A HINT FROM CHINA

From China comes the news that the department of education of the central government there has issued a statement declaring that the number of students who are allowed to come to the United States for college work must be decreased.

The Oriental educator who is responsible for this bit of criticism has jabbed a pin through the cuticle of the American educational system at an extremely callous spot.

This practice reflects an attitude that is characteristically American in its tendency to worship bigness and to ignore quality.

A general stiffening of standards, of requirements, for entrance to the college, for work in the college, and for graduation from the college would probably decrease the numbers in the graduating class but add strikingly to the quality.

SUGGESTIONS
The newly elected president of De Pauw University, Dr. Lemuel H. Murlin, began his administration by asking the students for suggestions for the improvement of the school.

For some time, as you know, all athletics have been controlled by alumni who cannot possibly be as well informed of our needs as those on the scene continually.

The students themselves should have a voice in determining and administering policies for the conduct of athletics.

CARELESSNESS?

If someone said that over one thousand people on this campus were dishonest and a good many of that number were thieves, we would be scornfully indignant.

Naturally, we would like to believe that they have simply "disappeared" through carelessness, but the facts refuse to confirm this idea.

It's unpleasant, isn't it? Worse than merely unpleasant, it is cowardly cheating and plain thievery.

FOR A SUPERIOR PRODUCT.
Among those who are ever criticizing, tearing down and reconstructing the fabric of our American college system to their own fashioning, who are displeased with the results produced by the university of today, there is ever the alternative of the advanced university ideal—college minus compulsion.

In place of faculty supervision of a classroom nature, the student directing his own course would have the benefit of personal contacts, personal conferences.

The success of any such scheme would depend, largely, on the manner in which the student shaped his course.

GRADUATES AND RACE SUICIDE
Annihilation descends upon the colleges and universities like some ancient Gargantuan monster, if the gloomy predictions of Mr. A. E. Wiggam, biologist and author, are to be credited.

upper status of society. While this is deplorable, it does not necessarily threaten the existence of educated people.

AN EXCUSE PLEASE
As long as the type of American students remains what it is, attendance rules in our universities are inevitable.

Stake out your claim in this field

ONE field where there is still undeveloped territory, still room for pioneers, is the electrical industry.

If your aptitude is technical, there are years of usefulness ahead of you in helping to design, construct and operate public utility lines.

Or if your interests are along commercial lines, there is a broad opportunity for you here in the various departments of purchasing, accounting, distributing, selling and advertising
