WE ARE REPRIMANDED

In another column of this paper will be found a communication from three students in the College of Business Administration in which we are corrected, aye! even berated, for an editorial which appeared recently. Among other things, we learn that we are a Grim Joker, and lacking in a sense of delicacy. As to the sense of delicacy that may be true; but as to being a joker, we hesitate to accept the label. We have been, we fear, somewhat failing in a sense of humor, and while we thank our correspondents for commending our wit, we fear that the compliment is scarcely justified. We are informed that there are other colleges more deserving of condemnation than the Bizad College. Upon that question we will not comment, chiefly because our editorial however unintelligible it may have been, was not meant to knock any college in particular. We have never taken a course in business cycles, and ill success in that cannot account for our alleged viciousness. We were exposed to a semester course in bookkeeping in high school but since that time we have shunned all things that smack of ledger and balance sheets. While we cannot claim to have been a brilliant success in the high school course mentioned, we did pass, and it does not remain as dust and ashes in our figurative memory (mixed metaphor, but what of it?). Not having had any experience in this line, we must decline the invitation to aid the class in business cycles. We are compelled to agree with the statement that there are too many sluffers in college, and to deny that the College of Business Administration was singled out for our barbs. It merely served as a convenient instrument to illustrate a larger idea. As to the wager on the number or percentage of sluffers in the respective colleges, why ask us? We are not informed on the subject, nor do we intend to spend several weeks at the executive dean's office tabulating records to find out. Besides, betting is immoral. But to be more serious. It was not our intention to single out the College of Business Administration for criticism. We might as well have referred to the other technical colleges on the campus whose requirements of cultural subjects seem to us too small. We attempted in our inept way, to write something of an allegory to point out the error of going through college without becoming educated.

THE MESSIAH

The annual presentation of "The Messiah", Handel's oratorio which will be given in Memorial Hall at 10 o'clock this morning, is one of the few genuine traditions that the University has. Today the oratorio will be presented for the thirtieth time. "The Messiah" has now come to an almost inseparable part of the Christmas season at the University. While most of the students have no great interest in music, this oratorio has always been well attended and is appreciated widely. The University chorus, under the coaching of Mrs. Carrie B. Raymond, is entirely competent to make "The Messiah" a success.

Other Opinions

The Daily Nebraskan assumes no responsibility for the sentiments expressed by correspondents and reserves the right to exclude any communications whose publication may for any reason seem undesirable. In all cases the editor must know the identity of the contributor. No communications will be published anonymously, but by special arrangement initials only may be signed.

A PROTEST

To the Editor:
We the undersigned (and probably all Bizad students) resent the editorial in Tuesday's Nebraskan entitled "The Grim Comedy." The person who wrote that editorial is certainly a Grim Joker and lacks a sense of delicacy in singling out one college to criticize when the same criticism may be made of any college on the campus and of some more deservedly than the College of Business Administration.

What inspired the editorial is not for us to say. Perhaps the writer knows whereof he speaks from experience. Perhaps he tried to "revel in bookkeeping and business cycles" and didn't find them so easy, hence the bitter taste. Certainly the class in Business Cycles would welcome any help which this all wise editorial writer would give them in solving the greatest of all business problems.

No doubt there are too many sluffers in our college. But why single us out? We are willing to wager that there are no more sluffers in proportion than there are in any other of the colleges.

Had your editorial been written in a spirit of fairness, applying to the whole University, it could have been endorsed, perhaps, by everyone.

We challenge the things you insinuate against the students of the College of Business Administration and ask you to submit proof to support your charges.

Very truly yours,
ERNEST WITT,
VERNON MORRISON,
ELMER C. BRATT.

Christmas Tea Given By Home Ec Faculty

The Home Economics faculty gave a Christmas tea on Tuesday afternoon, December 15, from 4 to 6 o'clock, in the Home Economics parlors. The decorations were evergreen branches and white candles, with a Christmas tree in the center. Punch and small cakes were served after which the following program was given: Carols, solo by Miss Hukley, "The Other Wise Man" by Mrs. True Colbert.

Ten Years Ago

Many unique entertainment features were planned for the Y. W. C. A. and Y. M. C. A. Holiday Fete to be given at the Temple.

The German dramatic club met in Faculty Hall at the Temple, the attraction of the evening being the presentation of the prologue of Schiller's Maid of Orleans. In addition to the club members, many visitors were present to see the play.

Prof. G. E. Barber returned from St. Louis where he represented the University of Nebraska at the meeting of the faculty members of the Missouri Valley.

Prof. C. A. Robbins spoke before the Business Law class on "The Law and the Business Man."

A special Christmas musical service was held at the Y. W. C. A. Vespers.

Solve Last-Minute Gift Perplexities at the Lincoln Photo Supply Co.

It's such a satisfying feeling to come into this store—where you'll see so many tastefully chosen things—so artistically and so conveniently displayed! Particularly appealing to seekers of the unusual at this time, are hand carved wooden novelties from the Italian Alps. Quaint little figures, dispose themselves a-top cigarette holders, pens, pencils, letter openers, ink wells, ash trays and salad sets. You'll find also at the Lincoln Photo Supply Co., all that is most interesting in boxed novelties from Rustcraft, Norwood and Gift Shop lines. Cowan and Fulper pottery, Ivorex plaques, decorated candles, Kodaks, leather goods, and countless other objects, make gift-choosing here an altogether fascinating experience! At 1217 O.

Give Feminine Frillery from the Famous!

—lives there a girl who wouldn't love to receive any of these dainty dress accessories on Christmas Morn? You'll find at the Famous—prettily boxed for gift-giving: silk underthings of pastel hue; sheer clear chiffon hose; striking patterns in silk and wool hose for sports wear; gloves; dainty silk and linen kerchiefs; blanket and corduroy bath robes—as practical as they are good looking; radium silk slippers; silk negligees; silk scarfs—and HAVE you see the imported French gift novelties at the Famous? There are doll heads, clocks, book marks, lip sticks, powder boxes, compacts, garters and small pocket mirrors—all evidencing an unmistakable French chic!

Order Christmas Flowers at the Stryker Floral Co.

—then you'll be sure that the choicest blooms are delivered fresh and perky on Christmas morning! Flowers from this shop have an air about them—possibly because Dick Stryker exercises his artistic talents on every out-going bouquet, be it of boutonniere or ball-room size. Think of this attractive little flower-center when choosing last minute gifts also. Awaiting you are lovely pottery vases and bowls, bridge paraphanelia, baskets, framed mottoes and an utterly distinctive line of Christmas cards and Greetings. Remember the address: 127 No. 13th!

The Store of "Everygift" Mayer Bros. Co.

—no matter the number, age, or variety of people on your gift-list, Mayer Bros. have the tissue-contents that will make each and every one of them clap their hands with delight on Christmas Morning! Particularly is your attention called to their men's store, where there is almost a bewildering assortment of things to please a fussy male. If you want to spend but a little money—there is a dollar table from which you may make your selections—simply loaded down with ties, scarfs, bill folds, belts, belt buckles, hose, and kindred articles—all chosen with excellent taste. Man-gifts at every other price, too, at Mayer Bros. Co., and things without number to delight the Lenas and Ermalindas.

A Gift Cake from the Golden Pheasant!

—wouldn't mother be pleased if she could take one of those delicious melt-in-your-mouth Golden Pheasant cakes from your traveling case—it will certainly add more than its bit to holiday festivities—be it angel or devil food variety. Have one packed for you the next time you have your lunch at the Golden Pheasant—for of course you WILL lunch at this convenient downtown shop when doing your Christmas shopping! However, buy cakes if you will, when enjoying after-dance or theater nourishment at the Golden Pheasant. As you know, they stay open to accommodate you, and serve delectable salads, sandwiches, pastries, hot and fountain drinks!

"Our pioneering work has just begun"

RECENTLY some one said to a prominent official of the Bell System:

"Your pioneering work is done. You have created a system that makes a neighborhood of the nation."

The executive replied: "Our pioneering work has just begun. Each day brings new problems, new discoveries, new developments, all calling for broad-vised handling on a larger scale than ever before. If I were a young man again in years, I would choose the telephone business for my life work even more quickly than I did before."
