Verne Luedke Wins Prize in the Charleston Contest Which Was Held Friday

The University ice carnival sponsored by the Women's Athletic Association, Friday night, January 22, had a good response from University people. The carnival started at 7:30, and lasted until after 10 o'clock. Saturday night the crowd increased when the basketball game ended.

Friday the first feature on the program was the grand skate, and it made an effective appearance on the ice, which was lighted with bright colored lights. There were about 150 people present each evening, mostly University students.

Luedke Wins Contest
In the Charleston contest Friday night, Verne Luedke won the prize, which was a white skating cap. The music for this was furnished by the new orthophonic victrola recently purchased by the association.

The ice was lighted with bright colored lights, which not only made a pleasing effect on the rink itself, but showed up well from a distance. As long as the ice is good, all University students are invited to join in the winter sport. The rink is open from three to six, and seven to ten. The admission price is ten cents.

ENGINEERS SEE FILM ON POWER

Depicts Progress that Man Has Made in Procuring the Energy From Steam

The progress man has made in the development of power from steam was depicted in the film entitled "Power", which was shown by the American Society of Civil Engineers in Nebraska Hall, Friday morning. The picture was obtained through the courtesy of Stone & Webster, Inc., of Boston.

Only a hundred and fifty years ago, power as we know it was unknown. Watt pointed the way with the first steam pumping engine, and there followed the first industrial revolution. Further developments in the mechanisms, led to the second industrial revolution, and finally to the marvels of electricity of the present day.

The generation of electricity was shown in the film, beginning with the experiments that were made by Faraday. How water power is used was explained, together with the power made possible with a small stream falling a long distance, as Big Creek, which falls 2062 feet, or a large body of water falling only 40 feet as is the case of the Mississippi river at Keokuk, Iowa.

The methods used in making the electric light bulbs were pictured, and the improvements made in them so that one bulb now gives eighty times as much light as it did in 1895.

The film concluded with the depiction of the various improvements in the machinery used in the development of power and of the construction of the Weymouth plant for the Edison company.

The department of engineering is sending a voluminous report to the Society for the Promotion of Engineering Education, on the placement tests given to all engineering freshmen. The tests cover the matter of both training and aptitude in each of the three subjects, English, mathematics, and physics. These results are to be compounded with those from the departments of engineering in other colleges. A study will be made of them to determine whether or not tests of this type should be used as a basis for assigning freshmen to college work in their college classes.

Louis Untermeyer Gives Criticism Of American and English Poetry

That American poetry, born by geographical accident in England, is for the first time in its history distinctly American, was the burden of poet-critic Louis Untermeyer's comparison of American and English poetry in the presence of 1,500 in the University of Illinois auditorium at Urbana recently.

After having previously given the two fields a "worms-eye view" the New York anthropologist announced his findings to be that the poetical expression of the United States and the British Isles was so outstandingly different that even the tie of a common language is fast slipping.

The basic difference between poetry on the North American continent and the British Isles in his opinion lies in the attitude toward tradition. The Englishman has a set and formulated poetry which from the old conservatives or the young radical while the American is anxious to create the new not being con-

WOMEN MAKE HIGHEST SCORE

Thirteen Men's Teams Defeated in Rifle Tournament Held Last Week

FINAL RATING OF 925

Who said women can't shoot? A woman's rifle team defeated thirteen men's teams in the annual interfraternity and newly started non-fraternity tournaments which were held last week in the University gallery.

The five women made a team score of 925 as compared with 915 made by the best non-fraternity team, and 910 by the winner of the fraternity tourney. And the shooting was not in the easy positions of tournament shooting. The women fired in all four standard positions of tournament shooting. Their standing scores, the most difficult of any, were as good as the men's.

Mu Sigma fraternity repeated last year's performance by winning the fraternity tournament. Pi Kappa Alpha was second with a team score of 884. Eleven fraternities fired. Four were disqualified when their last man to fire reported to the gallery after the deadline hour.

Shafer Is High Scorer

The two teams entered in the non-fraternity tournament made an enviable record. The winner scored five points more than the champion of the fraternity tournament, and the second team made nine more than the second fraternity team. Shafer on the winning team made the high score of the tournament, 193.

The five women on the lone women's team of the tournament were: Ethelyn Colwell, who scored 182; Helen Schrader, who fired 184; Helen Moorhead, 183; Katherine Jensen, 190; and Estey Cox, 186.

Members of the Mu Sigma team were Madsen, 183; Dwyer, 187; Wank, 178; Perso, 178; and Miner 179.

The five marksmen on the non-fraternity team were: L. Griffin, 182; B. Kossek, 183; Lewis, 181; Morley, 176; and H. Shafer, 193.

Colonel Jewett, commandant of cadets, will give two skins to the first and second place winners of the fraternity tournament.

The fraternity teams finished as follows; scores indicating team average: Mu Sigma, 182; Pi Kappa Alpha, 176 4-5; Phi Gamma Delta, 175 1-5; Alpha Sigma Phi, 173 1-5; Phi Kappa, 170; Alpha Gamma Rho, 167 2-5; Alpha Theta Chi, 165 1-5; Phi Delta Theta, 158 3-5; Lambda Chi Alpha, Sigma Chi, Delta Chi, and Tau Kappa Epsilon, incomplete.

HUSKER TEAM WINS SECOND VALLEY GAME

Iowa State Quintet Is Defeated By Nebraska Before 2,000 Spectators

FINAL SCORE IS 13 TO 18

Defensive Play by Cornhusker Cagesters Is Responsible for the Victory

The Nebraska Cornhusker basketball quintet continued on its march for Valley honors by outscoring Iowa State 18 to 13, in a hard fought and exciting game Saturday night. Two thousand fans packed the Armory and saw the Huskers come through with their second conference win in as many starts.

Jumping into the lead when Elliott made a gift toss early in the game, the Nebraska five was never headed. Half time found Nebraska with a 11 to 6 advantage and although Ames men scored on even terms with the Huskers during the second period they could not overcome the five point handicap.

Excellent Defense

Although the Husker offense was working in a fairly smooth fashion, it was the defensive playing of the entire team that was responsible for the victory. The Ames forwards were smothered every time they attempted to shoot and were somewhat lucky in gathering two of the five baskets allotted them.

Vint Lawson was again the big noise of the Nebraska defense. Pitted against Earl Elliott, Ames ace and second high point man in the conference, he clearly demonstrated that they didn't make them to fast for him. When the game was over Elliott had the grand total of one point to add to the thirty some odd points he has made this season. So close did Lawson cover his man that he was indeed lucky to get a shot at the basket.

Smaha Is High Point Man

Smaha continued to lead the Huskers in making points. He gathered three baskets and a free throw for a total of seven points, which made him high man for the game. Tom Elliott, who started the game at center, followed Smaha with five points and Brown added four points by dropping in two pretty shots from the side of the court.

Kling, with three baskets, was high point man of the Iowa team. He got away fairly well at the start of the game, but Brown put a stop to his scoring before the second half was far underway.

Fennema, who started the game for Iowa State at center, was injured so badly in the first minute of play that it was necessary to carry him from the floor. His back was sprained when he and Lawson went into the crowd after the ball.

Elliott Starts Scoring

Tom Elliott, Nebraska center, opened the scoring of the evening with a free throw. Smaha sank two baskets in rapid succession and the Huskers led 2-0.
