TRACK TRIALS WILL BE HELD

Coach Schulte to Select Team for California Trip Next Saturday.

ALL CANDIDATES NOW PRACTICING OUTSIDE

The Nebraska Memorial stadium cinder track will be buzzing with activity Saturday afternoon when the Husker squad engages in the final tryouts for the first outdoor dual meet of the year with Stanford University at Palo Alto, California. Coach Henry F. Schulte has extended an invitation to the public to watch the tryouts. They will be well worth watching, as there will be some good competition for places on the team which is limited to twenty-two for the long trip to California.

The tryouts will commence at 2:30 in the afternoon, on a schedule probably the same as last Tuesday which will be announced today or tomorrow. The tryouts will have to be the final competitions for places on the team, as the squad entrains the following Tuesday.

The lull between successive meets ruled on the Husker track training grounds yesterday, some of the men still not extending themselves much after the meet last Saturday, and others saving for the tryouts Saturday. There were a few practice heats in the dashes, hurdles and middle distance runs, and the field event men performed as usual.

Everett Critas is so far improved from his pulled muscle that he will probably be able to jog around the track a bit today. He will be in shape for the Stanford meet.

Most of the track and field equipment has been moved from the indoor field under the stadium outdoors, between the stands and around the football field. A sign "Track Outside" is tacked on the door leading to the indoor field, where quiet now reigns after a bustling period of activity all winter.

The cross-word puzzle craze has a bad effect upon the morale of the students of the University of Minnesota, declares the Minnesota librarian. Every dictionary of synonyms which the university owns has disappeared from the shelves.

At the University of Texas instead of a Quack Club such as the University of Kansas has, the students have formed a Turtle Club, members of which are far more active than the name indicates.

Olympic Star Says Americans Are Most Ambitious Athletes In World

Sportsmen of England Without Overwhelming Desire to Be Victorious.

"The American athletes are the most ambitious in the world with the possible exception of the Finns," says Norman Cleveland, who played on the United States 1924 Olympic games rugby team. Cleveland also played fullback on the Stanford University football team for three years.

"The training, to which American football players subject themselves is more strenuous than that which foreign athletes will undergo," said Cleveland. Contrary to the opinions that American athletes are not as physically fit as Europeans, Cleveland points out the fact that the Americans were second only to the Finns who entered in the games won places, while fifty per cent of the Americans entered in the meet took places.

English sportsmen are different from those of the continent. The English have a great love of sports for sports sake, and not for the winning. Cleveland says that they will not train because they enter athletics only for enjoyment. "When we played against the English rugby team we did not know which side the spectators favored because they rooted for the good plays of both teams. In contrast to the English, the people of the Latin countries place all glorification on the winner and disgrace on the loser."

Cleveland feels that when nations can meet on the athletic field and forget international ill feelings, the games held every four years will be a great promoter of peace. "There should be more contests between the British empire and the United States because these two nations fully realize the value of athletics and the correct manner in carrying them out," he said.

Plan Parade of Three Battalions

The First Battalion, composed of companies A, B, C, and D, will parade on the drill field Tuesday at 5 o'clock. At the same time on Wednesday the Second Battalion made up of companies D, F, G, and H will have a parade. The parade for the Third Battalion composed of companies I, K, L, and M will be held Thursday at 5 o'clock. These parades will be the first battalion parades to be held since the regimental parade on Armistice Day.

PLAYERS GIVE LAST PROGRAM

"The Devil's Disciple" Will Be Presented at Temple Theater March 26-28.

YENNE AND DOLORES BOSSE PLAY LEADS

Bernard Shaw's great melodrama, "The Devil's Disciple," will be presented by the University Players as the concluding production of the season in the Temple theater March 26-28. Herbert Yenne and Dolores Bosse are playing lead roles.

The play deals with a man, Richard Dudgeon, who had been brought up in a Puritan community. He rebels at the restrictions of the Puritan life and leaves his home. After the death of his father he is forced to return home for the reading of the will.

After his return he is mistaken for a minister and is taken away to be hung. He bravely accepts the masquerade. Because the English General, whose watch is two minutes slow, will not go by American watches, Richard Dudgeon gains the chance to live. During the two minutes, the minister returns to save him and restore his own good name.

"The Devil's Disciple," one of Shaw's earliest plays, was written a quarter of a century ago. The play was first introduced to American audiences by Richard Mansfield. Mr. Shaw tries to prove that all good men are cowards and only blackguards can be counted on to do the right thing.

The setting of the play is laid in New Hampshire during the Revolutionary war. The stage settings of the play are being done by students in the stage design class under the instruction of Dwight Kirsh. The play will also be costumed in the style of those days.

The entire cast of the play is as follows:

Mrs. Dudgeon—Marion Sargent. Esie—Pauline Gallately. Christy—Ray Ramsey. Uncle Titus Dudgeon—Henry Ley. Uncle William Dudgeon—Edward Taylor. Mrs. William Dudgeon—Florence Flooden. Richard Dudgeon—Herbert Yenne. Lawyer Hawkins—Dwight Merriam. Major Swindon—Harold Sumption. Sergeant—Clyde Cone. Chaplain—Henry Ley. Hangman—Harold Stribling. Judith Anderson—Dolores Bosse. Rev. Anderson—Hart Jenks.

Ask All Women Who Wish to Participate to Report for Practice.

Tryouts of the Women's Athletic Association dance festival will be held April 15. Every woman interested in entering the dancing will be required to have three official practices before that time. Special practices can be arranged for those who wish to enter the festival but who do not have the four o'clock hour free.

No technical training in dancing is necessary for those who wish to practice. The list of steps required for tryouts will include lyric walking, waltzing, waltz turns, and various combinations of these steps. Those who try-out will be judged upon their postures and the use of their head and arms as well as their ability to do the steps and rhythm.

The exact date for the performance will be announced as soon as the Alumni Association can find a place for it on the Commencement Week Program.

A large number of women will be needed to make this festival a success. All those women in the University who have participated in the dance dramas in past years are urged to enter again this year.

WORKING HARD ON "TUT TUT"

Several Choruses for Kosmet Klub Show Practicing Every Night.

MAKING PLANS FOR OMAHA PRESENTATION

Work on the Kosmet Klub production for 1925, "Tut Tut," is progressing favorably with the rehearsals of the cast being held every night and business activities being pushed by Klub members and business assistants.

The several choruses have been given their songs and practices on them have been started in earnest. The dancing pony chorus has met nightly. Due to the smaller number in the cast, Klub members are confident that a more finished play can be produced.

Kosmet Klub will have some important announcements to make in regard to the 1925 production in the next few days. A meeting of the Klub members was held last night at which several matters were brought up for discussion.

The Klub will have cooperation from alumni in Omaha and medical college students when the comedy is presented at the Brandeis theater in the metropolis April 25. Entertainment is being planned by several organizations for the cast of the show while there and offers of aid in staging the play have been made by alumni.

The Klub will hold its annual dinner dance at the University Club Friday evening. Members of the cast for "Tut Tut" and business assistants are invited for dancing which will begin about 9 o'clock.

Many Queer Hobbies Revealed Among Syracuse Uni Students

Ships, Dishes, and Astronomy Given as Secret Passion by Co-eds.

"Ships. I'm just wild about them. I've always wanted to work my way to Europe, even if I had to scrub decks," confessed the president of the Women's Athletic Association at Syracuse University when recently interviewed about her pet hobby.

The range of hobbies on the campus of this eastern school ranged from the sublime to the ridiculous, according to the survey made recently among the students prominent in activities. Personal adornment and gastronomic pets were among the most popular answers.

One of the officers of a woman's organization admitted a falling for Welsh rarebit, chocolate malted milks, and "dresses and sweaters with horizontal stripes to make me look fat." Another officer of the same organization called her pet hobby the saying of "Yes, I'll be glad to do it," in a nice voice. The secretary of the organization said that "Dime novels, Nick Carter, and Diamond Dick are my hobbies."

Other idiosyncrasies in the tastes of the women leaders in the school were revealed when the president of the local organization of Y. W. C. A. said, "Astronomy is my newest hobby, even though I have to do it myself."

All the juniors that were interviewed showed a desire for dishes in some form or other. One woman said that her hobby was "All kinds of sets of dishes, colored glassware, fancy china, everything that looks like a dish." Another member of the class of '26 took to dishes in a different way. She said that "Chocolate ice cream sundaes are my weakness."

Will Lecture on Use of Explosives

"The Manufacture and Use of Explosives" will be the subject used by Professor Frankforter at the open lecture to be held Thursday evening at 8 o'clock at the lecture room in Chemistry Hall. At this meeting the new members of Phi Lambda Upsilon, honorary chemistry fraternity, will be chosen. The lecture is not technical and is open to the public.

Reed Will Tell of School Association

Professor A. A. Reed, director of the University Extension division, will be the speaker over University Broadcasting Station WFAV this evening. He will speak on "The North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools."

The weekly lecture on business English will be given by Prof. M. H. Wesesen. A musical program will also be broadcast by fine arts students.

BALL MEN HAVE STIFF PRACTICE

Dry Diamond and Warm Weather Greet Candidates for First Time.

TEAM SHOWS WELL IN BATTING DRILL

Fair weather and a dry diamond made yesterday's baseball practice what it should be. Rock Island park was jammed with forty baseball aspirants and a lively program was in order.

Batting and infield practice were the features of the workout, with the first and second string exchanging positions on the field and at bat.

The first string men took the bat first. In the infield were Thompson, Gradivol, and Gibbs. The outfielders were Jones, Cameron; and Agerter. Higgins was the first pitcher with Jardine behind the plate.

Swatting the ball the hardest were Volz, Patton, Ekstrom, and Beryl Lang. Reavis and Volz were the afternoon's over-the-fence hitters, both placing the pill on the Rock Island tracks east of the right-field fence.

Edwards, Donseier, and Stribling also got a chance on the mound while the first string was batting. The practice at first was in hitting the ball. Later the practice consisted of beating out bunts and infield hits.

The first string took the field after a three-quarter hour session at the plate and showed some snappy infield work. Volz was on first, Captain Janda on second, Anderson at short, and Reavis on the third sack.

The outfielders were Ekstrom, Patton, and Collins. Lang was catching with Hubka as alternate.

The infield got in some good practice during the workout. Janda and Anderson worked good together around the middle sack and Volz held down the first bag with ease.

"Choppy" Rhodes was in uniform for the first time this season and hurled a few to the batters. Beryl Lang also got his workout in the box.

Rearrangement of the entire undergraduate department of Johns Hopkins University is being considered. Under this system, it would be an institution of higher learning and scientific research.
