

GRID SQUAD IS READY FOR GAME

Coach Bearg Has Scrimmage Before Real Practice Work Tomorrow
TWO TEAMS ARE PICKED

The spring grid squad ended practice in preparation for the game today. Coach Bearg ran his men through a scrimmage which lasted nearly an hour. The usual punting and passing practice was held. Coach Oakes, who is aiding Bearg this week continued his work with the linemen.

A larger number of last fall's Varsity men were present yesterday than usually are. Roy Mandery, Leon Sprague and "Jug" Brown all turned out, besides the men who have been out nearly every night. Most of the men were used, but were not divided according to their respective sections. After the scrimmage, the coaches took their own men and had a lively signal drill.

The first practice game for the spring season will be played tomorrow at 4 o'clock. The squad has been divided into two sections, one under the instruction of Owen Frank, the other under Leo Sherer and Charles Black. The Frank-Newman crew has been called the Reds, while their opponents are the Whites. It is probable that most of the men will be used in the game, as the coaches wish to get an idea as to how the men will perform. There is rivalry between the two groups, and the teams seem to be evenly matched.

New Courses Are Offered Next Year

Students in the Teachers College should like all of these courses as afford a knowledge which would enable them to make future teaching more practical.

The course on Engineering Applications in the Home is offered particularly for the girl students, most of whom will some day find such knowledge of practical value.

All courses are offered in the form of two lectures a week for one hour credit. Not more than one hour of home work will be required. The lectures will be illustrated and demonstrations will be given. Motion pictures will be largely used in the course in Industrial Processes.

The course on Power Production will form part of the course on Power Engineering required of all engineering students. The course on Industrial Processes will not be required in any engineering group, but it is expected that this course will be taken by many engineering students because it will give them a better understanding of industrial life in which most of them will ultimately be engaged.

Detailed descriptions of these courses will be made public later.

Former Nebraska Line Coach Goes to Denver

BILL DAY

Bill Day, former Husker football player and line coach here for five years, has accepted a position as head line coach at the University of Denver, where he will aid Coach Fred T. Dawson, another Nebraska mentor.

NEW HELPER FOR DAWSON SECURED

Former Coach Bill Day Has Part-Time Position; Keeps His Business Here

Bill Day, who has been a line coach at the University of Nebraska during the past five years, has accepted a position as head line coach at the University of Denver, where he will aid Coach Fred T. Dawson, former Husker mentor, according to an announcement made public by Lyman Bingham, athletic director.

Day has accepted the position only for the football season, however, as his business here will not allow him to act as a full-time coach. He has been engaged in the insurance business here for several years and will be unable to move to Denver.

ness here for several years and will be unable to move to Denver.

Played Pivot Position.
Bill Day's first football history dates back to 1914, when he was an all-state fullback on the Beatrice team in this state. He then went to Grinnell College where he played freshman football. In 1917 he came to the University of Nebraska and played Varsity football that year. B. J. Stewart was then the Husker coach, and Day played both fullback and center under him.

The following year he entered the service and was stationed at San Francisco, where Andy Smith coached the naval training team. Bill captained this team, which was well-known over the country. He was an Athletic Director at the Great Lakes training camp in 1916.

Started With Beatrice.
When Day returned to the Nebraska institution, Henry F. Schulte was coaching the Husker eleven. He played at the pivot position, and the following year he was elected to lead the team. Walter Camp gave him honorable mention on the second All-American team in his last year on the gridiron. This was before the western teams became highly regarded by eastern critics and was considered quite an honor.

Bill Day has been closely associated with football since that time. He coached the linemen under Coach Dawson and again last year under Coach Bearg. Carl Peterson and Harold Hutchinson, well known centers, who have been turned out by the Cornhusker institution are good examples of Day's coaching ability.

CEJNAR WILL HEAD MILITARY SOCIETY

Elected Scabbard and Blade Chief At Meeting Thursday; Install Officers Later

William Cejnar, '27, Omaha, was elected captain of Scabbard and Blade, honorary military society, for the coming year at a meeting held at Nebraska Hall Thursday evening.

At this meeting other officers were elected as follows:

First Lieutenant—John A. Boyer, '27, Pawnee City. Second Lieutenant—August C. Holmquist, '27, Oakland. First Sergeant—Judd W. Crocker, '27, Omaha.

Well Qualified.
Cejnar has shown himself to be well qualified for the captaincy of this honorary organization. He led the junior class in military science during the first semester. Cejnar is also first sergeant of Company "C." Boyer received the honor of being chosen color sergeant. Holmquist was elected battalion sergeant-major of the second battalion and Crocker was selected as the one most fit for the rank of regimental sergeant-major. The new officers will be installed shortly after spring vacation.

KIESELBACH ISSUES BULLETIN ON WHEAT

One of Most Exhaustive Research Studies Ever Made in This Country, Is Comment

"Winter Wheat Investigations" is the title of a research bulletin written by Dr. T. A. Kieselbach, department of agronomy, College of Agriculture of the University of Nebraska, and published by the college. The bulletin is 150 pages in length and contains a complete study of wheat accompanied by illustrations.

"This is probably the most exhaustive study of wheat ever made in the country," said Prof. W. W. Burr, chairman of the department of agronomy, and assistant director of the Nebraska Agricultural Experiment Station.

For Twenty Years Here
Winter wheat investigations have been carried on at the college of Agriculture for the past twenty years and for the last fifteen years under the direction of Dr. Kieselbach. The purpose of the studies was to find a better wheat for Nebraska. A number of established promising varieties were introduced from other sections of the country and tests were made to find their adaptability to this section. A third means of selecting the variety best suited to Nebraska was by means of crossing and by hybridization.

Nebraska Number 28 may be said to be the result of these studies according to Professor Burr. This variety is very widely different from either of its parents and earlier. The majority of the work has been done with Turkey Red wheat, for Crimean wheat was not found to be well suited to Nebraska conditions. A number of improved strains have been developed, among which the most widely distributed have been Nebraska Number 6 and Nebraska Number 60.

Cultural Practices
Attempts were made at wheat improvement by cultural practices and the effect of grading wheat was studied. It was found that the fanning mill is not a wheat improver but that its only function is to remove the foreign material from the seed wheat. The effect of the date of seeding on the yield was also studied and a discussion on this subject is included in the bulletin. It was found that early preparation of the seed bed was always advisable. The effect of the time of harvesting on the yield and on the quality of the wheat is given careful consideration. No beardless variety has been found that will equal those in Nebraska, and in order to produce to best advantage, the Nebraska wheat growers must continue to contend with the prickly beards. The semi-hard varieties were to be found to be the best producers, as no soft wheat will yield as well in Nebraska.
