

BEARG DRILLS THREE TEAMS

Many Casters on Floor During Tuesday Session in The Armory

STRESS OFFENSIVE PLAY

Three Cornhusker basketball teams were on the floor during Tuesday practice session in the Armory. The drill consisted mostly in offensive tactics. The men used by Coach Bearg on the first team were Smaha and "Jug" Brown at forwards; Ekstrom at center; and Black, and Anderson at guards. Coach Bearg said however, that he had not decided what his lineup would be in the opening game with University of South Dakota on the Armory floor, Friday night.

It is probable that two or three teams will be used in this game in order for the coach to get a line on the men and work out a combination that he feels will make a good showing in the games later on. Of the men that played on the first five in the initial workout Brown is the only new man. He played at Lincoln High and was selected as all-state forward. The other four men were all letter men.

The first three games on the Varsity schedule are not conference games and this will give the squad a chance to get into good shape before the opening of the Valley schedule. Following the South Dakota game the team will go to Kansas City to meet the K. C. A. C. team January 2 and will play Creighton in Omaha January 9.

LAST OF NUMERAL MEETS HELD TODAY

Track Schedule on Wednesday Will Consist of the Regular Indoor Events

The last of the fall numeral meets will be held today on the indoor oval at 4 o'clock. Coach Schulte expects to continue the running of events Thursday and Friday in order that those men who have not as yet qualified for fall track numerals will be given an opportunity to do so.

The schedule will consist of the regular indoor events and will be run off in the same order as the previous meets. Coach Schulte expressed his desire of having all of the Varsity men take part in this final meet in one or more events. The chances are that members of the football and harrier teams will be present among those working on fall track as a result of this final call. This will conclude track work until the men return from the Christmas holidays when the squad will settle down to training in earnest for the indoor season.

"Zim" and "Zim"

Discussion of "Red" Grange persists, and from James Weber Linn of the Chicago Herald and Examiner in his column "Lights and Darks" comes this bit of evidence:

"When 'Red' Grange was hurt in his college days he mourned. When he gets hurt now as a professional he mourns more deeply. It affects the box office. I am reminded of a story of Binga Dismond, who is joint holder of the record for 440-yards around one turn.

"Tom Eck was telling in the smoker of a Pullman how he helped train Dismond for the record. The porter listened in.

"What he got for dat?" he inquired.

"He didn't get anything," replied Eck. The porter looked doubtful. "Whyn't he just as well walk?"

This attitude of the colored porter is the attitude of the entire group of professionals. It is the game for the gold, rather than the game for the glory. The sport of the game is gone, and it becomes work.

Iowa State College, at Ames, who will be the Huskers opponents for the third game the coming season in football, have elected Roland "Bud" Coe, left end, as their 1926 leader. Coe is a letter man in football and basketball.

The annual triangular indoor meet between Iowa State, Grinnell and Drake will take place February 13 in the Ames Armory. Iowa State has been supreme in these events in past years because of her exceptionally good distance runners, and a well balanced team in the other event.

In speaking to the Nebraska high school coaches in a recent meeting, Coach Schulte pointed out that the prime purpose of athletics was the moral and spiritual character building. He pointed out that the physical development was the natural result of sane coaching.

The fact that coaching today requires as much knowledge of the men as of the game can be pointed out in the fact that stress is laid on having the men "keyed up" mentally for the big game. Of course, determination to win cannot at all times overcome the odds caused by the difference in the power of the two teams. Nevertheless, it often happens that superior teams are defeated by weaker, but more determined opponents.

The huddle system of calling plays is to be introduced into basketball. Last night it was the feature in a game between Northwestern and Notre Dame. This plan of calling signals which has gained so much popularity throughout the country in football the last two years, was employed by Northwestern in lieu of the old style of calling plays either from center or forward in formation. Unless this system consumes too much of the playing time, the system will be definitely adopted by Northwestern.

It is doubtful if this system will be adaptable to basketball as it will undoubtedly slow up the game. The game has been slowed up considerably in the past few years with the innovation of the five man defense and conditions do not warrant the further slowing up of the game.

The university athletic department has been unable thus far to schedule a game with any big team next year. The cancellation of the Notre Dame game left the Cornhuskers officials up in the air. Most of the larger universities that would make a good attraction for Lincoln have completed their schedules. However, every effort is being made to book some first team as the big attraction in Lincoln for 1926.

Wyoming Student Chums With Bees Clad in Thin Air

Clad only in a bathing suit, Harold Gilbert, of the University of Wyoming, coolly arranged a swarm of bees into figures of a beard and head of hair.

The bees weren't dead either, on the contrary they were very much alive.

The queen bee took a liking to the young man on the spot and attached herself contentedly on his chin. The rest of the swarm after looking him over a time or two decided to rely upon their queen's judgment and settled down on his chin and head.

In order to protect the timid public he was put behind a screen. The object of all this was to advertise the ease with which the Caucasian bee may be handled under ordinary conditions. We wonder how many of us would be willing to act as a living sacrifice on the altar of publicity.
