STUDENTS GIVE VENT TO SPIRIT IN GREAT RALLY

Thousands of Frenzied Men and Women Pay Vocal Homage To Cornhusker Players and Are Assured That Notre Dame Will Be Defeated

ROCKNE, TOO, EXPRESSES CONFIDENCE OF VICTORY

Torch-Bearing Throng Surges Through City to Give Irish Squad Great Ovation—Captain Crowe Not so Confident When Called on

Thousands of Cornhusker students yelled, cheered, sang, and shouted their throats dry last night in a great demonstration of "Nebraska football spirit." It was a cheering, singing, yelling rally crowd that for an hour and a half gave the utmost of its lungs in homage to the Nebraska football team, and in welcome to the Notre Dame team.

"We're Going To Win" "We are going in there tomorrow to win," proclaimed Captain Ed Weir, the first Cornhusker to speak, and his words were reiterated by others.

Then, with the cry "Beat Notre Dame" ringing in its ears the crowd surged from the campus drill field and started on its mission of encouraging the Notre Dame team.

Down O street the thousands of torch-bearing students swept everything before them. Red-sirted Corn Cobs cleared the way as best they could. The band followed behind them.

A block from the hotel the crowd burst away from the parade formation and started on a charge. Knute Rockne and his Notre Dame team were there on the balcony waiting for them. The mob paused a bit while students pushed their way within hearing distance, and then gave a cheer for Notre Dame.

"Just so you'll get it straight, let me remind you that we beat you last year, and we'll beat you tomorrow," shouted the most famous coach in America, Knute Rockne of Notre Dame, in reply to the calls of the mob for him to get in the spot light which played on the men gathered on the balcony.

"It can't be done, it can't be done" was the deafening response of the Nebraska crowd below.

Rockne Praised Students "We're glad to be out here," continued Knute, "because it's the only place in the country where we get a welcome like this."

Captain Crowe of Notre Dame, was not quite so confident, however. He expressed his reaction to Nebraska spirit in this way: "From the looks of this crowd it seems that it's going to be an interesting afternoon tomorrow. It's going to be a fight and we may possibly win." Then, while the crowd cheered each man he introduced the members of the Notre Dame squad.

"All that I ask is that you yell, and yell like.....," was "Choppy" Rhodes' statement when he was called on at the rally. He praised the

MISS HOWELL TO DRAMA MEETING Will Represent University at National Conference in Pittsburgh Next Week

Professor H. Alice Howell, director of the Dramatic department, has been sent by the University of Nebraska as a delegate to the Conference of American Drama, which is to be held at Pittsburgh, Pa., November 27, 28, and 29. Miss Howell will remain in the East till after the holidays.

Representatives from all universities and colleges that have done outstanding work in the dramatic field have been called to the convention. The value of the spoken drama, the effect of the movies upon the art, the modern plays, the little theater and community theater movements, are some of the leading subjects that will be discussed.

After the conference, Miss Howell will visit Boston, New Haven and New York. In Boston she will visit the Emerson School of Oratory, of which she is a graduate. It is upon the Emerson theory of art that the Nebraska Dramatic department is built. In New York she will study the latest plays.

Weather Forecast Thursday: Partly cloudy; not much change in temperature.

Distinguished Alumnus Who Will Visit Here

Emory R. Buckner

One of Nebraska's most distinguished alumni, Emory R. Buckner, now United States district attorney in New York City, will be honored by various groups during his stay in Lincoln this week-end.

TICKET PLOT NIPPED IN BUD

Someone Tries to Have Bogus Military Ball Tickets Validated

WARNINGS ARE ISSUED

An attempt made Tuesday by some unknown person to have a number of Military Ball tickets validated at the student activities office proved futile and resulted in a search for the person in possession of the "phony" tickets.

As is the usual custom with University affairs, all tickets for the Military Ball which is to be held on December 4 at city auditorium, have to go through a regular process of validation which includes the stamping of the name "John K. Selleck," student activities agent.

Only 250 tickets have been put on sale for the ball by the Cadet Officers' Association, and the demand has been heavy. It is believed that this heavy demand and the ease with which tickets are sold is the cause of this attempted forgery.

University authorities are now endeavoring to find out who the culprits are. Students are asked to be very careful to see that tickets are properly validated before buying them and to report any one who tries to sell them an un-validated ticket.

An unusually close check will be kept at the door because of this trouble which has arisen and Colonel Sampson, head of the Cadet Officers' Association, is confident that no one will be able to gain admission without the proper ticket, validated "as it should be."

No more tickets are being distributed to fraternity houses. The few remaining tickets will be held for the cadet officers in the offices of the military department.

Husker-Notre Dame Game Has Been Middle-West Classic for Ten Years

(By Robert Lasch) Nebraska versus Notre Dame. If that simple statement means nothing to the world in general; if kings and presidents do not suspend their activities on account of those words; if everyday affairs go on just the same, then how is this: The Nebraska football team, following a season of difficult games with strong teams, is now prepared for the climax of the schedule which will come on Thanksgiving day with the game against Notre Dame, ancient rivals of the Huskers and as anxious for victory as the team in Lincoln.

That means something in Nebraska and in South Bend, Ind. Since 1915 Notre Dame and Nebraska football teams have battled each other in a game which yearly attracts national attention as the classic of the middle-west. From the first game, when the Huskers downed the Irish by a score of 20-19, spirit has been aroused on both

BUCKNER TO BE HONORED BY DEBATERS

"Think Shop" Men to Hold Reunion for Distinguished Alumnus

FOGG HOST AT DINNER

Will Entertain for Former Debater, Now District Attorney for New York City

In honor of Emory R. Buckner, distinguished Nebraska graduate of the class of 1904 and Nebraska debater against Kansas in 1903 and 1904, who is now United States attorney for New York City a reunion of forty Lincoln members of the Intercollegiate Debate Seminary will be held at the home of Prof. M. M. Fogg, 1540 South 21st street, Friday evening. The "Think Shoppers" are to gather at 8 o'clock sharp for an evening of reminiscences with their colleague who is one of the foremost trial lawyers at the New York bar and who, before he took the United States attorneyship last spring, was managing member of the Root law firm, in the office of which there are about 125 persons.

Mr. and Mrs. Buckner will be the guests at a dinner, preceding the reunion, given by Mr. and Mrs. Fogg. To the dinner has been invited representatives of the University, of the state government, and of the professional life of the city.

May Speak to Class Mr. Buckner may address the members of the course in argumentative composition (English 9) at 9 o'clock Monday morning, Professor Fogg announced to the class Wednesday. If he does speak, Dean W. A. Seavey wishes the members of the College of Law to attend. The meeting may be shifted from Law 101 to the Temple Theatre.

At the banquet given in honor of Mr. Buckner by the Lancaster County Bar Association Monday evening at 6:30 o'clock at the Lincoln hotel, the University will be largely represented. Tickets may be got at Law 206. Mr. Buckner will speak on law enforcement.

Mr. Buckner comes to Lincoln to attend the golden wedding anniversary of his parents, Rev. and Mrs. J. D. M. Buckner. He will give a dinner Sunday noon at the Lincoln hotel to about fifty members of the Buckner family in Nebraska, Iowa, and Kansas. He arrives at 9:50 Friday morning and will make his headquarters at the Lincoln hotel.

HOCKEY PLAYERS BREAKFAST TODAY

W. A. A. Hostess to All Players at Ellen Smith Hall This Morning

The Women's Athletic Association is holding a breakfast this morning at nine o'clock, in Ellen Smith Hall, bringing the hockey season to a close. All women, from all classes, who have had six complete try-out practices in the sport are invited to be there.

All former members of the association who live in or near Lincoln, or are returning for the game are invited to attend, renew acquaintances, and meet all new members. The association is extending an invitation to faculty women who would like to meet W. A. A. members, and learn about the organization.

Eight Thousand Saw First Game A crowd of eight thousand saw Notre Dame start the game by plunging down the field for a touchdown within seven minutes of the first whistle. And then this same crowd saw Chamberlain pass to Riddell for a gain of thirty-seven yards.

Satisfied, Chamberlain tore through the line for twenty yards and a tie score. Corey put the Huskers in the lead with his try-for-point, placing the score at 7-6. But Notre Dame came back with another touchdown, resulting from a blocked kick, and at the half Ne-bullets which is not surpassed by that for any other game on the schedule. Notre Dame, on the one hand, has taken victory in five of the ten contests which have been played. Nebraska, as the other principal in the argument, has won four. One was a tie game.

Kelley New Head Of Green Gobblins

Two new officers were elected by the Green Gobblins, freshman men's society, at their weekly meeting on Tuesday. Donald Kelley, vice-president, was advanced to the presidency to succeed Durward Barnes, who has left school. Donisthorpe was elected to succeed Kelley as vice-president, and Olson was elected treasurer.

FLING FAVORS HONOR SYSTEM

Cheating Is Spiritual Suicide, Says Professor in World Forum Address

ASKS STUDENT SUPPORT

Urging student initiative as the one and only cure for cheating, Prof. F. M. Fling advocated in his address at the World Forum at the Grand Hotel yesterday noon the establishment of an honor system which should function by virtue of student support and authority rather than by faculty authority.

Dr. Fling said that the honor system had never been tried here. In pointing out the dangers of dishonest action in school, he called attention to the fact that the brightest and most dangerous men in the penitentiary were college graduates, educated men.

Teachers Fail "In our public school educational system," stated Dr. Fling, "we have never appreciated the full duty of the teacher." He quoted a recent English author who declared that character determined the success of a people. Professor Fling then charged that too many of our teachers failed to realize this; too many didn't care what the student did outside the classroom so long as good work was done in the classroom.

In illustrating the evil he believed resulted from cheating Dr. Fling quoted the passage, "What profiteth a man if he gain the world and lose his own soul?" which he said was at the bottom of the question of an honor system. He called attention to a Southern school in which a boy cheating was expelled not by the action of the school authorities, but by the other men who refused to countenance such an action.

Challenges Students Throughout his address, Professor Fling hurled the challenge at the students. "Were not the students in that Virginia school right?"

"They have no honor system at the University of Virginia," said Professor Fling, "but they have an honor spirit. No student doing crooked work can stay there because of the attitude of the students against it." "To make the honor system successful you must get it out of your heads that it is dishonorable to tell on the cheaters. That is the force that is tearing down our intellectual fabric. If you haven't done your work, say so and take your medicine, but don't ask anyone to help you commit spiritual suicide by aiding you to cheat."

It was announced that Dean J. E. LeRossignol of the College of Business Administration would speak next Wednesday on the subject, "How Early Should Specialized Training Commence?"

WILL HOLD MIXER SATURDAY

Women's Commercial Club to Sponsor Party Held in Armory

The Women's Commercial Club of the University are sponsoring the mixer to be held Saturday night in the Armory. Miss Dora Thompson is the general chairman in charge. Roscoe Tutty's orchestra will furnish the music. Refreshments will be served during the intermission and confetti and serpentine will be distributed to add to the festivities of the evening.

FORTY THOUSAND EAGER FANS AWAIT GRID BATTLE

Memorial Stadium To be Packed With Greatest Crowd in Nebraska Football History—5,000 Bleacher Seats Still on Sale

IRISH ARE IN GOOD SHAPE FOR FINAL BATTLE

Reports of Injuries to Flannagan and Enright, Hoosier Stars, Greatly Exaggerated—Rockne Drills Men On Stadium Field

Forty thousand fans are waiting; two famous football eleven are ready; and two coaches, one an old hand at the game, another in his first season as head coach at a major university, are giving final instructions to their men for the game.

"The game" is the annual contest between Notre Dame and Nebraska. The classic of the Husker schedule, the long-awaited game, is but a few hours off, and fans are pouring into Lincoln from every direction.

From the weather man's sanctum came the report Wednesday evening predicting the atmosphere to be "partly cloudy tonight and Thursday and not much change in temperature."

Three Governors on Hand

Three governors will witness the conflict today. Governor Adam McMullen, who is a former student of the University of Nebraska, will have as his guests Governor Hamill of Iowa, and Governor Paulen of Kansas. They will sit in box twenty-one.

The Notre Dame team arrived in Lincoln at 10 o'clock Wednesday morning and went straight to the Lincoln hotel, the home of the Irish during their stay in Lincoln. They took a workout on the stadium field at 2 o'clock; Coach Rockne gave his men a sharp limbering-up drill. All of the South Bend men will be ready for action except Captain Crowe. The early reports of the injury of Flannagan and Enright, Notre Dame stars, were exaggerated.

'POLLYANNA' IS PLAYERS NEXT

A slight shakeup in the lineup was announced Wednesday. Joe Weir will play left end instead of right end. Hutchison will start at left guard, with Westoupal playing center.

Raish will play right guard, and Randalls right tackle. Shaner will start at right end. Mandery will play left halfback with Dailey at right halfback and Rhodes and Brown starting in the backfield also. Dailey at right halfback, and Rhodes and Brown starting in the backfield also.

Seating arrangements for the game are such that will accommodate 45,000 persons. There are still more than 5,000 seats left, which are expected to be sold in the last minute rush.

The first whistle is scheduled for 2 o'clock.

Eckersall the Referee

Walter Eckersall, noted football official and sports writer, and former Chicago grid star, will act as umpire, with Fred Young of Illinois Wesleyan holding the referee's job. Dr. J. A. Reilly, Georgetown University, director at the Kansas City Athletic Club, will be the field judge and Jay Wyatt of Missouri will be head linesman.

Reports of the game will be wired and broadcast all over the country. Many special wires have been put in the press box and that enclosure will be full of correspondents. Radio station KFAB of the Nebraska Buick Company will broadcast from the press stand a play-by-play report. The Chicago Tribune will also have a direct telephone wire to its station in Chicago, and from there the reports of the game will be broadcast.

Five Nebraska men will don the moleskins for the last time today. Choppy Rhodes, fullback, is finishing a successful career with today's game. Captain Ed Weir plays his final game today as the culmination of three seasons of play in which he was chosen for All-American honors in 1924. Harold Hutchison, Nebraska's scrappy center, Joe Westoupal, center, and Roland Locke, "Nebraska's fastest halfback," are also playing their last game.

The student body is in full support of the team, if pre-game manifestations can be believed. Cheering in classes and on the campus has been rampant this week, and it reached its highest point at the rally last night. Wednesday classes were interrupted time and time again by prolonged cheering. There were impromptu rallies between classes, and every meeting brought songs and cheers.

Students walking through the corridors broke into spontaneous howls as the football spirit took root in them. One professor, who objected to the cheering, was treated to an extemporaneous rally outside his classroom door while his class joined in the singing.

BUCK AND MOORE ARE NAMED

Will Represent Nebraska at Agricultural Magazine Conference

Glen H. Buck, '27, and R. H. Moore, '27, have been chosen by the publication board of College of Agriculture as Nebraska delegates to the national convention of the Agricultural College Magazines Associated at Chicago, November 27 and 28. The leading agricultural college magazines of the country are to be represented at this meeting.

Mr. Buck was recently appointed the editor of the "Cornhusker Countryman," the official publication of the agricultural college, and Moore is business manager.
