MORE CLASSES ARE SCHEDULED FOR SATURDAY

Dean Engberg Announces Action of Committee Following Senate Motion

WILL AFFECT FRESHMEN

Beginning Courses in Mathematics, English, and Philosophy Will Be Changed

Several Tuesday, Thursday, and Saturday classes have been placed on the schedule for the next semester, Executive Dean Carl C. Engberg, chairman of the schedule committee of the University, announced yesterday afternoon. The meeting of the schedule committee resulted from the passing of a motion by the University Senate Saturday directing the schedule committee to consider the establishment of three-hour classes meeting on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday.

Dean Engberg announced that the Saturday classes are not a novelty. All freshmen in the College of Engineering, most Pre-Medic students, all Dental students, and students in the Colleges of Law and Agriculture have Saturday classes now and have had them for some time. Students in the Teachers College will not be affected by the new ruling as most of their courses are two-hour courses.

Beginning students in the Colleges of Arts and Sciences and Business Administration will have Saturday classes. Beginning classes especially in mathematics, English and philosophy will meet on Saturday. No classes, however, starting at the beginning of the year and continuing through the year have been changed.

Laboratories in some of the beginning sciences are scheduled for the forenoon in order to match beginning classes. Beginning classes in French, German, and Spanish will meet in the afternoon next semester. At present some classes in English, mathematics, and chemistry and one in economics meet on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday.

These changes in the schedule are expected to relieve the present situation. Classes which formerly met in University Hall are now being held in many out-of-the-way places. It was found that a change in the schedule for the next semester was necessary when all classes formerly met in University Hall had to be put elsewhere after the building was condemned.

TO SHOW OFFICIAL PICTURES OF GAME

Plan Program for Annual Cornhusker Banquet to be Held Friday at Scottish Rite

Official motion pictures showing every point made in the Nebraska victory over Notre Dame on Thanksgiving Day will be shown for the first time at the Cornhusker banquet for all men in the University which is to be held at the Scottish Rite Temple Friday evening.

The pictures, which have been much sought, have been held here especially for the banquet. Immediately after the banquet they will be sent to West Point.

Those who have seen advance showings of the pictures say that they are the most remarkable action pictures they have ever witnessed. Both of the touchdowns made early in the first quarter are more clearly visible than they were in the news reel pictures, says Hugh B. Cox, '26, Lincoln, who is in charge of the publicity for the banquet.

Because there are a number of social events later in the evening, the committee in charge has arranged to have the banquet begin a half hour early so that the banquet may be over at a reasonable hour. The moving pictures will be shown at 5:30. As the reel will only be shown once so that those who wish to see it will find it necessary to be on hand at that time. The banquet itself will start promptly at 6 o'clock.

The committee in charge of the decorations has announced that the Cornucopia, men's pep organization, will assist in this work.

Those in charge of the ticket sale are making special effort to reach non-fraternity men. Salesmen are selling tickets on the campus. Tickets may also be got at the student activities office.

The program arranged includes speeches by the members of the 1925 squad, Governor McMullen, Coach Berg, Chancellor Avery, and music by two orchestras.

Weather Forecast

Wednesday: Generally fair; moderate temperature.

Proposal Number One

For U. S. participation in the World Court under the "Harding-Hughes-Coolidge" terms

The Student World Court poll which will take place in classes of Friday morning will involve four proposals. Three are for entrance into the World Court in different bases and one against entrance into the World Court.

The first of the three proposals for entrance into the court is that this country join under the Harding-Hughes-Coolidge plan which is embodied in the Swanson resolution. This is the issue which will be debated in the United States Senate beginning December 17, 1925.

The Harding-Hughes-Coolidge plan as proposed in the Swanson Resolution states that the United States shall adhere to the Permanent Court of International Justice (World Court) (without signing the optional clause giving the court compulsory jurisdiction) provided that five reservations are permitted.

The first reservation is that the United States is not to have any legal relation with the League of Nations or to assume any obligations under the League Covenant.

The second reservation requires that the United States shall participate on equal terms with the other nations in election of judges by the Council and Assembly of the League of Nations.

The third reservation requires that the United States shall pay her full share of the expenses of the Court as determined and appropriate for by Congress from time to time.

The fourth reservation states that the statute creating the Court shall not be amended without the consent of the United States.

The fifth reservation is that the United States shall not be bound by advisory opinions of the Court upon questions that the United States has not voluntarily submitted to its judgment.

Entrance into the Court as soon as these five reservations have been agreed upon is the provision of the Harding-Hughes-Coolidge plan. Descriptions of the Harmony plan and the Borah proposals which may come before the Senate in case the Swanson Bill (Harding-Hughes-Coolidge plan) is not successful will follow as well as a summary of the arguments of those who oppose going into the Court on any basis.

WILL PRESENT SHORT PLAYS

University Players to Appear in Christmas Program This Week-End

TICKETS NOW ON SALE

In keeping with the spirit of the holidays, the University Players will present the Christmas play, "Why the Chimes Rang" by Elizabeth McFadden and other short plays, Thursday, Friday, and Saturday evenings with a Saturday matinee.

The action of "Why the Chimes Rang" takes place in an old hut and cathedral. A specially written performance. The thought of the play is that many people bring gifts of apparent worth to the Christ Child but they are not the sincere gifts, and the chimes of the cathedral do not chime until a real gift of love is brought. The play is adapted from Raymond Allen's story of the same name.

Another play which has met with success is "Op-O'-Me-Thumb," in which Maude Adams has scored high. In this play a laundry queen dreams of romance, of a lord, but he does not appear.

"Poor Aubrey" is the one-act version of George Kelly's comedy "The Show-Off."

Three interludes are also on the program. They are "Thirty Minutes in the Street," "All on a Summer's Day," and "The Noble Lord."

Seats for the plays are now on sale at Ross P. Curtice's Music store.

Bradford Back from Vocational Meeting

Professor H. E. Bradford of the University of Nebraska returned yesterday from Cleveland, Ohio, where he attended the annual meeting of the National Society for Vocational Education.

The convention was attended by more than 2000 members from nearly every state in the union. One important feature of the session was the nationalizing of all vocational education forces by the union of the National Society with the Mid-West Vocational Educational Association.

Faculty Position Refused in 1870 by Professor Who Deemed U Hall Unsafe

The first professor offered a position on the University of Nebraska faculty shortly after University Hall was completed, in 1870, refused the appointment when he came to Lincoln to look the school over, and found the walls cracked and sagging at least an inch over the door of the room in which he was to teach.

The incident was related by the man himself to Dean Engberg more than thirty years ago at the quarter centennial celebration in 1894. Dean Engberg, then a student, was on duty with the mathematics exhibit, and one of the visitors was the man who twenty-five years earlier had been offered the first faculty position, which he refused because as he said he wanted to be reasonably sure of his life.

The crack over the door of the class room did not long remain the only one in the building. New cracks and faults developed rapidly in the early years of the building, and it was closed down for repairs on numerous occasions.

NOTRE DAME GAME IS NOT YET SETTLED

Head Coach Berg Says Decision Will Not Be Known For Few Days

BIG TEN REFUSE OFFERS

Entire Conference and Eastern Universities Decline to Sign Contract

Ernest E. Berg, head football coach, returned from South Bend, Ind., last night with the report that the Notre Dame-Nebraska game for 1926 is still up in the air. The Nebraska coach had conferences with Notre Dame officials Monday but whether or not the game will be played next year will not be known for a day or two, he said.

While in Chicago Coach Berg approached every one of the "Big Ten" schools with offers of a home-and-home contest, but was unable to get any of them to sign a contract. He also tried to get contracts with some of the big eastern universities for the remaining date on the Husker schedule but failed. "They say we're too tough," was his comment on their action.

A two-year contract with Michigan seemed assured for awhile, according to Coach Berg, but a mix-up on their schedule stopped the agreement. Michigan later offered a one-year contract, the game to be played at Ann Arbor, but Coach Berg refused saying that "the folks at home want to see the games too."

Coach Berg was reluctant to discuss the matter of the Notre Dame game, saying that it had been covered pretty thoroughly in the papers. He did add, however, that "the people at South Bend are sure peeved."

The subject of relations between Notre Dame and Nebraska has caused much comment recently. One example of the interest being taken is the resolution passed Tuesday by the Rotary Club of Lincoln and sent to Notre Dame. The resolution follows:

"Resolved: That the Rotary club, of Lincoln hereby expresses its cordial good wishes to the University of Notre Dame and expresses its thanks for the clean sportsmanship of the representatives of that university that have met with the University of Nebraska in their athletic contests, and that type of manhood represented in that team has always commanded our highest regard and esteem and that we desire a continuation of the athletic contests between the Notre Dame university and the University of Nebraska."

COMMITTEE PLANS CHRISTMAS PARTY

Hastenians Will Furnish Music for Mixer Saturday Evening in The Armory

Committees for the Christmas party, which will be held next Saturday evening in the Armory, were announced yesterday by the all-University party committee.

Special features are being planned to make this party the most enjoyable of the year. The Hastenians will furnish the music for the evening. Special entertainment featuring the Christmas spirit will be introduced during the intermission period, and refreshments will be served throughout the evening. Everyone is invited.

The committees for the coming party are:

Chairman—Charles Warren.
Secretary—Eloise Keefe.
Decorations—Grace Hollingsworth and Gene Holms, chairmen. Edith Gran, Lenora Kerl, Lucille Romberg, Bernice Trumble, Dorothy Struble.

Reception—Helen Anderson and Art Breyer, chairmen. Catherine Lawlor, Glen Davis, Walter Cronk, Oral Rose Jack.

Entertainment—Blanche Allen and Gregg Watson, chairmen. Jessie Means, Audrey Beals, Ada Howard, LaVerne Hans.

Refreshment—Dorothy Smith and Robert Hoagland, chairmen. Robert Eddy, party chairman. Burnett Noble, Jane Stone, Margaret Ames, Norma Mason.

Checking—Willits Negus, chairman. Victor Brink, Addison Davis, Merrill Anderson, Herbert Kelly, Fred Kraemer, Max Kinsey.

Publicity—Oscar Norling, chairman. Maurice Konkel, Robert DuBois.

Fraternities Offer Award

The different fraternities at the University of Colorado are going to offer a $250 scholarship to a member of the freshman class. The award will be made on a basis of scholarship and need.

Favorable Weather Speeds Work On New University Field House

WOMEN PLAN ANNUAL PARTY

Expect Variety of Costumes at Cornhusker Fete Friday Evening

TO AWARD THREE PRIZES

Hoboes, dolls, fairies, and even Santa Claus will be present at the Girls' Cornhusker party according to the plans now being made for costumes.

The party is a traditional affair at which everyone dresses up according to her mood of the evening and comes out for a big time. The A. W. S. are planning the entertainment and with the assistance of Mystic Fish, Xi Delta, Silver Serpents, and Tassels, will prepare several original skits.

Every year the costumes have been the chief source of amusement for the evening, and the party this Friday night will undoubtedly be the most successful of all. Miss Louise Pound, Miss Marquette McPhee, and Miss Mabel Lee will be judges and award the prizes to the prettiest, the cleverest, and the funniest costumes. The prizes are very attractive, and are well suited to the occasion.

At the party held last year the prizes were given to Harriet Klotz, who appeared as a tramp, Katherine and Joy Schaeffer, who were dressed as a pen and a bottle of ink, and to Alice, Pfeiffer, who was a tiny boy.

The party will begin at 7:30 o'clock, but the doors will be open at 7:15 o'clock. The lockers in the basement will be open in order that the girls may have a safe place to leave their wraps. All the doors to the Armory will be locked except the south door on the west side.

In the north-west corner of the Armory, the Mortar Boards, who have charge of all the concessions for the evening, will sell candied apples and ice cream sandwiches, Eleanor Flatemersch and Dorothy Carr are in charge of this booth.

There will be a six-piece orchestra, composed entirely of girls, who will play during the evening. It is suggested that the Big Sisters who wish to become better acquainted with their Little Sisters, arrange to take them to this party.

The admission is twenty-five cents, and owing to the difficulty of making change in such a large crowd, every girl is urged to bring the exact admission as well as small change to course of the evening.

The Girls' Cornhusker party is one of the few evening affairs in the school year when the women students at the university have the opportunity of getting together, and all the girls are urged to take advantage of it. There will also be the chance to show a great deal of originality in the designing of a costume, whether it be pretty or funny.

As the party begins at seven-thirty and is held on the same night as the Men's Cornhusker banquet, there is little chance of it interfering with any other school activity. All women students are invited to attend.

Historical Society Seeking to Find Site of Spanish Massacre of 1720

Turning back the pages of time is a difficult task when the pages are fragmentary and indistinct. Such is the history of the destruction of the Spanish army under Villasar, which in August 1720, came as far north in Nebraska as the Platte River, to search for French intruders. Some of the attempts to determine the exact site of the massacre are told in the Nebraska Historical Society magazine, "Nebraska History and Record of Pioneer Days."

To protect the northern frontier against French advance, Spanish authorities in Mexico proposed to establish a fort and mission at El Cuartelejo. Before this step was taken however, the Spanish viceroy ordered the governor of New Mexico to investigate the location of the French which was reported to be on the Rio Jesus Maria, as the South Platte is believed to have been known to the Spanish Governor Valverde, accordingly, in June 1720, assembled a force in Santa Fe and placed his lieutenant-general, Don Pedro de Villaur, in command. With forty soldiers, some settlers who probably joined the expedition for trade or adventure, and seventy Indians, Villaur set out on June 16, 1720.

The story of their march to El Cuartelejo is described by A. B. Thomas, University of California, at Berkeley. But where was El Cuartelejo? Its location which has been the subject of dispute for many years, determines almost entirely the site of the massacre on the Platte river.

An old adobe ruin, unearthed in Scott county, Kansas, has led to the location of the outpost there. Details in dairies kept by Uribarri and Balverde in the previous journeys to the outpost, a some supplementary material, cause Prof. Thomas to dispute the former idea and to insist that El Cuartelejo was located in Kiowa county, in eastern Colorado. This is a distance of about one hundred and fifty leagues from Santa Fe.

Leaving El Cuartelejo to look for the French, who as yet they had not encountered, the expedition, Prof. Thomas says, proceeded toward the South Platte. On August 6, he adds, "we know that they had marched three hundred leagues northeastward from Santa Fe."

And they reached the river shore, River Jesus San Maria. Wonder-eyed the Spaniards saw, full of islands—wide and free— Called by the Otoes 'Ne-brath-ka, called by Frenchmen 'Riviere Platte'. —Addison E. Sheldon.

Workmen May Have Building Completely Enclosed by Christmas; Five of Roof Panels Already Laid In Place

If the weather continues to be favorable until Christmas, the new Field House of the University of Nebraska will be completely enclosed by then. Five of the seven panels of the roof have been laid across the huge steel arches. The walls are being erected separately and will soon meet the roof, enclosing the structure.

A feature of the new building is the independence of the roof and walls. Steel arches hold up the roof and are not fastened to the walls. All of the walls could be taken out at any time without endangering the roof. In this way the building contract and expand in extreme weather without danger to the construction.

Ten stone columns are being erected and will have practically the same appearance as those of Social Science building. Stone steps lead up to them, and the entrance to the structure can be made between any of the columns.

The lighting for the new building has been especially well taken care of. Full sized windows have been built in the basement, by cutting away some of the ground at the sides of the structure, to be made into a terrace in the future. Light for the basketball courts will be obtained from four skylights that run the length of the roof, and from the windows above the balcony. Three rows of electric lights will run the length of the building.

The building will greatly help the aspect of the campus, with its red brick construction trimmed in white stone, with ten columns across the front, the whole being in unison with the University building program. It will also have a stone foundation on both sides, where the terrace will be made at a later date.

Plans for Memorial Hall, to be started next summer, will include this building. A park, much like that at the Agricultural college campus now, will be laid out running from the Stadium to Fourteenth street, and from Bessey Hall to the new Field House. It will consist of a drive, in an oval shape, that will be cleared in the center. Another feature will be the new building to house the Museum and the School of Fine Arts, which will be constructed on the corner of Fourteenth street and the drive for Memorial Hall.

Most students do not realize the opportunities this new Field House offers for their social as well as for athletic events. It is a much larger structure than it appears in the distance, measuring 310 by 165 feet. A floor 208 by 120 feet is available for dancing. The present floor in the Armory measures 90 by 65 feet. With an orchestra stand in the center, many university functions could be held there that are now forced to be held in public halls.

Ten thousand people can be accommodated when the building is used as an auditorium and 8,500 can view a basketball game. This building will have many features being made especially for athletic, social, and miscellaneous events, that will be explained later.

The results of similar votes in the other colleges and universities of Nebraska have been sent into New York headquarters. In addition to results of polls, there have been personal letters, telegrams, signed referendums, and resolutions sent to the President and members of Congress.

With the opportunity given to several thousand students to vote, it is hoped that the results from Nebraska will be representative of the sentiment here. Students not voting in classes may be given a chance to vote at the table near the west door of Social Science building between 10 and 1 o'clock on Friday.

WILL SPEAK ON RACE QUESTION

Miss Julia Derricotte, Y. W. C. A. Colored Secretary, Will Address Forum

The race question as it most directly concerns the college student will be discussed at the World Forum today by Miss Juliette Derricotte, national secretary of the Y. W. C. A. for colored students. The usual opportunity for discussion and questions on this subject will be permitted after the luncheon.

Miss Derricotte was a representative of negro students at the joint Y. M. C. A.-Y. W. C. A. student conference held last summer in Estes Park. There, students found her extremely interesting and several discussions on the race problems were held extemporaneously since the program did not provide for them.

The race question is felt by many students to be one of the most acute problems which this country will have to face in the future. Extended discussions of race occupied the students of the Indianapolis convention two years ago and has been of interest to many of the summer conferences since that time.

Much of Miss Derricotte's work has been in the South where she has lived and traveled for a number of years. She is a graduate of the University of Talladega in Alabama.

WILL VOTE ON WORLD COURT ISSUE FRIDAY

Executive Dean Announces That Poll Will Be Held Friday Morning

PREPARE 4000 BALLOTS

Results Will Be Tabulated and Wired To Headquarters of Association Council

Students will vote on the World Court poll Friday morning, according to an announcement which will be sent to members of the faculty by the Executive Dean. Members of the faculty will be urged to select one student in each class to pass out the ballots and collect them after the voting. Students thus appointed will turn the marked ballots over to a representative of the committee in charge at a table to be situated under the bulletin board at the west entrance of Social Science building.

Four thousand ballots are being printed for use on the city and farm campuses in the World Court poll. The results will be tabulated by a committee in Ellen Smith Hall after one o'clock Friday. The final count will be wired to the national headquarters of Council of Christian Associations and to the Student World Court Conference which will be in session at Princeton, N. J., beginning December 11.

In order that students may know what they are voting on and the issues that are involved, The Daily Nebraskan is running a series of articles which explain the proposals contained in the ballot. Special articles and opinions are being solicited to represent all aspects of the question. Students and members of the faculty are to contribute their ideas on the World Court.

It is expected that this nationwide poll will serve not only to crystallize student opinion on the subject of the World Court, but also to make some impression on Congress when the results are given full publicity. The national press associations have agreed to carry accounts of the student vote provided the number of students represented is representative.

With the opportunity given to several thousand students to vote, it is hoped that the results from Nebraska will be representative of the sentiment here. Students not voting in classes may be given a chance to vote at the table near the west door of Social Science building between 10 and 1 o'clock on Friday.
