

PREPARE FOR DRAKE MATCH

McBride Is Trying to Secure Meet With Wesleyan Team for This Thursday

URGE TOURNEY ENTRANTS

Steady practice of the varsity tennis team was continued yesterday. The squad that will compete with the Drake net-artists in the first team meet has been selected with the exception of one man. The last member will probably be selected sometime this week.

An effort is being made to secure a meet with Wesleyan university for Thursday of this week, according to Coach Gregg McBride.

Freshman Tournament Soon

The freshmen net tournament will get under way the latter part of this week. Any one may enter by signing up at the athletic offices before Wednesday. Everyone who has any tennis aspirations is urged to enter the tourney.

Coach Ernest E. Bearg, with his football cares temporarily laid aside, was playing on the university courts yesterday. Coach Bearg's ability in the game is well known by local followers of the sport.

RELIGIOUS ISSUE STARTS FURORE

Satire in "Jester" Stirs Up Comment from Ministers and N. Y. Paper

NO CAMPUS EXCITEMENT

(By New Student Service.)

NEW YORK—To the yellow press all news of "atheism" in the colleges is Hot Stuff. Eagerly the readers of the penny press await the latest abnormality out of the devilish laboratories of Godless scholars. Leopold and Loeb... Pacifists and Reds opposing compulsory drill... Damned Souls clubs... What next?

New Thriller Appears

Latest of the thrillers is the Religious Number of "Jester", appearing quietly enough on the Columbia University campus. On the front-piece appears the God of Gold with monstrous paunch and flabby chops. At his feet is a cannon—the offering of the Faithful with the motto "We must be Prepared." There are cartoons and satiric thrusts at religion as practiced in the U. S. A. in the year 1926.

Downtown the reception was jazzier. "The New York American," a link in the Hearst chain, screamed on the front page of the final edition:

SACRILEGE IN COLUMBIA "JESTER" STIRS FURORE

"Pastor Rapa faculty for Agnosticism of Students, Methodist Preacher Terms It Spirit of 'Smart Aleck' Youth of Today: Hits Teachings—Investigation of Editorial Staff Threatened for Satirical Expression and Illustrations."

Minister Quoted

Consenting to be quoted, Rev. Christian F. Reinsner a local pastor said:

"It is the spirit of the day manifesting itself. In large measure it is the product of iconoclastic teachings of the modern professors, and the result of this teaching is to produce immature agnostics."

"An example ought to be made of the editors of some of these college publications. Here in this city during the past week we have had two scandals—that of N. Y. U. and now Columbia. The youths are getting too cocky in their attitude toward the decent and even toward the sacred things in life."

Amused on Campus

On the campus the newspaper outburst was viewed with amusement. As yet it has stirred no one except a few "Jester" agents who boosted the price from 25 to 50 cents and did a considerable business.

Those who wonder at this comic which is not composed of the usual jokes about petting and has no atrocious puns will leaf quickly to the editorial page for illumination on this marvel:

"Yet Editaurus is distinctly aware that the material he has presented on these pages may not be acceptable to some, even though it were done with the genius of a Voltaire or an Abelerd. In such cases, Editaurus, fully aware of his own limitations and prejudices and shortcomings, would cry 'Look to yourselves!' If there is to be any value in Religious experience, any worth in the trappings and traditions of the Established Church, they must be strong enough and true enough to stand the fire of intellectual criticism and estimate. There will be those who will rise up in wrath, metaphorically speaking. For these, too, Editaurus, dear soul, has a word. 'If the shoe fits...!'"

SOCIAL SERVICE IS TALK TOPIC

Professor Bruni of Washington University Speaks to Kansas Students

MINISTRY DWELLED UPON

LAWRENCE, Kas., April 19.—Training required, opportunities for advancement and rewards of social service, especially as compared with the ministry, were described here by F. J. Bruni, professor of applied sociology at Washington University, St. Louis, in a talk to University of Kansas students. Professor Bruni's address was the second in a series on the choice of a lifework. Professor Bruni spent five years in the ministry, which he explained in thoroughly standardized, but he said, "Social work is brutally inadequate in its training. Most of us, in my generation, got in without any. While in theory, the best schools require two years of training, and insist that these be graduate years, there is not one in a hundred who go into social work under such auspices. The rank and file of social workers are caught as they pass—likely young men and women graduating from college who come under the influence of some social worker."

Social Worker and Minister

The minister was described as having a definite, and fairly important social status in the community, but the social worker, because his profession is so new, has none of this status, and there is as yet no provision for the old age of those who give a life of service through social work.

Throughout my whole ministry, which was, however, less than five years, I had no offers of better positions, and when I had to make a change, which was twice, it was done with extreme difficulty. The situation may be somewhat improved now.

"My experience in social work was the exact reverse. Going into it by accident and somewhat reluctantly, there has never been a year in the nearly twenty I have been in it in which I have not received most flattering offers, and none in the last ten years in which I have not actually placed in positions of great importance young men and young women in whose training I have had some part. For the well-trained social worker the demand exceeds the supply."

The next paper of the vocational series will be by L. W. Mayberry, superintendent of the Wichita public schools.

Reginald Denny in "Skinner's Dress Suit" at the Lyric

Do clothes make the man? You'll think so when you see Denny breeze through his rollicking comedy of a man and a dress suit and Honey, his wife, who spent the raise he didn't get and made him a million. It's the most hilarious funny-bone tickler ever screened. Denny himself never made a morrier—and with adorable Laura La Plante as "Honey"—well you'd better see if you care for happiness. Unusually interesting news, topical, and travel subjects, and on the stage, Mildred and Lucille Wiseman, a dainty duo of vocalists and instrumentalists who won first honors at the National American Musical Festival in 1924. An interpreting offers, and none in the last ten years in which I have not actually placed in positions of great importance young men and young women in whose training I have had some part. For the well-trained social worker the demand exceeds the supply."
