Mr. Buckner represented the University in the debates with Kansas in 1903 and 1904. He was graduated with Phi Beta Kappa honors in 1904, and entered the Harvard law school from which he graduated cum laude in 1907. Professor Fogg, introducing Mr. Buckner, sketched his meteoric career as a lawyer and told of the record which he had made while a University student.

George A. Lee, '03, (Phi Beta Kappa), Law '05, (Order of the Coif), general counsel for the Continental Gas and Electric Company, spoke as a debating team colleague of Mr. Buckner. He was a member of the Nebraska team against Kansas in 1903, which so impressed Chancellor Strong of Kansas, who was presiding, that he declared after the debate: "I feel as if I had been on an express train going through a cyclone."

W. L. Bates, '12, former regent of the University, told of his experiences as a college debater; and Clifford L. Rein, '13, Law '15, J. D. '21, spoke on the value of such training as is given by argumentation and debate courses.

HUSKERS END SUCCESSFUL GRID SEASON

Brilliant 17-0 Victory Over Rockne's Notre Dame Team Is Climax

HAD OUTSTANDING TEAM

Win Over Illinois and Tie with Washington Huskies Adds to Nebraska's Prestige

With its victory over Notre Dame Thanksgiving Day the Nebraska football team closed a successful season which included a victory over Illinois and the famous "Red" Grange and a 6 to 6 tie with the Washington Huskies, Pacific coast champions.

Although the Cornhuskers were beaten by two Valley teams and held to a scoreless tie by another, Nebraska football fans are pointing to the season's record with pride and maintaining that the Nebraska teams is one of the outstanding teams in the country.

By beating Notre Dame 17 to 0 before the record breaking crowd of 41,000 spectators the Cornhuskers not only put a fitting climax to their successful season, but they also evened the score with the Irish. Both of the teams have won five games.

The attendance record for the 1925 season was 119,000 which was an increase of 20,000 over the 1924 season.

Win Important Games

Nebraska repeated its performance of 192 and 1923 in defeating Notre Dame. The invaders were very strong favorites to win, and only one other team had won over them this year—the Army eleven. Beyond that, Nebraska has something to be more proud of. In the last four year Notre Dame has lost four games. Three of those losses were to Nebraska Cornhuskers.

The Huskers got the jump on the Irish early in the game. With Rockne's second string starting the game, Nebraska received the ball on the kick-off and immediately punted on the first down. It was Captain Weir who booted the ball, and it sailed high and beautifully to the 6-yard line.

Notre Dame was penalized on the next play and the ball came to rest on the 1-yard line. Notre Dame could not succeed in plunging, and a punt was called for. Then came the break of the game. Roach was hurried and his punt was a fizzle; it was wide and went out of bounds on Notre Dame's 7-yard line.

A plunge at center by Rhodes netted yard; Choppy went off left guard for two more; and then with beautiful interference drove off left tackle for the touchdown. Weir place-kicked the extra point and Nebraska was seven points in the lead. All this happened within three minutes of the opening whistle.

Rockne sat tight. His second team stayed in the game, and received Ed Weir's kickoff over the goal line and took the ball out on the 20-yard line. Notre Dame again was forced to punt and the kick was only good for twenty yards. After plunges by Rhodes and Dailey, Jug Brown hurled a pass to Mandery which was good for 16 yards, placing the ball on the Notre Dame 27-yard line.

A Nebraska penalty gave Notre Dame a slight advantage, and Weir soon punted over the goal line and Notre Dame brought the ball out 20 yards.

The second Nebraska touchdown came as the direct result of the pass from Brown to Mandery. The ball was in mid-field when Rhodes gained 13 yards off tackle. With the ball on the 32-yard line, Brown's pass to Mandery was good, and he ran the remaining 20 yards for a score. Ed Weir's place kick was good. Score, Nebraska 14; Notre Dame 0.

It was then that Rockne sent in his first team, but they were unable to score on the Huskers. They held the Nebraska team better than the seconds had done, but they were unable to do anything in the way of scoring. Nebraska had a distinct edge on the regulars as well as on the seconds. Notre Dame completed only one pass out of the many tries, several of these being intercepted by the Huskers.

In the third quarter the Huskers ran down to Notre Dame's 15-yard line and Weir place-kicked a field goal, standing on the 25-yard line. That made the score 17 to 0.

The fourth quarter failed to produce a Notre Dame score and Nebraska won the game on sheer fight and spirit.

LEROSSIGNOL WILL SPEAK

World Forum to Hear Dean Of Bizad College on Wednesday

IS GRADUATE OF MCGILL

Dean J. E. LeRossignol of the College of Business Administration, will speak at the World Forum luncheon at the Grand Hotel Wednesday noon on the subject "How Soon Should Specialized Training Begin?"

The question of specialized training is one which is much discussed in educational circles today. Some hold that a general training such as the Arts College seeks to give should precede specialized work. Others maintain that the two can be combined.

Dean LeRossignol has been connected with the University since 1911 and has been dean of the College of Business Administration since its foundation in 1919. He is a graduate of McGill University, Montreal, Canada, and has had good opportunity to view the English educational system in operation. The English emphasize cultural training before specialized, practical work.

The discussion this week is one of the series of education which the Forum is having this year.

Tickets may be bought at the Y. M. C. A. or the Y. W. C. A. offices. They are twenty-five cents.

CONGREGATIONAL CENTER PURCHASED

Location of New Student Center Is At 1504 Q—Take Possession December 1

A residence which will be used as the Congregational University pastor's house has been bought at 1504 Q street by the Congregational conference of Nebraska. The place is near the Baptist student parsonage and the Presbyterian student manse, and is across the alley from the Wesley Foundation parsonage on R street. With the expansion of the campus, it will be in a very desirable location stated the Reverend Frederick Leavitt, Congregational University pastor.

Possession of the house will be given December 1, but according to Rev. Leavitt it will not be occupied until general alterations and repairs are made. The house itself is well suited to student activities, and will be used until means are raised to build a modern structure on this location for the Congregational student center. The fund for this purpose has already been begun in a joint campaign by those interested in Doane college and the student pastorate at the University, and an active campaign will soon be launched, according to Rev. Leavitt.

STUDENTS TAKE LEAD IN CHINA

Explains Rev. Gilbert Lovell in Address to Y. W. C. A. Workers Wednesday

"The students are taking the lead in the Chinese renaissance," was the statement made at a luncheon of the Grace Coppock staff last week by Dr. Gilbert Lovell of Oberlin, O., of the department of vocational counsel of the Presbyterian church.

"They are determined to save China for the Chinese," the speaker continued. "The students themselves say they are not bolsheviks, anti-forgainers, nor anti-anything, but are just making a plea for China."

"The Chinese system of education is patterned after that of the United States, where it was formerly patterned after those of Japan and Germany. There is co-education in the primary grades but only in three universities."

"The president of one girls school said, 'We are bound as to our feet, our minds and our customs. We must emancipate the Chinese women.'"

In speaking of Miss Grace Coppock, a Nebraska alumna who worked a number of years among the Chinese women, work which is still supported by contributions of Nebraska women students, he said:

"Miss Coppock had a reputation all along the Chinese coast. She was known as a woman who stood for a kind of deep and rich fellowship with God and who exercised power in her daily life. Her death was a loss to Chi-a and to Chinese women."

Race Problems Are of Interest to Students

Results of the questionnaire sent out by the Y. W. Y. M. C. A. of Estes Park conference committee, of which Arthur Jorgenson and Miss Erma Appleby of the University of Nebraska are chairmen, indicate that discussion of race problems is of especial interest to students in universities and colleges of the middle-western region. A large proportion of these suggesting subjects for study at the conference mentioned some phase of the race problem. The association committees have already arranged for lectures by Miss Julia Deurloot, national Y. W. C. A. secretary for the colored women, at these schools during the winter, and will probably include such questions in the conference program.

PRACTICE FOR CAGE ARTISTS STARTS MONDAY

Husker Chances Helped by Return of Five Letter Men This Year

BEARG WILL COACH TEAM

Season Begins December 18 With Game Against University of South Dakota

Basketball, the winter season successor of football, in the realm of college sports, will make its first official practice appearance on the University of Nebraska campus tomorrow afternoon at 4:00 o'clock in the Armory when the Cornhusker cage candidates will report for their initial workout under Coach E. E. Bearg, who piloted the football machine through a successful season, and now takes the helm in the indoor game.

The cage season proper will open at home December 18, with a game in the Armory against the University of South Dakota. This will be first game in years with the Dakota school and is expected to give the team a real contest in preparation for the series of games early in January. The contract for the Dakota game was not completed until Saturday. It completes the Husker schedule which consists of eighteen games.

The completion of the new field house which will permit crowds of several times the size that could be packed into the Armory, will raise basketball to a premier position among indoor sports. Most of the games except the early season ones, will be played on the field house floor, which, though not to be completed entirely until later in spring, will be used as early as the stadium was used in 1923.

Five Lettermen Return

Five letter men will greet Coach Bearg in the initial call for practice. They are Beerkle, Smaha, Eckstrom, Anderson and Black. All of them played forward most of the season last year.

Last year under Coach Kline the University of Nebraska basketball team rose up from a second division rating to second place in the Valley. The five man defense was a feature of the Husker march upward.

Bearg coached basketball at the University of Illinois before coming to Nebraska, and the fans are looking forward to as successful a basketball team under him, as the football team he produced that won victories over Illinois and Notre Dame, and tied Washington, the pride of the coast.

As assistant coaches Bearg will have Owen Frank and Dick Newman, both former Nebraska football and basketball stars. Frank has been assistant coach and scout for several years. The two will have charge of the freshman squad.

PLAYERS MAKE BIG HIT IN POLLYANNA

Miss Hubbard and Herbert Yense Are in Charge of Production Miss Gellately in Role

A finished performance with clever touches accentuating each point and enhancing the value of the play, the University Players presented in their Children's Theater Saturday afternoon and evening, "Pollyanna" by Catherine Cushing.

The role of Pollyanna was fortunately placed in the care of Pauline Gellately and in the making of this characterization she gave one of the finest interpretations. Paul Bogan as Jimmy Bean Jr., caused particular enthusiasm. For a child-actor, his work was particularly well done. Nancy was another featured member of the cast.

In the matter of atmosphere and detail, the production of "Pollyanna" was a great credit to all concerned, actors and directors. Miss Fern H. Hubbard and Herbert Yense were in charge of the production.

The cast of the play was as follows:

|                    |                   |
|--------------------|-------------------|
| Mrs. Carmody       | Ruth Jamison      |
| Mrs. Gregg         | Ethel Tracy       |

| Nancy              | Cleo Slagel       |
