Phi Tau Epsilon was established at Nebraska May 1921 as a local and has remained active on the campus ever since. The present chapter, which has twenty-five active members and fourteen pledges, is located at 1901 B street. The alumni association of the fraternity has headquarters at Omaha.

Theta Chi, though at first an eastern fraternity, has chapters at some of the major schools in all parts of the country. In the middle west the chapters close to Nebraska are at Iowa State College, Minnesota, Illinois, Ohio State, Michigan, Wisconsin, and North Dakota Agricultural College.

In the east there are chapters at Dartmouth, Colgate, Cornell, Pennsylvania, and others. On the west coast there are chapters at California, University of Southern California, Stanford, and Washington. The South is represented by chapters at such schools as Florida, Alabama Polytechnic, and University of Virginia.

TRACK MEN IN NUMERAL MEET

Second of Series of Fall Meets To be Run Off in Stadium This Afternoon

THREE WIN RECOGNITION

Sixteen men will go into the second numeral meet in the stadium on Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock with points already earned toward a track numeral. This will be the second of a series of fall meets on the Husker track schedule this fall. Coach Schulte hopes to have more men out for the second meet, and provided the weather is good, better time will be made.

The Husker weakness in the field events and the 440-yard dash can be strengthened if candidates can gain experience and be trained this fall, according to the veteran Husker coach. Besides building up for the spring team, fall training makes it possible for the athletes to get some recognition for their work, in the form of track numerals.

Sixteen Have Points

Of the sixteen men who have won points toward a numeral, three have already won their numeral. Durish in the shot put and discus throw completed the twelve point requirement in two or more events. Fleming by making his mark in the two hurdle races, broad jump and high jump, won twelve points. The third man, Green, by making good time in the hundred yard dash and low hurdles gained twelve points.

Lemly, who ran the half-mile in fast time last Thursday has eleven points to his credit. He must make one or more points in another event before he can win the numeral. The other men who are on the road to numerals are: Doty, in the broad jump; Davenport, running the twenty and hundred yard dashes; Graham, in the 2-mile; Hepperly, running the 440-yard dash; Hulsker, high jumper; Holmes, low hurdles; Lowe, two-hundred yard dash; McKinsey, high jumper and high hurdler; Pope and Seagle in the high jump; Reneau, with points in the broad jump, pole vault, and high jump; and Saul in the broad jump.

The list of events and the time will be the same as last week:

1 mile run	4:10
220 yard dash	4:20
60 yard high hurdles	4:30

JEWETT PRAISES AMERICAN NAVY

Commandant Issues Statement In Lieu of Formal Navy Day Exercises

PAYS TRIBUTE TO HEROES

The following tribute to the Navy has been written by Lieut. Col. Jewett, commandant of cadets, in lieu of formal exercises that had been contemplated for the Nebraska R. O. T. C. regiment in observance of Navy Day, and abandoned on account of the conflict with class hours:

"Today, October 27, is Navy Day. On this day the navy keeps open house for all persons who will accept its hospitality. We in the interior of this broad country, little appreciate what the navy means to those who live nearer the coast. Last year on Navy Day, 380,000 people visited the various ships of the navy scattered along the ports of our sea-coast.

Lauds Peace Time Efforts

"We honor the navy, not only because of its glorious deeds in our wars and for the men it has trained who have written their names in imperishable fame in our annals, but also because of its untiring efforts in times of peace.

"It guards the shipping lanes of the North Atlantic against the cruel scourge of the gigantic icebergs. It was first to render assistance to the homeless of Smyrna and to the earthquake sufferers at Tokio. It guards our citizens in their business and travels throughout the globe. Some of our most notable diplomatic successes have been achieved by Naval officers, notably by Commodore Kearney in China, in 1840, and Perry in Japan in 1853.

"October 27 has been set aside as Navy Day because it marks the anniversary of the presentation to Congress in 1775 of a bill providing for the construction of the first ships of the navy. It is also the anniversary of the birth of the late President Roosevelt, who while President, did so much to establish a sound naval policy for this country.

Naval Man Once Here

"Although the University of Nebraska is far from the sea, it can claim the distinction of having, at one time, a graduate of the Naval Academy, as Commandant of Cadets. Lieutenant Richard Townley, Commandant from 1882 to 1884, was from the navy.

"Today as we do honor to our navy we cannot but be thrilled with the thought of the exploits of its many heroes. The names of John Paul Jones, Lawrence, Perry, Farragut, and Evans will always hold a prominent place in the pages of our history. To the officers and men of our present navy, who by their tireless efforts are maintaining the lofty tradition of our sea force, we should pledge our hearty support."

F. F. JEWETT, Lieut. Col. Inf.

New Steam Tunnel to Field House Will Be Finished in December

Construction of a new tunnel eight hundred feet long to carry steam and hot water pipes to the new Field House, has been started and is to be completed by December 1. The tunnel will house the conduits that will heat and furnish hot water to the two new buildings that are to be erected on the campus.

The tunnel will tap the main conduit east of Bessey Hall and will extend east to Thirteenth street and north to the Field House. An eight inch pipe will be used to carry the steam to the new buildings and the return will be through a four inch pipe which will be placed in the tunnel. All of the pipes will be covered with high pressure felt insulating material.

Electricity will be carried to the new building in a like manner; a special tunnel following the course of the one now being built, is to be used, owing the danger of housing pipes with electric wires carrying a high voltage.

Purpose is Defined

The purpose of the organization as it has been expressed is: first, to lead students to faith in God through Jesus Christ; second, to lead them to membership in the Christian church; third, to promote their growth in the Christian faith and character, especially through the study of the Bible; and fourth, to influence them to devote themselves in united effort with all Christians in making the will of Christ effective in human society and in extending the Kingdom of God throughout the world.

"I think the membership this year is a little more thoughtful and a little more real because the girls have been meeting in the discussion groups," remarked Miss Irma Appleby, the secretary of the Y. W. C. A.

Mary Ellen Edgerton will conduct the services. She will be assisted in the candle lighting by Elsie Gramlich, president of the University Y. W. C. A.

JANE ADDAMS IN PLEA FOR COURT

Explains Significance of Decision To Be Made By Senate in December

COOPERATION OR ARMS?

Speaking before an audience that packed St. Paul's M. E. church to capacity last night Miss Jane Addams of Hull House, Chicago, presented her plea for international peace, as embodied in the World Court plan, which will be under consideration in Senate this December.

The significance of the coming effort in the Senate to make America an adherent of the World Court was brought forth by Miss Addams, after she had summarized efforts toward peace in the last three hundred years. "The League of Nations question has been settled," she said. "The question now is 'What shall we do about the World Court? Are we going to cooperate in this latest move for peace or shall we go back to the old method of decision by arms?'"

"There is a tendency all over the world for reduction of armaments. Especially is this true among small nations, who see that in the great wars as now conducted their small armaments count for little. One nation, Denmark, has already disbanded its armed forces except for a police force, and is using the money for more needed purposes.

World Sentiment Changing

The sentiment all over the world is to try something else than force of arms. Some kind of a judicial process, some kind of a world court, is needed. At least some effort should be made, rather than revert back to the old methods."

International cooperation in no less than 164 various inter-governmental organizations was cited by Miss Addams as evidence that mutual action between nations is possible. She traced the growth of these cooperative movements, beginning with the formation of the Interparliamentary Union thirty-five years ago, the work it has done in helping enact needed legislation throughout the world.

The early usefulness of the Hague Court, which was appealed to on two occasions by President Roosevelt, was stressed by Miss Addams. She swept away objections to the manner of choosing the members of World Court, by pointing out example of the United States supreme court, which is composed of citizens of the United States.

Hague Court Beginning

Miss Addams was visibly tired from her speaking tour. She spoke twice at meetings of Women's Clubs in the afternoon, and at the Chamber of Commerce in the evening before the Community Chest drive organization.

EXTENSION SERVICE BACKING NEW WORK

Is Cooperating in State-Wide Americanization Campaign—Women's Clubs Assisting

Steps are being taken to start a state-wide Americanization program in Nebraska, says the latest issue of the University extension news. Excellent results in this sort of work have been obtained in Omaha, but the rest of the state is far behind.

The circular says:

"If America is to maintain her priceless heritage, if the ideals of liberty, democracy, and brotherhood are to be upheld, it is absolutely necessary that these ideals be understood and appreciated by the people as a whole. We cannot have scattered among us, here and there, little communities of aliens, speaking some foreign tongue, holding allegiance at heart to some foreign flag.

Tolerance With Firmness

"Maintaining at all times a spirit of kindly tolerance, we must, nevertheless, insist that those who desire to share the opportunities of a free self-governing people must understand the spirit of America which makes these blessings possible. We therefore believe that, for their sake, as well as our own, our foreign-born neighbors should be given the opportunity to learn the English language and to understand the principles no which the American government is founded.

"The University of Nebraska has recently formed a Department of Americanization under the University Extension Division with a state supervisor who has authority to establish courses of instruction in citizenship throughout Nebraska. To this end there will be formed local Americanization Councils, composed of representatives of various organi-

WORK ON CLASS SECTIONS DRAGS

Those who have not had their pictures taken are urged by the Cornhusker editors to go either to Townsend's or Hauck's studio as soon as possible.

Students failing to respond to their first notice will be notified again and their names will be listed on an inside page of The Daily Nebraskan.

Sorority and fraternity members are also urged to have their pictures taken as soon as possible. Individual pictures will be used in the fraternity section of the Cornhusker this year. Those failing to have their pictures taken during the first semester will be charged a higher price.

zations, such as the American Legion, Woman's Clubs, Men's Clubs, Y. M. C. A., Y. W. C. A., D. A. R., and others, to support and promote the state program.

Organize Classes

"These councils should take steps to organize classes of men and women in schools, homes, factories, libraries and churches with qualified teachers working with the schools. Every possible means must be taken to establish points of contact with the foreign-born and to create in them a desire to qualify for citizenship through the authorized channel, the citizenship school.

"Information and assistance can be obtained from Mr. S. R. Elson, State Supervisor of Americanization, 305 City Hall, Omaha, Neb. The Nebraska Federation of Women's Clubs desires to co-operate to the fullest extent."

AVERY ANSWERS CRITICISMS OF WISCONSIN HEAD

Replies to Frank's Charges That Universities Neglecting Education

VETERANS EXPECTED IT

Attack is Result of Inexperience of New University of Wisconsin Executive, Says Chancellor

Chancellor Avery has issued the following statement, at the request of the Omaha Bee, in reply to charges made against modern universities by Dr. Glenn Frank, recently inaugurated president of the University of Wisconsin. Dr. Frank stated that universities pay too much attention to buildings and landscaping and neglect the needed revision of their curricula to meet the needs of the modern knowledge.

The Chancellor's statement:

"Veterans in university and college work are not surprised at the attack of Dr. Glenn Frank, President of University of Wisconsin, upon the methods of higher education in America. Knowing him as a brilliant writer without experience as a college executive, they anticipated such an address. Perhaps President Frank did not intend it as an attack but rather as a corrective address delivered with sufficient emphasis to attract wide attention. If the press report represents President Frank fairly, it can hardly be considered as having been spoken judiciously.

Buildings Needed Here

"Viewed in most favorable light it is the type of protest that might be uttered in regard to the erection of such buildings as one sees in some of the great endowed institutions of the east and possibly in one or two state institutions. The spirit of America might also be criticized as displaying itself in the erection of the commodious and permanent school buildings that one sees in every progressive city, in the erection of the monumental churches, in the new state capitols, and even in glorified newspaper buildings, such as the Chicago Tribune. Perhaps President Frank has caught a feeling that may have come to some who considered themselves 'intellectuals' as they watched the building of the Parthenon, the Colosseum, the great cathedrals, or the modern sky-scrapers.

"The only point, however, that seems to bring out at this time is as follows: The institutions of the agricultural states have been compelled by force of circumstances to adopt so modest a program that I am sure President Frank will be glad to say he did not have them in mind. At Nebraska we are housing students in two buildings that have been condemned for years. Better public schools have been wrecked all the way from Gering to Omaha. The Social Science Hall is the only building on the University city campus that will compare at all favorably with dozens of public school buildings recently erected all over the state. The investment in buildings per student at the University is only about one-third of the per capita investment per pupil in many of the school districts. We have reached a point where teaching conditions are so bad that it is not a question of erecting splendid palaces, but merely of considering the health and safety of the students and faculty. Nebraska Hall, the roof and third story of which have been removed in the interest of safety, actually cost the state only a little more money than the investment represented by some of the gasoline filling stations in the city of Omaha.

Does Not Apply

"In conclusion I may say I feel personally a good deal like one who has been to church and heard a powerful and somewhat radical sermon on the faults of the era. I can go back complacently to my very modest abode, speculating whether the preacher got under the cuticle of some of my opulent and extravagant acquaintances, but with the feeling that none of his stricture hit me or my personal associates in the slightest degree."

Dr. Frank charged the universities with being "merely channel houses in which creative education lies buried" and "intellectual department stores" educationally "headless," with presidents "little more than business managers and their

Pershing Rifles Hold Another Tryout Today
