

NEBRASKA AND KANSAS PLAY OPENING GAME

Ancient Rivals Meet Saturday On New Auditorium Basketball Court

TEAMS WELL MATCHED

Comparison Shows Huskers Excel in Defense While Jayhawkers Have Strongest Offense

The University of Kansas Jayhawkers and the University of Nebraska Cornhuskers will meet Saturday night in the first basketball game to be played in the new field house. This court classic will mark the first meeting of these two powerful teams this year.

A floor has been laid in the field house which is as nearly a regulation size as possible. The seating capacity will be five thousand and no seats will be reserved, although a section will be set aside for university students and professors.

Entrance to the Field House will be made from the south. Spectators may reach the entrance by going on Fourteenth street to Vine, where temporary walks have been constructed that will lead to the door.

The game which starts at 7:30 o'clock will be perhaps the best to be seen on the Nebraska court this year. Kansas comes to Lincoln with a veteran team composed of seven lettermen from last year's championship quintet. The Jayhawkers record this year is seven games won and two lost. The two losses being inflicted by Washington and Oklahoma.

Nebraska, although slow to start, has been going at a fast clip the past two weeks and as a result is tied for first place in the conference with Oklahoma.

Each team has played the Iowa members of the Conference at practically the same time, the Jayhawkers playing them first, Nebraska second, and each won all the games. Relative ability may be found by comparing the scores of the two teams as against the same teams. This comparison shows that the Kansas team has displayed the greater offensive ability, while the defensive play goes to the University of Nebraska.

The figures show that the Jayhawk team was able to score 107 points or an average of almost 36 points a game; while the Nebraskans were able to score but 89 points or an average of 29 points. In other words on the offense, Kansas is almost seven points stronger than Nebraska.

On the defense, opposing teams were able to score a total of 64 points or an average of 21 points a game, while against Nebraska, 51 points were scored, or only 17 a game, showing that on the defense, Nebraska is about four points stronger.

The results: Kansas—Opponents—Nebr., 36—19 Grinnell 18—39 28—24 Drake 21—23 43—21 Ames 12—27

During the years of athletic rivalry between the two schools, 46 games have been played, 27 have been won by Kansas, and Nebraska has won the other 19. Kansas has scored 1313 points, to the Cornhuskers 1087. During the past four seasons, Nebraska has failed to register a win, their last victory having been in 1919. The teams did not play in 1920 or 1921.

Coach Ernest Bearg has developed a fast team from the squad of new men and the Huskers should turn in a victory over Kansas Saturday night. It will be a battle between the Nebraska defense which is the best in the Missouri Valley and the Kansas offense, which is rated as one of the best. Schmidt, Kansas forward, is now leading the conference in scoring.

The University cadet band will give a half-hour's concert before the game. Other features will mark the opening and dedication of the new auditorium and field house which is to be the largest and best equipped in the Missouri Valley.

Jayhawk and Kaggie Wrestlers to Meet

LAWRENCE, Kan., Feb. 4.—Kansas Agricultural College wrestlers will come to the University of Kansas Friday, Feb. 5, for a match. Entries will be made in all weights. Coach Lockbaugh has not announced the Kansas team.

The first college football game in the United States was played by Yale and Harvard fifty years ago.

According to a senior woman of Iowa State, who worked in a department store during the holidays, men do most of the shopping at the perfume counters there.

ENGINEERS TO HEAR SPEECH

J. M. Egan, Prominent Engineer, To Talk on Use of Brick as a Paving Material

The American Society of Civil Engineers will be honored by the presence of Mr. J. M. Egan, chief engineer of the Midwest Manufacturing Association of Chicago, Ill., who will speak at 10 o'clock this morning in Mechanical Arts 208.

The use of brick as a paving material will form the gist of Mr. Egan's speech.

The use of brick for paving and building purposes dates back for many centuries. Its use as a paving material has been greatly increased in this age of motor cars.

BUCK LEAVES FOR WISCONSIN

Professor of Comparative Literature Goes Tonight; Will Teach at Madison

RETURNS THIS SUMMER

Philo M. Buck, Professor of Comparative Literature, leaves this evening for the University of Wisconsin, Madison, Wisconsin, where he will offer four courses in literature similar to those which he offered here at Nebraska. His work will begin Monday, February 8, when the second semester at that school opens. He plans to return to Nebraska for the first session of summer school.

Professor Buck will offer two courses at Wisconsin, a course in the early epic and Dante, and one in tragedy. He will also give a course in criticism and a course in Milton, similar to the courses given at Nebraska.

Departure Delayed

Plans to leave by the first of February were abandoned by Professor Buck because of the increased work of final examinations and the making out of grades.

The last semester Professor Buck has given five courses in all. They were: World Literature, Spencer and Martin, a course in the Bible, American Ideas of Literature and The Little Seminar.

As to his further plans Professor Buck could not state beyond the first summer session stating that he was much attached to Nebraska and Nebraska students.

This is to be a six-hour program beginning at 8:05 in the evening and continuing until 2 o'clock the next morning, which is much longer than previous programs broadcast on the anniversary of Charter Day. The program consisting of music and short talks, has been arranged by Robert F. Craig, '24, announcer in charge of the University broadcasting station. It is estimated that about one hundred and fifty will take part in this program. A feature will be the ringing of the old "U-Hall" bell at the beginning of each hour.

There are about 19,000 printed programs being sent out to alumni of the University through the courtesy of Professor A. A. Reed, Director of the University Extension Division. It is expected that alumni in all parts of the United States will listen to this radio program.

Guy Chamberlain, Former Nebraska Grid Star, Says Grange Over-rated

Guy Chamberlain

A Dozen Men Better than Famous Red-Head, Declares Ex-Cornhusker, Now One of Country's Greatest Professional Players

"Red" Grange is an over-rated football player, in my estimation," declared Guy Chamberlain, '16, famous Nebraska all-American end, and recognized as one of the greatest open-field runners in football history.

"I have played against Grange, and watched his work during his career at the University of Illinois. There are a dozen men I consider better football players and this year Wilson of Washington is his equal," Chamberlain told a Daily Nebraskan reporter.

"Do I think that Grange has earned the small fortune he is credited with? Well Jack Dempsey gets $600,000 for a single fight, and that is the same question. If Grange earned all that he has made, lots of others in the professional football field are sadly underpaid, and I have been playing for practically nothing."

Chamberlain received a A. B. degree in 1916, playing on the Husker team in '14 and '15. He is six feet tall, weighs nearly 200 pounds, and was a ten second man at that time; unusual qualities even in an athlete. Although he has played for more than nine years he had never been on a team that lost a game until last fall. During their 1925 season, the Philadelphia Sky Rockets, the team which he coached and played on, lost four and won twenty games in an overburdened schedule.

"Judging from the completely filled stadiums at college games, it is folly to think that professional football will ever hurt them. The two games are completely different. The big secret is to make the men forget about the money they are making out of the game. A successful coach can do this."

"When four of my 200 pound huskies came into their locker rooms and sat for thirty minutes with their heads in their hands crying, you can see that money is not the only idea of the game. This was the case in one of my defeats last season."

"Most players usually stay with the game only a year or two," declared the professional coach, who has studied this new type of football player. "Many of them are striving to pay a debt contracted in gaining their education at college. After that they leave and enter the business world."

KANSAS PREPARES FOR K. C. A. C. MEET

Jayhawk Strong in Sprints, Having Two of World's Record Relay Team

LAWRENCE, Kan., Feb. 4.—University of Kansas track athletes are preparing to enter the Kansas City Athletic Club meet Friday night as a test of the Jayhawk strength before the Kansas-Missouri dual indoor meet two weeks later.

Kansas is expected to show greatest strength in the sprints, with Rooney, Wongwai and Grady in the running. Rooney and Wongwai were members of the Kansas quarter-mile relay team that set a world record at the Kansas Relays last April.

Kansas is going to miss greatly Tom Poor, Olympic hurdler, who in past years was always good for the points in the high jump. He was graduated last June.

Freshman Bible Study Group Takes Place of Old Freshman Commission

Fifty freshman and sophomore Y. W. C. A. members sat down at the long green and white tables in the faculty room of the Temple last night at six o'clock. It was the old freshman commission and the new freshman study group meeting together for dinner and to meet each other and exchange ideas.

A freshman training group is formed each year of freshman women interested in the Y. W. C. A. work. Until this year the members of the group have been elected, but this method seems unsatisfactory in that it included too few and too many; too few because the most valuable were often overlooked and too many in that it included some who sought it only as an honor. It has become apparent the greatest weakness in the training of university Y. W. C. A. women has been a lack of comprehensive Bible study, so at the beginning of this school year a freshman Bible study group was formed. The thirty-four who remained in the group now form the new freshman study group and the group is closed.

DR. JAMES LEES, OF UNIVERSITY FACULTY, DIES

Former Provost Had Breakdown Four Years Ago; Death Unexpected

TAUGHT HERE SINCE 1891

Was Onetime Head of Greek Department and Member of Athletic Board

Dr. James T. Lees, a member of the faculty of the University of Nebraska, died at Coronada, Cal., Wednesday, after four years of suffering with a serious breakdown while he was still connected with this University. A wire received in Lincoln indicated that his death was entirely unexpected.

Dr. Lees was born in Middleton, Lancashire, England, on August 17, 1859. He came to America when he was eleven years of age and was educated at Adelbert College at Cleveland, O. After receiving his master's degree at John Hopkins in 1889, he came west and in 1891 was made head of the department of Greek at the University of Nebraska, a position he held until he was made provost in 1919.

Thirty Years a Teacher

The May number of the Alumni Journal, 1919, said of the appointment:

"Dr. James T. Lees, who has just rounded out thirty years of teaching, was appointed provost of the University in the reorganization that the Board of Regents have inaugurated. Dr. Lees' duties will be that of teaching auditor. He will be a member of all faculties and of all courses of study."

"Dr. Lees came to the University in 1889 from John Hopkins university where he had just received his Ph. D. He is a graduate of Western Reserve and also spent the summer of 1888 in the University of Berlin finishing up his thesis. The first two years at Nebraska he was principal of the Latin school and associate professor of classical philology."

Before he had progressed far with his newly created position, Dr. Lees was possessed with a peculiar malady which forced a partial retirement for four years. He taught during the first semester a year ago but he could not continue.

The 1920 Cornhusker, which was dedicated to Dr. Lees, says of him: "To Doctor J. T. Lees, who for thirty years has devoted himself to the making of a Greater University and who, during that time, has been a true and respected friend of every student, this book is respectfully dedicated."

Was Prominent Figure

Dr. Lees was very prominent in activities outside his teaching. He was, for many years, a member of the athletic board of the university. He had spent his summers for many years conducting parties of tourists to Europe and he became very well known in that field. He also lectured widely on the passion play and other art subjects through which field he became famous.

Besides being a department head at the university, he was also at one time dean. He was also a member of many regular and special committees and had a great part in shaping the policies of the institution.

Dr. Lees made a great many friends during the thirty years that he was connected with the university. Many of these have preceded him to the grave but those that are left will certainly mourn his death.

FIELD HOUSE TO BE OPENED FOR SATURDAY GAME

New Structure Will Be Used For First Time; Huskers Meet K. U.

GOVERNOR WILL ATTEND

Building Not Completed But Accommodations Provided for More Than Three Thousand

Governor Adam McMullen will give the signal which will start the first basketball game to be played in the new field house by throwing the ball to the Nebraska and Kansas cagers Saturday evening at 7:30 o'clock. Because of sickness the past few weeks the governor was not sure he would be able to attend, but yesterday he definitely accepted. Dr. G. E. Condra will introduce him.

The field house is not completed, but can accommodate a large crowd. The contractor has not finished work on the balcony so there will be no reserved seats as marked on the student and faculty athletic tickets. A block of 3,000 seats will be reserved for student and faculty members presenting these tickets.

To reach the building one must go north on Fourteenth street to Vine. From there temporary walks have been constructed. When completed, there will be a driveway leading to the columned entrance, which is patterned after that of Social science building.

A temporary floor, formerly used at the Coliseum, has been laid. This is necessary to enable the concrete floor to dry thoroughly before the permanent wooden one is laid. This will not be until summer.
