

HUSKERS LOSE MAT MEET TO HAWKEYE TEAM

Iowa Grapplers Take Close Match Friday Night; Score 12 to 8

FARMER BURNS ATTENDS

Old-Time Wrestler Talks Before Matches; Demonstrates Holds From Ring

The Nebraska mat team lost to the University of Iowa wrestlers in the Armory Friday night, by a score of twelve to eight. The meet was closely contested, the Hawkeyes getting one fall, three decisions and a draw, while Nebraska netted one fall, one decision and a draw.

The best match of the evening was the battle between Kellogg, Nebraska, and Michael, Hawkeye captain, which ended in a draw. The bout was so even throughout, that although it went overtime for two extra periods, neither man was able to gain sufficient time advantage to win a decision.

The opening match proved advantageous to the Iowa team. Weir of Iowa, 115 pounds, won a decision over Karrer with a time advantage of ten minutes and thirty-eight seconds. The Hawkeye showed superiority from the first minute.

In the 125 pound class, Weber of the Huskers, evened up the score by gaining a decision over Logan, of Iowa. The Nebraska had an advantage of ten minutes and fifteen seconds. Logan was kept on the defense most of the time by Weber's inside wrist lock.

At the opening of the 135 pound bout, Kellogg took Michael to the mat. He gained a four minute advantage during the first six minutes. The Hawkeye captain then broke Kellogg's hold and went behind for the first time. He had plenty of time, however, and held the superior position during the remainder of the bout. This evened the match up considerably as Michael had only 53 seconds net advantage. Both men were tiring when the whistle blew.

In the first three minute overtime period, Michael called the toss of the coin, so had the advantage. He stayed there less than half a minute, and the men were on their feet. In the second period, Kellogg went behind. He did not stay there long, but sufficiently to cut the Hawkeye's advantage to six seconds. The bout was called a draw, one point going to each team, which still kept the score tied.

Skinner of Nebraska easily vanquished Montgomery in the 145 pound match. The bout lasted but two minutes and fifty-eight seconds. They went to the mat immediately and Skinner threw his man with an arm scissors and bar arm lock.

The next bout also went to a fall, but not in such a short time. Grattan of Iowa placed his man on the mat in about eight minutes. Brannigan, the Husker grappler, was kept on the defensive most of the time, as Grattan went behind early in the match. These men weighed around 158 pounds. The match was then tied with eight points for each team.

Captain Highley, of Nebraska, lost a decision to Voltmer, one of the Iowa veterans. Voltmer came very close to gaining a fall over Highley near the end of the fray, but the Husker eluded the danger. The performance was rather rough in this class, 175 pounds.

In the final bout, Yegge, of Iowa, gave his team two more points, by winning a decision over Joe Tuning. In the early stages of the bout Tuning took his man to the mat and remained there for a short time, gaining a small advantage. However, Yegge broke away shortly after half of the bout was over, and remained there long enough to gain a time advantage of over three minutes.

Farmer Burns, old-time wrestler, was present to see the bouts. Preceding the meet, he gave a talk, and following it, demonstrated some holds and methods of breaking them, on Johnny Kellogg.

O. B. Anderson refereed all of the matches. The time-keepers were Gish and Thomas. The summary:

115-pound class—Won by Weir, Iowa, over Karrer, Nebraska. Time advantage, 10 minutes, 38 seconds.

125-pound class. Won by Weber, Nebraska, over Logan, Iowa. Time advantage, 10 minutes, 15 seconds.

135-pound class—Draw between Captain Michael, Iowa, and Kellogg, Nebraska. (Michael had only six seconds in the two extra periods.)

145-pound class—Won by Skinner, Nebraska, over Montgomery, Iowa. Fall 2 minutes, 58 seconds. (Arm scissors and bar arm lock.)

158-pound class—Won by Grattan, Iowa, over Brannigan, Nebraska. Fall, 7 minutes, 57 seconds. (Boyd scissors and bar arm lock.)

175-pound class—Won by Voltmer, Iowa, over Captain Highley, Nebraska. Time advantage, 3 minutes, 11 seconds.

Heavyweight class—Won by Yegge, Iowa, over Tuning, Nebraska. Time advantage, 3 minutes, 2 seconds.

Library Receives Book In Memory of Goodhue

A copiously illustrated book in memory of Bertram G. Goodhue, architect of the Nebraska State capitol, has been received lately by the University of Nebraska library. The book is published by the Press of The American Institute of Architecture. Among the articles in the book is one by Prof. H. S. Alexander, on the philosophy of the new capitol and its influence on Goodhue. Included in the large number of illustrations of Goodhue's works are eighteen plates showing outside and inside views, and nine pictures of sculpturing and frieze work on the Nebraska capitol.

IN THE VALLEY

...by...
"Zim" and "Zim"

The K. C. A. C. meet is over. Not the great Athletic club meet of past years, but great, and a good comparative basis for determining just who is among the Valley athletes in track this spring. Among other things, a new world record was established which is recommendation enough for any meet.

Kuck, former star of Wilson high school of Kansas, two years ago went to the national interscholastic track and field meet at Chicago to take two first places in the shot and discus, setting a new scholastic world record in the one. Friday evening Mr. John Kuck heaved the 16-pound shot for a new world indoor record of 47 feet 1 inch.

Significant to Husker followers is the fact that the strong man from Emporia Teachers College, was coached at Wilson high by Jefferson Petty, catcher on the baseball team at Nebraska in 1923. This young chap stopped over for the Missouri Valley track meet in Lincoln in the spring of 1924 and on that day put on an exhibition and put the shot, and threw the discus well beyond the Valley records in those events at that time.

This preliminary throw by the farmer boy of the Jayhawk state points toward the fall of the world record of 51 feet which has been held for a long time by Ralph Rose of Michigan. Though he had good chances of making the Olympic team the year that he broke high school records, the good natured farm boy pointed out to those who requested that he go to the trials, that he did not have time to bother with it as his dad needed him to help harvest the wheat. And that is characteristic of the boy.

Of chief interest to the Husker followers is the victory obtained by Jimmy Lewis in the feature race of the meet, the Shannon Douglas cup race. Missouri entered two men, and there were two Husker entries, besides several runners from other teams. The fact that the Nebraska entries were both in there for the sole purpose of winning by their own individual prowess is apparent when we read that Johnson, the other Husker runner, was second.

The race is significant to the Tigers because Shannon Douglas, the originator of the event is a former Show Me runner. He awards each year to the Tiger who should win the race, a gold watch. Granitello, a sprinter, was placed in the race to help his team mate win, setting a terrific pace which any runner of ability would recognize as too fast for the distance. The idea was to burn up the other entries with the terrific pace and then allow his team mate, who was "wised up" to the system, to come up from behind and take the race.

This plan has been in use for years, and is one of the oldest in the running game. In fact it is so old that it has all but been abandoned both on the grounds of ethics and because of the lack of effectiveness, as is demonstrated from the Friday evening events.

Of course, most anything goes on the board track. The fact that the track is narrow, the sharp turns, and the straight-a-way short, makes it almost impossible to judge intentional from unintentional fouling of one runner by another. Take the case of the Oklahoma-Notre Dame mile relay. Notre Dame was leading when the touch-off was made by the anchor man. The Oklahoma man with a spurt came up even with the Irish runner. The incident happened just as the runners reached the curve, and just what happened is hard to say. At any rate, the Notre Dame man took a bad spill, and when he was able to get up again and get into the race, the Sooner sprinter had an advantage which could not be overcome.

nal period with a side shot from a difficult angle. Eckstrom tipped in a basket from the side. Zuber made the Kansas total read sixteen by putting one through from under the goal. Brown made the Huskers' third basket by dribbling past two Kansas men and Lawson added another point by registering on a free throw. Elliott made the score read 16 to 13 for Kansas with a pretty shot from the center of the court.

At this point Nebraska weakened and Gordon made a side shot. Eckstrom was ejected from the game on four personal fouls. Gordon made the prettiest shot of the game when he threw the ball over his head, with one hand, for a basket. Schmidt scored his only point with a free throw. Peterson tipped in a basket from under the back board and Gordon followed with his fourth counter, a long shot from the side of the court. Elliott registered the last point of the game with a free throw.
