Huskies Settle Down to Hard Work in Preparation for Notre Dame

MORE THAN WEEK IS LEFT

A football team, almost at the end of its schedule, yesterday settled down to hard work in preparation for the last—and greatest—game of the 1925 season.

The Huskies took a long talk from their mentor Coach E. E. Berg and began a week and a half of training for the final struggle against Notre Dame on Thanksgiving.

The game with the Kansas Aggies taught Nebraska a lesson, taught the team that it is not so superior to the Missouri Valley teams. The Aggies tied the Huskies fair and square, and exhibited a brand of football which matched well with the game played by Nebraska.

But whether this thought of superiority had been bothering the Nebraska team is a question. At any rate, Coach Berg and every football man will tell you that there is nothing in the matter with the team, in spite of all the allegations by enthusiastic alumni and gamblers.

Show Effects of Schedule
The effect of a "super-schedule" have been apparent this year. The demand for too many big games has brought about a strained schedule all the way through, with no resting periods except the present week. Eight games with formidable opponents is too much, according to those who know.

Missouri, Drake and Kansas Aggies all proved to be hard opponents; in fact they were just hard enough to stop Nebraska. With better coaching staffs over the Valley, better teams are being produced every year, and consequently more competition is the result.

This season has proved that Nebraska is no longer out of the Missouri Valley class; or should it be, is not yet out of the Valley division. There was a time when the Huskies could beat anything in the conference but it looks as if that time was past for good.

Two Football Games Average 145 Plays

LAWRENCE, Kan., Nov. 16.—In connection with the movement to play football games by the number of plays executed instead of by the fifteen minute periods, it is interesting to note that the Kansas-Kansas Aggie game required 137 plays and the Kansas-Drake game 153, an average of thirty-six plays to the period.

Mental Tests Used in Engineering College

Iowa placement psychology tests are being used in College of Engineering this year as part of a study being made by Dean O. J. Ferguson of the College of Engineering and Dr. Winifred F. Hyde, professor of psychology, to determine which mental tests are of the greatest value in advising and placing of students. Special tests are provided to determine the capacity of students for the study of English, foreign languages, mathematics, science and other subjects.

TO HOLD NUMERAL MEET WEDNESDAY

Fourth Contest in The Series for This Fall Will Be Held on Indoor Track

On Wednesday of this week will be held the fourth of a series of fall numeral track meets among Coach Schulte's crew of track and field men, who have been working out this fall. The meet will be held on the indoor track on account of the preparations being made for seats for the Notre Dame game.

The events will be run according to the previous schedule, with the shorter hurdle and sprint races to accommodate the indoor track. The newly elected track manager, John Comstock, senior; Wendell Ames and Allen Wilson, juniors, will help Coach Schulte in running off the meet.

HAWKS OFF TODAY FOR WEST COAST

Iowa Grid Squad Prepares for Battle With University of Southern California

IOWA CITY, Ia., November 16.—"And now for the Trojans!" With all conference games out of the way the University of Iowa football team is prepared to entrain for the Pacific coast and show the westerners a sample of Big Ten grid-stuffs.

Other Eastern teams which have made the long trip to California have usually met with disaster. The three-thousand mile journey wears the athletes, and the new climate puts the players at a disadvantage. The Iowa squad will arrive in Los Angeles the day before the game, and the big question is—"Will they be in trim condition?"

Before 80,000 people, a good percentage of which will be Iowa rooters the Hawk invaders will champion the cause of the East. After glancing over the records of the Eastern teams it appears that they do not need much boosting.

The Iowa squad will hold the work out on Iowa field on Tuesday afternoon, and will board their special cars Tuesday evening at 7:55. The party will number around forty, including the players, coaches and friends.

The University of Southern California has one of the strongest teams ever gathered together on the coast, coached by Howard Jones, former Iowa mentor, the Trojans have an aggregation which will give Iowa the toughest hour of football it has experienced this year.

FAST WORK ON HARRIERS BILL

Captain Lewis Will Not Compete in Coming Missouri Valley Meet

SHOW EXCELLENT FORM

With the Missouri Valley meet but six days away, Coach Schulte gave his distance runners some speed work in the form of a fast two-mile run Monday evening. Strenuous training ended Saturday morning with a seven mile run in the Belmont hills. Most of the men have been showing excellent form except for some minor injuries.

Captain Lewis will not compete in the Valley meet because of the trouble in his side which has bothered all season. Ross, who is running in the place of Lewis, has been bothered with a pulled muscle in his hip for the past few days but will be in condition for the meet. The other five men are in good condition.

The meet, composed of all the teams of the Valley, will take place Saturday morning over the Kansas course. It will be part of the homecoming program at Lawrence, where the Missouri Tigers will battle the Jayhawk football men for honors. Ten teams and sixty men will start in the race.

There are four strong contenders for the championship, with Nebraska and Kansas Aggies, the last season champions as the favorites. However, Ames and Oklahoma with individual stars, may place well up in the running. The Kansas Aggie team lost only one man by graduation, and have shown more power than they did last season.

School Congratulated On Meat Packing Class

Dean J. E. LeRossignol of the College of Business Administration and Prof. A. A. Reed, director of the University Extension division, have received the following telegram from Dr. R. H. Hess, educational director of the Institute of American Meat Packers, Chicago: "The Institute of American Meat Packers convey their hearty congratulations upon the most auspicious inauguration in Omaha of University business training in the great national industry of processing and distributing meats. Your personal efforts have materially contributed to this worthy achievement. Mr. Oscar Mayer, president of the Institute Plan Commission, and Mr. P. D. Armour, chairman of the Institute Committee on Educational Plans personally express their appreciation of your services to the industry."

Rhodes Scholar Back From English School

Woodson Spurlock, A. B. '22, has returned from Oxford University, England, where he was Rhodes scholar from Nebraska, and is now at his home in York. He writes that "the experience of being a Rhodes scholar is one worthy of recommendation only in the superlative." His plans for the future are indefinite.
