THE STUDENT MOB

To celebrate the winning of the Notre Dame game some students of the University decided Friday to dismiss school. Sentiment had existed against holding school on Friday...

At 10 o'clock at Social Science a class in sociology met. A fair proportion of the class was present and willing to listen to a lecture.

Another mob entered the Law building, where classes were being held. Dean Scavey and two professors met them at the door.

The demonstration was not particularly serious, for few students will be injured by the loss of one day's class work.

University students should be intelligent enough in their thinking independently. But with the ease with which they are swayed by the first irresponsible nitwit who comes along...

The "big day" Friday was not at all serious. In fact, it was only rather silly. But it does show that many students are not proof against the call of the mob that their sophistication is skin-deep...

MYTHOLOGY Now that the class presidents have announced their committees, we may relegate the committees to the limbo of forgotten things.

Memorial Lectures Are Features of Convention Which Opens in New York November 30

Jiles William Haney, professor in the department of mechanical engineering in the University, will attend the convention of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers...

One new feature of the convention is the establishment of the Henry Robinson Towne and the Robert Henry Thurston lectures.

The Conference of Student Branch delegates will be held on Wednesday, December 2. The aim of this student branch activity is to give the student a more complete understanding of where his engineering course is leading him.

Former Instructor Visits Here Walter Scott, Civil '23, and James Marshall, Civil '25, called at the office of Dean Ferguson of the College of Engineering while here for the game.

"Science" Has DeBaufre Article An article entitled "Mechanical Power," written by Prof. W. L. DeBaufre, of the department of mechanical engineering, was published in the October issue of "Science."

Harold Holtz, secretary of the University Alumni association, was in Omaha last week and met with the former students of the University who are interested in organizing a men's club from among the alumni in Omaha.

There is nothing the home folks would appreciate more than a really good photograph of yourself. A glimpse into Townsend's display windows on South Eleventh street will demonstrate the superiority of their portraiture.

Students Will Discuss Problems At Interdenominational Conference

"The attitude of our more thoughtful students toward the church is that they are impatient with the opposition of the church to the teachings of science and with its clinging to theological beliefs as the essential thing in christian faith," writes one of America's outstanding teachers of Sociology in analyzing the student attitude on the campus of a mid-western University.

Continuing, he says, "The marked opposition to denominationalism shows itself here only in the belief that churches should bury their theological differences and unite upon the program of Jesus. I think that all believe in denominations as mere separate organizations or 'regiments' in the christian army to promote one common cause.

But it is an admirable institution, nevertheless. By it, the names of the committee members are printed in The Nebraskan and Cornhusker, and the presidents are allowed to confer some slight political favor.

Whether the program of the present day church can be so readjusted is the burning question which is drawing hundreds of students toward Evanston, Illinois, for the Interdenominational Student Conference, December 29th to January 2nd, 1925-26.

Within four days after the first announcements of the conference were sent out, the Executive Committee at 10 East Huron Street, Chicago, received requests from over 20 students for registration cards.

University Gallery To Be Open Sunday

The University art gallery will be open Sunday from 2 until 5 o'clock. The Lincoln Artists' Guild collection which is now being exhibited there has attracted considerable attention and the exhibit will be continued until December 5.

W. A. A. STARTS RIFLE PRACTICE

Team of University Women Will be Selected to Shoot Against Other Schools

The Women's Athletic Association opens the rifling season with practices starting Monday, December 7. Practices are held any two hours per week, and roll call will be taken this year, as different from before.

Rifling is open to all University women including those who are taking archery. This gives the women unable to compete in more strenuous sports, an opportunity to earn enough points to be eligible for membership.

Class teams will be picked, and a class tournament will be held between February 1 and March 16. An all-University team will be picked. Teams in most state universities either have been, or will be challenged for the meet.

Women are urged to sign up for the sport, and a good representation from all classes is necessary in order to make an interesting class tournament.
