

Cornhuskers Defeat Iowa State 13 to 18

kers had a five point lead before Kling scored a basket for Ames. T. Elliott followed with another gift toss and E. Elliott did likewise for Ames. Brown made the score read 8 to 3 with a pretty shot from the side.

The prettiest shot of the evening came when T. Elliott followed up a long shot and batted the ball through the hoop. Iowa State brought the scoring of the half to a close with a free throw by Arnold and a basket by Kling.

Kling opened the final period with his third basket of the game. T. Elliott sank his third consecutive free throw on Miller's foul. It was Miller's fourth offense and he was taken from the game. Smaah made a pretty shot for his third basket of the evening. Staves raised the Iowa State total to nine with a free throw, but Brown and Eckstrom took the heart out of the Ames five by both caging side shots. Iowa State's final effort came with two baskets in rapid succession by Arnold and Grimes. During the last five minutes of the game neither team scored.

IN THE VALLEY

It looks as if the Oklahoma basketball team is out to win the 1926 Missouri Valley championship. The Sooners have stretched their wins in the conference to five and to date have suffered no losses.

The Sooners got away to a big start on their northern trip Thursday night when they defeated the Kansas Jayhawks at Lawrence 29 to 21. Half time found Kansas in the lead, but Oklahoma team was not to be denied and in the second half they came back with enough points to win.

The Grinnell Pioneers put up a hard fight Friday night against the Sooners, but it was to no avail, Oklahoma winning 36 to 27. Saturday night marked the last game of the trip for the southern team when they met Drake and a win would put them far in the lead of the other conference teams.

When Kansas lost to Oklahoma on Thursday night it marked the beginning of the end of the Jayhawk reign which has lasted for three years. This defeat made the first time in three years that Kansas has lost more than one game during a Valley schedule. The team representing the Kansas institution had previously lost their opening game to Washington.

Dame Rumor has it that Schmidt, star forward on the Kansas basketball team, is ineligible for athletic participation under Valley rules. It is stated that Schmidt quit school.

All I can say today is, that I wish you good luck this week, and I know you'll have it.
