DEAN ENGBERG'S SPEECH

We wish to take this opportunity to thank Dean Engberg for his participation in the Dramatic Club skit, at the annual University Night program, Saturday night. At the request of members of the club he agreed to apparently interrupt the progress of the act, and by his short address further add to the success of the fun-fest. This diversion has resulted in a slight misunderstanding on the part of some of the more credulous people, who thought that the stunt was merely a display of authority. The spirit which prompted Dean Engberg to risk adverse criticism and not only to back the satire on University life, but to take part in it personally, should be understood and deeply appreciated by the student body.

LET'S PLAY BASEBALL

To the Editor:

The suggestion contained in yesterday's columns in The Daily Nebraskan that baseball should not be discontinued at Nebraska is a good one. "Zim" and "Jim" have pointed out that the principle arguments advanced against having a baseball team are that the sport is not profitable and that training facilities are inadequate.

Probably the training facilities are not the most desirable but, as was mentioned, "In the Valley," they are better this year than they have been for the past few years because the new Field House can now be used for early training.

The main argument against baseball, then, seems to be that it is unprofitable. This must be admitted. But it seems that any sport should be justified upon other grounds than the financial side. If profit alone is to be considered perhaps the University had better sponsor the art of bull fighting or attempt to produce some Jack Dempsey's to bring in the coin.

If the benefit to the individuals who take part in athletics is considered surely baseball has as much justification as any college sport. At least there is not so much danger of this kind of physical training resulting in broken bones and other serious injuries as there is from football. Also a larger number of individuals participate in baseball than in any other sports except football and track.

If the desire of the student body which attends athletic events is considered, baseball should be re-established. Track is a worth while sport because of the training it offers for such a large number of individuals but track meets are never very well attended. Neither have the wrestling crowds been as large as the attendance at the baseball games.

But evidently the benefits to the athletes and the desires of the student body are not to be considered and so this spring instead of hearing the sharp crack of the bat meeting the ball or watching a man slide into home plate the Cornhuskers will be securing their spring training in football—getting ready six months ahead of time for an already much over-stressed sport. H. K.

The Other Side of the Rent-a-Car Question

Has it ever occurred to the student body that perhaps their attack upon the Rent-a-Ford dealers was unjustified? Have the leaders of the movement to abolish renting cars interviewed these dealers and ascertained the facts that caused the local dealers to raise their rates? The answer is NO.

We have heretofore taken but one stand on the question and without seriously considering the facts have heartily opposed the dealers' attempt to secure a fair return on their investment. In the writer's opinion, we, as good American citizens, should not make our decision until we have heard every side of the argument. This is the fundamental principle of our system of justice and any citizen would feel that one of his inherent rights had been imposed upon if this privilege were denied.

During the past few days I have interviewed several local dealers and find that they are unanimous in their opinion that they are not receiving enough profit on their investment. The most prominent dealer in Lincoln stated that last year his profits were less than any previous year not withstanding the fact that the investment was far larger than ever and a far greater volume of business was handled. The dealer's investment is enormous and the return over the amount which would be received as interest if this were placed in a bank was not sufficient to pay them the salary they deserve.

The Rent-a-Car dealers in Lincoln should receive very good return, for their business is very unstable. Because the majority of the business comes from out-of-town students, three months of the year they receive but very little business. Regardless of this fact they must remain open twenty-four hours a day and 365 days a year. Does not the fair-minded student believe that a person engaged in such a trying business should receive a far higher income than the man who works but eight hours a day and has one day of the week which he may call his own?

The dealers here do not wish to impose on the student body. They realized that their action would arouse much antagonism and dreaded it as much as did the students. It was either their task to raise the rates or close their doors and the latter move would have inconvenienced the students a great deal.

Personally I believe the renting of cars is one of the greatest social evils of the university. But, since it is a custom which will continue, I think we have no right to call the local dealers robbers for it is their honest intention to serve the students as cheaply as possible. If I were to argue of the evil of renting cars it would be another long story, but I only wish to encourage the student body to consider the question fairly and I believe they will all be heartily in accord with the justified increase in prices. Evanston Conference Results in Projects first question that is to be raised by these groups is "How wet is the University of Michigan?" Student commissions are making a survey of Ann Arbor in an effort to gather data on which to base a discussion for that night.

A project of another sort is that at Ohio University at Athens, Ohio, where in a coal mining community, students, with the backing of the churches have already set about the job of cooperating with the mining groups in night and week-end classes. All the way from Massachusetts to Oregon reports have come of the wide spread and increasing interest in the proposals for projects of various sorts which were outlined at Evanston.

The Continuation Committee is helping to start five student commissions to head up project work in these various fields. Each of these commissions, although composed of students, will have the help of an expert adviser. The first commission is to undertake the investigation of the educational processes of the churches particularly with reference to the way in which the Church is already, in terms of definite cases, helping to build a new social order. The material for this survey will be gathered by students. The second commission is studying ways and means for Church student cooperation and relating itself to all the union projects already undertaken by the students themselves. There will be further commissions on students, and international relationship; church leadership in student communities, etc.

The Continuation Committee is seeking to correlate and conserve these various projects. Communications which relate directly or indirectly to this work can be sent to the Inter-denominational Student Conference, 150 Fifth Avenue, New York, N. Y.

Ten Years Ago

The history of the Y. W. C. A. was told to the member at Vespers. Mrs. A. G. Warner said that twelve girls met at her home one Saturday afternoon and organized the University Y. W. C. A. It met only on Sundays and about twenty of the thirty members were present. The first thing the Y. W. C. A. accomplished was to furnish a place to meet in "U" Hall.

The University Ak-Sar-Ben was the appropriate appellation applied to the carnival to be held in the temple building. The committee planned for a large number of University organizations to exhibit a portion of their best talent on that evening. The A. T. O.'s won from the Betas in the second round of the tournament by a score of 18 to 15.

Twenty Years Ago

A finance committee under the leadership of Mr. I. L. Thompson, started a special campaign for funds. The second annual interclass gymnasium contest was to be held in the Armory. The purpose of the meeting was to raise money to help defray expenses of sending the gym team to Chicago for the Western Intercollegiate Gymnastics Meet to be held in April. Dr. Clapp arranged a very interesting and novel program for the event.

For the benefit of the "needy and overworked" the Department of Rhetoric established a make up examination to be held just before the middle of each semester. This was to enable the students who were either conditioned or absent from the semester examinations to make up the deficiency.

Miss Allyene Archibald, assisted by Mr. Henry Eames, gave a series of selections in D Minor Concerto at convocation. The audience was unusually large.
