THE GOD "VICTORY"

A howl of anguish is now going up from the down-town coaches, and from some Nebraska football followers who know more about the game than Knute Rockne, though most of them are fireside athletes. And the cause? Ah, Nebraska has lost two games this season! Therefore the wolves are out, everything is blooey, and we want a new deal all around.

We regret to say it, but Nebraska is known far and wide as being a school that is death on coaches. Not the students, of course (that seldom happen) but the self-appointed coaches; usually gentlemen who have suffered financially when the team lost. They demand that Nebraska should win, not merely a fair percentage, but all its games each year. Nebraska lost to Missouri in a close game. The anvil chorus began. The fact that Missouri tied the strong Tulane team which later beat Northwestern decisively, and that the Tigers are undefeated and known as one of the best teams in the country, interests them not. Nebraska lost! That's enough. Nebraska lost to Drake on an icy gridiron, when the ball was coated with ice and a blizzard roared out of the north across the field. Under such conditions anything may happen—and what happened was that Drake got the breaks and won.

We hate to excuse any losses on these grounds. Perhaps better teams beat Nebraska in both cases, but what of it? If Nebraska can win half of its games it is getting its full share. Victory, after all, is not the thing, but the gamblers, of course, do not realize this. For them victory is everything. What really counts is the game itself, its affect upon the men who play it, and its development in the student body of a spirit of sportsmanship. Victory is nothing in itself.

When the down-town coaches are content to let the students and the coach manage their own affairs these affairs will be better managed. At Harvard, Yale, Princeton, Dartmouth, and any of the eastern schools victory is welcomed, of course, but two or three defeats in the season mean little. Harvard has been very soundly trounced by some of the smallest schools in the country, but the spectators at the game have not cried for somebody's heart blood as a result. They take their defeats philosophically, and figure that if they beat one or two strong teams in the season that everything is lovely and the team has had a good season.

Let Nebraska football followers stop their coach-baiting for a while and see if things do not run smoother for all really interested. And let them, above all, forget their senseless worship of victory.

Knute Rockne, veteran coach at Notre Dame, has expressed this sentiment well in a speech at New York last week before the Catholic Alumni Federation. He said:

"I think that the alumni would not be quite so hard on the coaches and teams that lose if they would take up the game in a more constructive way. I regard the football field as an experimental laboratory where the young man finds himself. On the gridiron he experiments with himself physically, mentally, spiritually. He learns courage, sportsmanship and respect for an honored opponent and he develops a little backbone and the will to win.

"If your football team plays good, clean football and gives you a thrill once in a while, your alumni should be satisfied even if your team loses. Don't figure on firing the coach every Sunday morning after a defeat. Remember that football is a game."

A MUSICAL EDUCATION

The School of Fine Arts is now offering each week a musical program in which classical music is given by artists whose ability cannot be questioned. The convocations are at 11 o'clock each Thursday in Temple theater.

An unusual opportunity to students is offered in these programs. There are enough opportunities for students to acquaint themselves with good music and this deficiency may be remedied, if the students wish it, by attendance at the convocations. We urge all students who can to attend.

Ten Years Ago

Professor M. M. Fogg lectured before the argumentation section of the State Teachers' Association.

A local branch of the Intercolligate prohibition association was organized. The purpose of this association was to know the liquor problem more thoroughly in its civic, economic and social relations, and to prepare for service in its settlement.

Twenty-one law students who had survived examinations were initiated into the mysteries of the legal fraternity of the Phi Delta Phi. After the initiation a banquet was served in the garden room of the Lindell hotel.

Coach Stiehm gave the Huskers the hardest workout of the season in preparation of meeting the ambitious Jayhawkers at Lawrence.

The Eighth Beethoven Symphony was given at convocation with Mrs. Carrie Raymond at the organ, assisted by a string quartet.

A biographical sketch of the late Dean Charles E. Bessey was written by Prof. R. J. Pool to appear in the "Transactions of the American Microscopic Society." Dr. Bessey was at one time president of this society.

By a score of 33 to 0, the Cornhuskers' largest score of any game this season, Nebraska conquered the Jayhawkers on the Lawrence gridiron.

The freshmen-sophomore hockey team were defeated when they met the junior-senior women at hockey on the athletic field. The score was 2 to 1.

Twenty Years Ago

At a meeting of the Kansas University board, resolutions were passed that the athletic board of the University of Nebraska should be invited to select representatives of the Kansas board and patch up a treaty between the two Universities in order that athletic relations might be resumed.

In the opening address before the Association of University Presidents, held at Washington, D. C., Chancellor Andrews, president, made a strong defense for the continuance of the game of football as a college sport.

The senior football team defeated the Academy team by a score of 12 to 0. The seniors could not make consistent gains and were handicapped by a noticeable tendency to fumble.

Smart Coats and Frocks
 in Ben Simon & Sons
 "Lucky-for-you Sale!"
 —here's a great one-day sale (today) designed to make Friday the 13th the luckiest day of all! Just buy a coat and a dress or two, wear them, and you'll find your good luck continuing! Nothing like smart apparel to increase your date-luck! Ben Simon & Sons offer in this sale: New dresses for every occasion from campus to formal wear; developed in the fashionable silks and woollens. Values to $29.50 at $13. Coats in this sale, worth to $49.50, are but $34. Lavishly furred, fully silk lined, and oh, so good-looking!

Time to think of Formal Decorations!
 —and the Stryker Floral Co. will help you think most successfully! Just plan them now, and by the time formal season rolls around, you won't have to depend upon last-minute inspiration for a dazzling decorative scheme! Dick Stryker himself is a designer with years of experience, so you know what that means in the manipulation of smilax! Flowers in great variety and profusion, baskets, ferns, and other decorating accessories are at your beck and call at the Stryker Floral Co. Pay them a visit!

Dainty Silk Underthings
 at Mayer Bros. Co.
 —the almost negligible kind as to bulk—just the sort co-eds want in these days of the farthest cry from seven petticoats and a bustle! Tailored garments of pure glove, silk, in every shade of the pastel rainbow. Attractively priced too: bloomers at $2.75; vests at $1.75; and teddies at $3.25. You'll find the fussier type of underthings at Mayer Bros. too. Indicative of their value and attractiveness are crepe de chine teddies, elaborated with fine laces and touches of hand embroidery at only $5.

The Golden Pheasant
 Lives up to its Name!
 —but with the kind of chicken with which you are all familiar! Fried spring chicken that would lead even a vegetarian astray; individual chicken pies; chicken salads and sandwiches; chicken bouillon. Not until you have eaten chicken at the Golden Pheasant will you know the supreme service this noble fowl renders as a palate-tickler! Try some, any time during the day, or after the dance or theater, when you'll see all your friends doing likewise at the Golden Pheasant!

On occasion, the Globe Laundry is a Stingy Concern!
 —they simply WON'T give you an extra greyish or yellowish tinge when you send them white blouses. They WON'T send you any wrinkles! And, as their hobby is collecting spots, don't think for a moment you'll get any of yours back. Otherwise, the Globe's middle name is magnanimous. They'll send back all the pink and blue in your colored garments; they'll darn your hose, sew on buttons, mend your clothes, charge you moderately and give you unexcelled service. Call B 6755 and arrange to have them call each Monday.
