ROCKMEN STOP ON TRIP EAST

Notre Dame Football Squad Entertained With Banquet at Country Club.

ONLY FIVE OF FIRST TEAM REMAIN ON TRIP

Notre Dame's championship football team left Lincoln at 9:30 last night after a short stop-over here on the return trip to South Bend from California where they defeated Leland Stanford University in the game that made them the first undisputed champions of the United States.

The gridsters left on the Burlington and changed to the Chicago Great Western lines at Omaha. They will arrive in Chicago late this afternoon and are due to pull into South Bend at 7 o'clock.

The squad arrived in Lincoln at 2:25 p. m. yesterday and were met by Fred T. Dawson, Henry F. Schulte, and Herb Gish together with a handful of students. Only five of the first string men were present, the remainder having left the train at various points on the route.

The Irish stayed at the Lincoln Hotel during their stay. Shortly after their arrival they were taken on a tour of Lincoln and the state penitentiary.

Entertainment in the evening consisted of a banquet given by the athletic board at the Lincoln Country Club. Almost one hundred members of the Notre Dame and Nebraska squads, the board of regents, and the coaching staff were present. A ruling which was said by the Notre Dame men to be fully appreciated by them was that no long speeches should be made.

Dawson and Avery Speak.

Fred T. Dawson, Chancellor Avery, and Tom Leep representing Notre Dame were the only speakers. The serenaders furnished music. "Our aim in promoting this little dinner is to show our appreciation of the fraternal relations existing between Notre Dame and Nebraska," said Mr. Dawson. "We do not wish to carry it off with any pompous ceremony, but only want to entertain you and keep up a real friendship between us."

Chancellor Avery extended the welcome to the champions. "It is a real honor to be able to welcome the champions of the United States and to know the friendly relations existing between the two Universities," he said. "You, representing in your strong way the church, and we, representing in our very feeble way the state, furnish an interesting basis for inter-university relationships."

Tom Leep of the Notre Dame party responded to Mr. Dawson's speech. He told of the strong tie between the Cornhuskers and the Irish and related accounts of parts of the Stanford game. He expressed the appreciation of Notre Dame for the fine hospitality extended to them on every trip and on this visit.

Praises Treatment of Team.

"The exhibition which you put on for us last year when you held a torchlight parade and marched to the hotel where we spoke from the balcony was the most enthusiastic and whole-hearted reception we have ever received," he declared. "We tried to follow your example when you came to South Bend this year."

"It meant a lot to this team to defeat Nebraska. When you won from us the year before every man on that team was determined to win the next contest. I believe that if we had lost, these twenty-three men who are graduating this year would have been a much sadder bunch than is here tonight."

Leep said that Notre Dame was under a great strain New Year's day. The long trip, the change in climate, and the mental strain all contributed to make the contest a hard one. The Notre Dame men were forced to do more hard work in the first half than ever before, he declared.

"At the half, as men on the team expressed it, 'we feel all right, we are all right but we can't get started.' It was a great relief when Layden turned what seemed to be a 20-17 score into 27-10 by intercepting a Stanford pass near their goal line."

"We consider the Stanford game one of our hardest, yet I am sure that the men took the Nebraska game with more seriousness than the former, if possible. They felt that they had to beat Nebraska in order to make the season a successful one."

After the banquet, the squad was taken to the governor's reception at the governor's mansion, accepting the invitation extended to them by the governor. They were transported in two large busses chartered for them by the athletic board.

Vern Patton, Lincoln, has been elected captain of the College of Agriculture football team for next season. He has played for two years with the Aggies as a backfield man and has won an "N" in baseball.

PICTURES MUST BE IN SOON

Groups Should Make Appointments With Campus Studio.

Appointments for group pictures for the 1925 Cornhusker must be made directly with the Campus studio, and must be filled within the next four weeks. The regular charge for the group picture is four dollars and must be paid the photographer at the time of the sitting.

An additional fee of one dollar will be charged each time a group fails to keep an appointment unless broken one day in advance, and members of the group arriving late will necessarily be left out of the picture.

PUBLISH NAMES FOR PICTURES

More Seniors Asked to Make Appointments at Hauck and Townsend Studios.

All seniors pictures must be taken within the next two weeks as the panels for the Cornhusker are to be made up by February 1. The lists for the appointments will be published daily in The Daily Nebraskan and students are urged to call the assigned studio as soon as possible for appointments, after their names appear.

Four dollars will be charged at the time of the sitting, which will pay the photographer and for the printing and engraving. Additional Cornhusker prints will be fifty cents each. The following students should make appointments for Saturday:

Townsend List.

"Fattening Western Lambs" New Bulletin

"Fattening Western Lambs" is the title of a bulletin written by Prof. H. D. Fox of the Department of Animal Husbandry and issued by the College of Agriculture Experiment Station.

The booklet is devoted to summaries of experiments describing the effects of different diets on lambs. They include tables of statistics tabulating quantities of the rations fed.

Only Half of Women Registered Thus Far

Only half of the women students in the University who are scheduled to register this week have appeared at Dean Heppners' office up to Thursday. The total number whose registrations had been checked at 5 o'clock Thursday evening was 1,108.

As many as have already passed through this office during the first four days of the period must pass through in the day and a half remaining. A late registration fee of three dollars will be charged after Saturday noon.

The number registered in the College of Arts and Sciences was increased by 260 Thursday, swelling the total to 740. In the Engineering College, 91 registrations Thursday raised the total to 402. Approximately 570 have registered in the Teachers College, and 150 in the School of Fine Arts.

Afternoon registration continues light, according to the deans in charge. Many classes scheduled in the morning will be changed on registrations as a result. The supervisors advise completion of the registration as early Friday as possible.

DR. JUDD SPEAKS AT CONVOCATION

"Where Shall I Invest My Life?" Is Subject of Address Given Wednesday.

OFFICER OF VOLUNTEER MOVE TALKS IN TEMPLE

"Where Shall I Invest My Life?" was the subject of an address given by Dr. Walter K. Judd, '20, M. D. '24 in convocation Wednesday at 11 o'clock in the Temple Theater. Dr. Judd is corresponding secretary for the Student Volunteer Movement, and will deliver several addresses in Lincoln during the week.

Dr. Judd pointed out that he had two things in common with the University of Nebraska students, that he attended the University and that he only had one life to live.

"I wonder," said Dr. Judd, "why we are so careless with this one life of ours. We just sit back and expect something to turn up. If we would look back on our lives we would probably be more successful."

Seven men out of ten do not find the occupation for which they are best fitted. This is one of the real tragedies of life. Most of us could be exceptional and are satisfied with being mediocre. This condition shows that we are not using our talents to the best advantage, according to Dr. Judd.

"It is my purpose, if God permits, to become a foreign missionary," he said. The Student Volunteer pledge was explained by Dr. Judd as meaning a promise that should be kept as long as a person is convinced that being a missionary is his purpose in life. A foreign missionary goes out with the one aim that the gospel of Jesus Christ may be operated and known all over the world.

"Medicine is my profession," explained Dr. Judd, "but the gospel of Jesus Christ is my life work. A missionary is not a man who works

SAYS MARRIAGE LAWS NEEDLESS

James E. Lawrence, Managing Editor of Star, Addresses Women Voters.

EDUCATION GIVEN AS REMEDY FOR SITUATION

"We don't need marriage legislation," declared James E. Lawrence at a meeting of the Junior League of Women Voters, Thursday afternoon at the Temple. "I'll tell you what we do need. We need to make it harder through federal enactment to sever the bonds once entered. I know of many girls who entered marriage laughingly, thoughtlessly, because they knew that if the arrangement was not satisfactory, a few months later they could sever the bond by applying to a court. Marriage is a matter for the individual. I do not believe in relieving him of all responsibility; if we take individual responsibility from our young people, we are preparing for a nation which is neither self-reliant nor independent."

Mr. Lawrence, who is managing editor of the Star and associate professor of journalism in the University, expressed a certain reluctance to address the Junior League because he is not a strong believer of suffrage and confessed a certain contempt of reformers—there are too many reformers and too much reform legislation, he indicated.

Several years ago a marriage and divorce law was presented to Congress. It is still in the waiting room. It seems queer that a law-making body which can so easily pass laws and make appropriations should allow a measure so close to the hearts of the people to pass over so lightly. "In opposing this law, and in speaking for its repeal," stated Mr. Lawrence, "I want it understood that I am opposing it only because I consider it a federal problem."

Says Law Failure.

According to the journalist, the law has not done that which it started out to do. The state was not ready for it. Even those people most interested in passing the law could not agree—so the most important condition of the bill was left out. It now provides for a ten day notice of the intended marriage which is very disagreeable to many people, largely because all insurance agents, furnishing houses, and salesmen of all kinds clip the marriage notices—some even go so far as to attempt to get them before they are printed so as to get first chance at the prospective groom. The ten days before the ceremony are as busy for the groom as for the bride.

The present law is driving business amounting to thousands of dollars away from the state. The revenue of the county judges dropped 50 per cent. It is robbing the pastors of the state of thousands of dollars and effecting all business—the jewelry business hardest of all.

"Those of you who have the best influence in your homes do not realize the other side of life," Mr. Lawrence suggested. "You do not need the protection of a law like this."

He went on to show that the law was not a protection to those young women who need it most. It tempts them, drives them out of their homes at the most important time

George Seymour Elected President of Board of Regents in Initial Meeting

George N. Seymour, Elgin, was elected president of the Board of Regents of the University of Nebraska at a meeting held in Chancellor Avery's office Thursday morning. Regent William P. Warner, Dakota City, was elected vice-president.

Only routine business was transacted at this meeting, the first of the new year, which was held mainly for organization purposes. All six regents were present.

This was the first meeting of the Board which Earl Cline, newly elected Regent from the First District, has attended. He succeeds Frank Judson of Omaha, who has been president of the Board during the past year.

NEW GOVERNOR UPHOLDS FUND

McMullen Wants Investigation Before Cutting Educational Appropriation.

ADDRESSES LEGISLATORS AFTER INAUGURATION

Recommendations that the Nebraska legislature make a careful study of conditions in the educational institutions of this state, particularly the University of Nebraska, before making any reductions in the appropriations for these institutions, were made by Governor Adam McMullen in his inaugural address delivered before a joint session of the legislature Thursday afternoon. Ex-Governor Bryan had previously recommended a cut of two million in the appropriations for the University.

Governor McMullen in discussion of education said in part:

"Nebraska deservedly ranks high in the standing of its educational institutions. They are among our greatest assets and attract to our state each year many new citizens and result, indirectly, in the investment of much capital. In more ways than one they pay large dividends to the state.

"The economic conditions of the past few years have required appropriations for these institutions to be lessened, while at the same time the attendance has greatly increased in all or most of them.

Tells of Poor Conditions. "Crowding of students and lack of sufficient facilities for instruction and supervision have progressed to the point where further continuation of these conditions means a permanent lowering of educational standards. I therefore urge upon you a careful study of these problems to the end that all necessary action be taken adequately to maintain and promote the cause of education."

The legislative appropriation requested by the Board of Regents for the ensuing year was reduced nearly two million dollars in the state budget recommended by Governor Bryan, and submitted to the state legislature for action Tuesday afternoon.

The recommended cut in the state budget totals nearly five millions, the greatest suggested reduction in appropriations being taken from the requests of the Board of Regents, the State Normal Board, the State Board of Control, and the State Board of Agriculture.

The regents asked a University appropriation of $7,643,000 for the ensuing year, and the outgoing governor recommended that amount be cut $1,945,000, to $5,698,000, approximately half a million less than the amount granted two years ago. The appropriation last year was $6,230,000.

The cuts were distributed as follows: Agricultural extension, $30,000; general maintenance, $695,000; new buildings, $1,200,000; legislative reference bureau, $23,500, eliminated.

HUSKER WORKOUT WATCHED BY LIEB

World Record-Holder of Discus Throw Sees Track Team in Action.

Lieb, world record-holder of the discus throw, and assistant football coach of the Notre Dame champions witnessed the workouts of the Husker tracksters yesterday. He was accompanied by several others of the Irish football squad. At a demonstration of his wares in the shot put, Lieb showed his old time ability and won the cigar put up as a trophy for the winner by Schulte.

"Ced" Hartman, former strong man for the Huskers, who has won the Kansas and Drake relays in the shot put, on various occasions is coaching the weight men in his spare moments. Hartman holds the Kansas Relay record for this event. Coach Schulte in speaking of Hartman says that he has almost a perfect form in his shot putting.

The California trip has caused an increased interest in the track sport from the way the men are turning out. "Indian" Schulte estimated yesterday that at least 150 men had reported and checked out equipment so far. The team that makes the trip will go by the direct route to the coast and return by way of the southern route, according to present plans. If the Huskers run true to form in track this spring, as they have for the past four seasons, Stanford University will get another taste of some of the middle-west champion competition, about April 4.

COMMENCE WORK ON CADET PAPER

New Publication in Military Department Will Be Issued Next Week.

CADET OFFICERS ARE IN CHARGE OF PAPER

Work has been started on the Cadet News, the official publication of the military department which is to be issued for the first time next week. Those in charge hope to publish the paper by the end of this week, so that it can be distributed to the companies next week.

Emmett V. Maun, cadet Lieutenant-colonel, is editor of the paper, and is supervising its publication. Maun was editor of The Daily Nebraskan and military editor of the Cornhusker last year and has all of the necessary ability to edit such a publication.

The managing editorship is being held by Victor Hackler, a junior in the military department and news editor on The Daily Nebraskan. Hackler is also military editor of the Cornhusker this year.

The Cadet News will take the place of the Kornhusker Kadet which was published for a while last year, but will be an improvement in many ways. This year the paper will be printed and not mimeographed as before. The writeups will be exclusively on the military department and on military subjects.

The paper is to contain four pages of four columns each and will have no advertising matter. It is planned to publish it every month, the second one coming early in February.

of their lives and is really dangerous.

"We can not make people better by legislation, it will only come through education," declared Mr. Lawrence. "In my opinion we are making a mountain out of a molehill."

World's Champion Football Team Stops Over in Lincoln

The Notre Dame gridsters arrived yesterday over the Burlington from Denver on their return trip from the coast after the Stanford game on New Year's day. The picture shows them just before they were taken to the Lincoln hotel and on a tour of Lincoln by the athletic board. Harry Stuhldreher, All-American quarterback on almost every team picked, is shown dreher. He played the last half of the Stanford game with broken bones in his foot. "Frank" is the dusky fellow kneeling in the center of the picture. He accompanied the champions on their trip from South Bend to California and back.

The gridsters are minus several of the first string men and their famed mentor, Knute Rockne. Rockne stayed over in California and many of the first string men dropped off for rest at homes of relatives and friends along the route. Jim Crowley, halfback, is in a San Francisco hospital convalescing from a nervous breakdown which he suffered after the game.

Adam Walsh, captain and center, remained with friends and his newlywed wife in California. Don Miller, another noted back, accompanied the party to Lincoln but went to Omaha immediately where he joined his mates later. He is not in the picture.

AGRICULTURE MEET WILL END FRIDAY

Report That Fifteen Hundred Have Attended Meetings During Week.

Friday is the last day of the Organized Agriculture meetings which have been held on the College of Agriculture campus since January 6.

"Approximately fifteen hundred people have attended the meetings during the week," Elton Lux, news editor of the extension service, said Thursday. "Three hundred and twenty-five women were present at the Home Economics Association, while 600 persons attended the general mass meeting. The attendance has been diminished by the bad roads, but many of the farmers have proved themselves optimists, and this year's meetings have been more successful than ever."

The Dairymen's Cattle Judging Contest for farmers and students will take place in the Livestock Judging Pavilion at 8:30 this morning, with H. P. Davis acting as superintendent. The judges will be: L. L. Oldham, Holstein Friesian Association of America; Frank Astroth, American Jersey Cattle Club; C. L. Burlingham, Ayrshire Breeders' Association; J. B. Fitch, Kansas State Agricultural College. Classes to be judged will consist of six animals of each of the following breeds: Ayrshires, Guernseys, Holsteins, and Jerseys.

The Farm Bureau Federation will have roll call at 9 o'clock for the report of committees. At 1 o'clock in the afternoon officers will be elected and unfinished business transacted. The Rural School Patrons Association will meet in Room 306, third floor, Agricultural Hall. J. D. Ream, Broken Bow, is president of the Association; W. H. Campbell, Stockville, its secretary.

Following is the Rural School Patrons program:

- Forenoon.
- 10:00—The Progress of the Year—J. D. Ream, Broken Bow.
- 10:15—How We Solved the Transportation Problem—D. H. Thompson, Mead.
- 10:30—The Cost of Operating Our Consolidated School—J. J. Hedges, Walton.
- 10:45—Consolidation from a Parent's Viewpoint—Mrs. Chas. Jacobsen, Eagle.
- 11:00—How Consolidation Really Works—W. B. Linscott, Filley.
- 11:15—What Consolidation Has Done for Our Community—Frank Walker, Waverly.
- 11:30-12:00—Discussion of School Consolidation.

- Afternoon.
- 1:00—Business meeting. Election of officers.
- 1:30—School Taxes Paid by Nebraska Farmers—J. O. Rankin, Lincoln.
- 2:00—Discussion.
- 3:30—Suggestions for Improvement in School Laws, School Work, and School Management.
- E. R. Danielson, E. A. Burnett, Margaret Fedde, C. B. Stewart, F. H. Stewart, and W. H. Brokaw of the Agricultural College faculty have acted as the general committee in charge of the meetings.

Final Soccer Game To Be Played Today

If the field permits playing, the sophomores will meet the seniors in the finals of the women's soccer tournament at 4 o'clock today. The game will be played on the field south of the Teacher's College building. The outcome of this game will decide the soccer championship.
