicate it to a worthy cause and you shall receive value as you give it. Then when Thanksgiving time comes, we shall find that our greatest happiness has come from the doing, for the sake of humanity, of a worthy thing."

Most of us suffer, asserted Dr. Hunt, from a diversity of interests in life and from a failure to appreciate the real values of life. "The only way in which we can bring unity into our lives is to center all our activity around one great worthy ideal."

Vespers this week took the form of a Thanksgiving service. The hymns by the choir and the special solo by Grace Rogge, as well as the scripture reading by the leader, Gertrude Ebers, were suited to the occasion.

Excuse Classes For Olympics Saturday

To All Officers of Instruction: In accordance with the action of the University Senate at its last meeting, Saturday morning, November 29, was set aside for the annual Olympics contest between the freshman and sophomore classes, which classes are excused from schoolwork on that day.

The Senate further ruled that, because of the fact that Saturday mornings are now used as fully as any other day in the week for laboratories and, to a great extent, for recitations, the Olympics must in the future be held on Saturday afternoons or on a holiday.

CARL C. ENGBERG, Executive Dean.

STAGE RALLY ON EVE OF CONTEST

Students' Turnout Is Comparatively Small; James Foster Makes Speech.

STUDENT MANAGER OF AGGIES GIVES TALK

"The last pre-victory football rally of the year," was what Wendell Berge called the meeting at the Armory last night. The students turned out in small numbers in comparison with the other rallies of the season. "Duke" Gleason and the band helped to arouse spirit.

The football team was there, and promised to do its best in the Oregon Aggies-Nebraska game today.

As the first speaker, Berge introduced James Foster, of the College of Law, one of Nebraska's most ardent football fans. Mr. Foster praised the work the Cornhuskers had done during the past season, the spirit that had been shown by the school.

Athletic Manager Kearns, of the Oregon Aggies, was the next speaker. He is a former Nebraskan, and stated that he was proud that his school could meet such a worthy opponent as the Cornhuskers. He said that Coach Schissler was ill, and unable to be at the rally.

"Indian" Schulte, Nebraska line coach, said he was disappointed in the small number of students who were at the rally. Schulte said he expected a hard game with the Aggies, and that those who are really behind the team would have to do their bit. "We want to win that game, and the team must have the student body back of it," he said.

Leo Scherer, end on the 1922 team, talked to the students. Captain Ed Weir was the last speaker at the rally. "The most pleasant thing the team will remember when the game is over tomorrow," he said, "is the splendid enthusiasm shown by ball season."

POUND TO ADDRESS TEACHERS

Will Speak Before St. Louis Gathering and at Stephens.

Dr. Louis Pound, of the department of English, has gone to St. Louis and Columbia, Missouri, for the week-end. On Friday she will take part in a discussion of "The Value of English Linguistics to the Teacher" before the meeting of the College section of the National Council of English Teachers. On Saturday morning she will speak on "The Living Language" at Stephens College, Columbia, Missouri. While she is at the college, Miss Pound will be the guest of Dr. Louise Dudley, of the Department of English there.

OREGON AGGIES CLASH WITH NEBRASKA GRIDSTERS TODAY

Aggies Heavier than Weights Given out by Athletic Department Would Indicate; Ineligibility and Injuries Take Toll of Cornhusker Warriors.

JOE WEIR GIVEN A CHANCE AT END IN PRACTICE

The Oregon Aggies, one of the strongest of the Pacific Coast conference teams, and the Cornhuskers, class of the Missouri Valley, will clash today at Stadium field in a game that will have an important bearing on inter-sectional results.

The Aggies are heavy, according to those who have seen them in action, although the weights as given out by the Oregon athletic department would not indicate it.

Ineligibility and injuries may take their toll of the Husker squad. Robertson was not eligible to play. Others may be able to overcome the scholastic barriers before the game.

Joe Weir, who has been playing guard all season, was shifted to end in practice. Weir may be holding down one of the wings against the Aggies. Molzen and Pospisil will probably be in at guards.

The game will be the last of the season for the Cornhuskers. Few, if any of the Cornhusker regulars will be left to the squad.

Schissler Coaches Pacific Coast Team

Paul Schissler, former Husker basketball coach and assistant football coach at Nebraska, now grid mentor at Oregon Agricultural College. Coach Schissler is making no predictions of victory, but declares that his team will fight the full route.

The officials for the game will be: Referee—Frank Birch, Earlham. Umpire—Ted Faulk, Washington. Field Judge—Warren C. Giles. Headlinesman—Jay Wyatt, Missouri.

Two Huskers, Ladd Hubka and Melvin Collins, will end their Varsity competition tomorrow. Rob Robertson, end, will probably not return to school next year and will also be out. He has another year of Varsity competition.

All other Huskers will probably be back. There should be a world of material for next year's team.

Heavy Corvallis Team Goes Through Stiff Drill

The Oregon Aggie football team was snapped Wednesday morning under the Stadium just after a stiff morning workout. The Aggies, headed by Coach Schissler, formerly of the Nebraska coaching staff, will play the Huskers today. The team appears to be heavy.
