HUSKERS FACE CREIGHTON IN NEXT CONTEST

Nebraska Meets Blue Jay Basketball Team at Omaha Saturday Night

GOOD SHOWING AT K. C.

Huskies Lose to All-Star Athletic Club Five, But New Men Make Good Showing

The Cornhuskers play their third basketball game of the season Saturday evening when they meet the fast Creighton University five in Omaha. Although they lost their first two starts, the Nebraska five are determined to defeat the Blue Jays, if possible.

Tickets for the game are now on sale at the athletic office and may be purchased for $1.50. These seats are reserved and are in the Nebraska section.

The Blue Jays have played four games this season and have been victorious in three. They opened the season against Midland and had little trouble in winning by a large margin. Minnesota was the next team to invade the Creighton camp and the teams drew even in a two game series, Minnesota taking the first by a one point margin and Creighton winning the nightcap. Creighton next defeated Iowa State, conquerors of Chicago.

May Be Changed Lineup

It is predicted that a changed Husker lineup will greet the followers of the cage sport in the Creighton game. Sophomore members of the squad showed up so well in the Kansas City Athletic Club games that they may crowd some of the letter men of last year out of a position. The squad has returned from a busy week of holiday practice in Kansas City.

According to Coach Bearg, the Nebraska squad registered considerable improvement while in Missouri, and a great percentage of the progress was shown by the newer men on the squad. In the game against the veteran K. C. A. C. five, the Huskers allowed their opponents to get a safe lead during the first half, but during the second half the Nebraska tossers held the all-star combination on even terms.

The big thing bothering the squad is the lack of experience, but the men are fast gaining this. Coach Bearg is well pleased with the showing made by his men in the last game, especially the work of the sophomores.

Vint Lawson and "Jug" Brown saw duty as guards and these two men played a creditable game. Sprague, another "youngster", also performed well as a guard.

The pleasing performance of the evening was made by Tom Elliott of West Point. Playing his first game as a member of the Varsity squad Elliott entered the game in the second half and scored three baskets in less than fifteen minutes of play. Through his fine showing Elliott may start at forward in the Creighton game.

FRATS URGED TO HURRY PICTURES

Cornhusker Staff Requests Underclassmen to Have Individual Pictures Taken Soon

Members of fraternities and sororities, especially sophomores and freshmen, none of whom had individual pictures taken for the class section of the 1926 Cornhusker, are urged to make arrangements for a sitting at either Townsend's or the Hauck studio immediately. Panels will be made up soon.

The price of the individual pictures is $1.50. Those who use a picture from last year need only pay fifty cents for the extra print.

The need for promptness in having the picture taken is obvious, as there are a large number of the members of fraternities and sororities who have not had a sitting, and there are only a few weeks left.

New Geography Course Offered

The department of geography offers a new course next semester on the geography of North America. This will comprise a study of the natural regions of the United States and Canada, with emphasis on the relationships between natural resources and industrial and cultural development. It is designed to be especially valuable for those interested in the social sciences. The course is open only to upper-classmen and will be given at two o'clock on Tuesdays and Thursdays by Prof. N. A. Bengtson.

RUSH WORK ON GROUP PICTURES

Organizations Should Make Reservations for Cornhusker Now

JANUARY 16 IS DEADLINE

Reservations for group pictures for the 1926 Cornhusker must be made before Saturday, January 16, says Editor Donald F. Sampson.

Reservations can be made at the campus studio, where all group pictures are being taken.

Work is being rushed on the book so that the usual February and March "chaos" will be eliminated. Organizations that have not reserved pages are advised to do so as soon as possible, as well as arrange for the group sitting.

Pictures will be taken at the campus studio. The price will be four dollars for each group, payable at the time of the sitting. A dollar fine will be imposed on any organization that does not keep its appointment. Doors of the studio will be locked while the group is having its picture taken.

LIKE UNIVERSITY RADIO PROGRAMS

University Station Receives Many Letters and Cards From Appreciative Listeners

During the past week more than twenty-five letters and fifty cards have been received by the radio station of the University of Nebraska, which broadcasts over KFAB. The messages showed the appreciation of the people of the surrounding states as well as of the radio fans of Nebraska, for the programs given by the station.

Special mention was made of the weather reports given by Prof. T. A. Blair, director of the Nebraska section of the United States Weather Bureau. Professor Blair appears in person each morning at nine-thirty to read the weather report with his more or less cheery voice, all depending upon the weather. Trips are planned and regulated by his predictions, and various rural activities are scheduled by his reports.

Art Books on Exhibit in Library This Week

Part of the collection of art books which the University of Nebraska library has received are on exhibit this week at the entrance to the main library. Many of the books deal with textiles, embroideries, laces, and similar work and the exhibit includes specimens of both ancient and modern art. Of especial interest are the reproductions of tapestry, an important type of art which immediately followed the Egyptian; specimens of modern silks from Morocco; and reproductions of the peasant art of Hungary.

Doane Attends Mid-Winter Meeting of Library Association in Chicago

Gilbert H. Doane, University librarian, attended the mid-winter meeting of the American Libraries Association, which was held at Chicago, December 30 to January 2.

Among the subjects that were discussed was the report of the Board of Education for Librarianship, which has to deal with library employees in institutions other than the full-fledged library schools.

The council considered the Telford report on the classification of library personnel. Mr. Telford, whose name the report bears, is a member of the Bureau of Personnel Administration. He has been studying the problems of job analysis as

TO INTERPRET SHAKESPEARE

WAS HERE LAST YEAR

Henry Lawrence Southwick, president of Emerson College, Boston, and widely known Shakespearian interpreter, will give his interpretation of "Richard the Third," Wednesday evening in the Temple Theater at 8 o'clock.

Miss Howell, director of the Dramatic department, when asked her opinion of his work, said, "I am a woman of few words, but I will say that I consider Mr. Southwick a truly great artist."

Mr. Southwick is being brought to the University by the Dramatic Club. His reading of "Richard the Third," is the first of a series of programs which they are planning for the winter. Negotiations are under way for an evening of James Whitcomb Riley poems to be read by a lecturer from St. Louis.

COMPANY L TAKES COMMANDANT'S CUP

Crook, Firing 197 Out of Possible 200, Makes High Individual Score of Meet

Company L won the Commandant's Cup in the annual inter-company rifle shoot held in December the results of which were compiled during vacation. The trophy was awarded on the basis of scores made by the freshmen cadets in prescribed first year firing. The average score of the winning company was 161 out of a possible high score of 200. High individual score of the tourney was made by Jack W. Crook who fired a score card of 197 out of a possible 200. All but two members of the winning company completed the required firing.

Schramm Decides No Oil at College View

Samples of oil found at College View were examined by Prof. E. F. Schramm of the geology department for Woods Bros., Lincoln. The samples tested high, but it was concluded that they came from drainage of a nearby garage, and did not indicate the presence of any natural crude oil.

GIVES CONFERENCE REPORT AT VESPERS

Rev. Harold Fey Tells of Interdenominational Meeting at Evanston

"The conference was a conference of teachers" said Rev. Harold Fey in speaking at Vespers Tuesday evening of the Interdenominational Student Conference which was held at Evanston, Ill., on December 29, 30, 31, and January 1 in the First Methodist church. The Vesper services were led by Ershal Freeman and a piano solo was played by Beatrice Fuller.

"The characteristic which ran through the whole conference as a minor note was the fact of the failure of the conference," stated Rev. Fey. One of the prominent leaders of the conference attributed this failure to a lack of factional background. "There were the ideas but not the background for the idea," pointed out the speaker. The students of today are beginning to work out their doctrines and the things needed in background.

The greater majority of students are searching for the means of solving a number of problems which are facing the church today, including race relationship, the industrial situation and the political human relationship or the question of war.

"The church today is a middle class proposition run by the middle age members of the church. The church does not know the problems of industry and war. The church is nationalistic. A Chinese student stood up at the conference and protested against the present day missionary. Imperialism has forced Christianity on the Chinese, the student stated. When the church gives people a spiritual technic then it is solving the problems for the new race," concluded the Rev. Fey in discussing a few of the ideas definitely arrived at and expressed at the conference.

This is the first conference of its kind that has ever been held and a continuation committee was appointed to put in a definite form the ideas and results of the meeting. The committee will also make plans for a similar international meeting to be held sometime in the near future.

CONTINUE SUNDAY LECTURES

Museum Staff Preparing Series of Afternoon Programs

Encouraged by the steady attendance of the public, the University Museum Staff is arranging to continue the Sunday afternoon lectures which have been held during the past two seasons. The talks will usually be associated with the various departments of the museum, but it is hoped that they may deal also, as opportunity offers, with current events in the field of natural history, the publication of important books, and other cognate subjects. They will all be free to the public, and will last for half an hour beginning at 3 o'clock each Sunday afternoon. If the limited accommodations of the lecture room make it necessary, the lectures will be repeated at 4 o'clock.

The program for January will be as follows: January 3—"Elephants, Ancient and Modern"; January 10—"Half an Hour with the New Edinger Electric Microscope"; January 17—"The Story of a Pebble" (illustrated by pictures of English scenery); January 24—"The Evolution of the Harp" (illustrated by slides and selections); January 31—"A Mineral and National Romance."

USE "U" HALL SECOND TERM

Classes Will Meet in Rooms on First Floor and Basement

WRECKING WORK DONE

University Hall, or more properly, the flat ground floor that was left by the wreckers who completed their work during vacation, will be ready for classes again February 1, when the second semester begins. Until that time classes will continue to meet in other buildings on the campus and in temporary quarters in churches, houses, and Bancroft school adjoining the campus.

Station A of the Post Office will remain permanently in the College Book Store, at least until a new building is erected to relieve the congestion in University Hall. The publication offices will be moved back into the northeast rooms of the basement.

The part of the building formerly occupied by Station A has been remodeled to make two more class rooms. Faculty offices have been built where the stairs formerly led to the upper stories and the basement. New stairs were built down into the basement, and their direction reversed to make room for the offices.

Painters Now At Work

Painters are now busy decorating the rooms. Debris still outside of the building will be removed in a short time. A proposed assignment of the rooms that will be available was issued yesterday by Operating Engineer O. A. Ellis. On the first floor will be located the School of Journalism, and a part of the Modern language classes. The office of Professor Fogg, director of the School of Journalism, will be in room 104A and 104B. The reading rooms will be in rooms 104, 105, and 105A. The Debate Seminar and a few of the Journalism classes will meet in 106A and 106B.

The Romance language office will be in 101. The remaining rooms will be class rooms. In the basement, rooms 1 and 2 will be occupied by the dental laboratory; room 3 by Modern language classes. Student publications in room 4; English in room 5; kiln room of the Fine Arts department will be in 7; rooms 8 and 9 will be reading rooms of the English department; and Professor F. A. Staff's office will be in room 10.

PLAN TO ORGANIZE JUNIOR COLLEGES

Nebraska Cities Suggest Maintenance in Connection With High Schools

An innovation, in the form of a city Junior college, is being introduced into the public school system by McCook, Fairbury and North Platte and is being considered by other cities in Nebraska. These cities plan to maintain Junior colleges with a small faculty in the high school building. The college is a municipal undertaking and will be supported entirely by the city. It is thought that cities of 5000 and above or any city where one hundred prospective college students can be found, will adopt the plan.

The city Junior college has been tried in California, Iowa and other states with success. Kansas has twelve Junior colleges. Only two years of college work is offered. The prime purpose in establishing these local colleges is to relieve the congestion of the universities, to keep the student under the home influence longer and to lessen the expense of obtaining a higher education.

Accepts Position at Seattle

Miss Marianna Cummings, '22, left assistant in the University library, left last week for Seattle, Washington, where she will accept a position in the fine arts division of the Seattle Public Library.

Lincoln Receives Little Snow during Recess Compared with Other Places

The weather man has been treating Lincoln rather well as far as snow is concerned since the holiday recess began. Students who came some distance from the northeast and west found but little snow in Lincoln and much less as compared to their home vicinities.

The weather bureau reports a heavy snow at Alliance Monday night of 8 1-2 inches. The snowfall at Broken Bow reached six inches. A week ago Monday, five inches fell at the same place. Lincoln had but a trace of snow at this time. North and east a heavier snow was recorded;

COSMOPOLITAN CLUB HONORED

Local Chapter Given High Place by District Convention of National

TO FOSTER GOOD WILL

The University of Nebraska chapter of Cosmopolitan club was made the national vice-presidential chapter of the Fifth District at the first district convention of Cosmopolitan clubs of America held at Lawrence, Kansas, from December 28 to January 1. The Cosmopolitan clubs are organized into six districts, with the national vice-presidential chapter in the Fifth District for the last two years. The next district meeting will be held in Lincoln.

The object of this association of clubs is to develop in the world the spirit of human justice, tolerance, cooperation, and brotherhood. It seeks to promote international good will and peace through the encouragement of better understanding among nations by favoring such measures as the World Court. The purpose of the recent convention was to foster this spirit of international good will and to take up in discussion the foreign students' problems.

De Sa Represents Nebraska

Fifteen nationalities and eight colleges and universities were represented at the convention. Vero DeSa, '27, London, was the University of Nebraska delegate. Eight Cosmopolitan clubs within the district did not send representatives. The number of American students at the convention about equalled the number of foreign students.

Ex-Chancellor Strong of Kansas gave the opening address of the convention. Discussions on international and inter-racial problems, both on and off the college campus, were led by Floyd Simonton, K. U. representative to The Student World Court Conference at Princeton.

Ben Cherrington, student secretary of the Y. M. C. A. in the Rocky Mountain region and University of Nebraska graduate, in his discussion of "Problems of Foreign Students in America" stated that "distance leads to ignorance; ignorance leads to misunderstanding; misunderstanding leads to hatred and war. Proximity does not mean confidence and understanding but it is the first requisite toward establishing confidence and understanding." Several other speakers were on the program.

All students interested in hearing a report of the district convention are invited to attend the meeting of the Cosmopolitan club held next Sunday. At this meeting the Nebraska chapter will also elect from its membership the national vice-president for the Fifth District.

More Students Visit Museum Than Usual

Members of the University Museum staff report that a steadily increasing number of visitors from the general student body of the University has been noticed during the past year. Calls from persons not connected with the University have increased steadily, but the most remarkable increase is in the number of students not registered for work in departments directly connected with the Museum, who are studying the exhibits.

SECOND TERM REGISTRATION HURRIED ALONG

Students Cooperating with Administration, Registrar Reports

SATURDAY NOON IS LIMIT

All But Agricultural Students Must Complete Preliminary Registration This Week

With registration for all colleges except the College of Agriculture, taking place this week, Miss Florence I. McGahey, registrar, yesterday reported that the students were cooperating splendidly with the administration's attempts to make the registration easier.

The number of students registering the first two days was said to be much heavier than usual. She expressed confidence that all would be registered without inconvenience by the end of the week.

New students will not register until January 29.

Because of the "Organized Agriculture" at the Agricultural College campus this week, registration for that college has been set for Monday and Tuesday, January 11 and 12. Students in all the other colleges must register sometime before noon Saturday, under penalty of a three dollar fine.

Programs at Registrar's Office

Second semester programs of the classes and schedules and bulletins of the colleges may be secured at the Registrar's office. First registration is made with the advisor and applications for courses and schedules are turned over to the Dean of the proper college after receiving the advisor's approval.

Two days have been set aside for each group of colleges for payment of second semester fees. Fees will be paid in the Armory. Students in the Colleges of Agriculture, Dentistry, Pharmacy, Engineering, Law, and the Graduate College and Teachers' College, must pay their fees on January 25 or 26, between 9 and 4 o'clock. Fees for the Colleges of Arts and Sciences and Business Administration and for the Schools of Fine Arts and Journalism are to be paid January 27 or 28 between 9 and 4 o'clock. Students failing to pay their fees before 4 o'clock of the last day assigned to their colleges will likewise be charged a late fee.

FORUM DISCUSSION AGAIN POSTPONED

Regular Luncheon of Discussion Group Will Not Be Held This Week as Is Usual

The regular weekly luncheon and discussion of the World Forum which was to have been held at the Grand hotel at noon today was postponed because of the inability of those in charge to complete arrangements in the short time after vacation.

From next week on, with the exception of examination week, the meetings will be held regularly.

Next week Prof. J. O. Hertzler, of the department of sociology of the University, will begin a series of discussion on "What is Progress?"

PUBLISH HENDRICKS ARTICLE

Based on Results of Questionnaire Sent to Many Schools

An article entitled "How We Teach Freshman College Chemistry," by Dr. B. Clifford Hendricks of the University of Nebraska appears in The Journal of Chemical Education for December. The paper deals with the administrative aspect of any attempt to standardize beginning chemistry courses, and is based on the results of a questionnaire sent to seventy colleges and universities seeking information in regard to credit for the first-year course, the laboratory and quiz requirements, time given to lectures, number of students registered, their distribution, etc. Thirty-seven replies were received, representing a total of 17,000 students in freshman chemistry courses, of whom 12,000 were beginning the study of chemistry. Forty-nine per cent of the institutions reported that they were well satisfied with what has been found to be the prevailing practice. The task of those who want standardization, then, the writer points out, is to convert the fifty per cent who have practice at variance with the more common to a nearer approach to uniformity.

Weather Forecast

Wednesday: Fair with rising temperature.
