Awards for Handicap Wrestling Meet To Be Made by Book Store

"Red" Long of the College Book Store has agreed to furnish medals again this year for the handicap wrestling meet. No definite date has been set for the meet but it will probably be the first week in May.

Contestants are to be handicapped according to their ability and results of previous meets. The handicaps are to be worked out on a basis which will force contestants to do better than they have in the past.

All men who expect to be candidates for next year's Varsity team are urged to participate and get the benefits of competition and training.

KANSAN DISCUSSES NATIONAL DEFENSE

Dean P. F. Walker of University of Kansas Speaks to Officers and Engineers

An analysis of the problems of national defense from the industrial and engineering point of view was presented by Dean P. F. Walker of the College of Engineering of the University of Kansas, Lawrence, at a joint meeting last night at the Grand hotel of the Lincoln Engineering Society, the Nebraska section of the Society of Mechanical Engineers, and the Lancaster County Reserve Officers association. Dean Walker is colonel of the 314th Engineers regiment in the reserve, and has seen service in two wars. He was introduced by Dean O. J. Ferguson of the University of Nebraska College of Engineering.

"In the last analysis problems of defense are industrial and economic," opened Colonel Walker. "People should understand this, but they probably never will, and will blame the military men again in case of adversity."

Safeguarding Defense

"National defense" he explained, "is the preservation of national life along standards to which we are accustomed." It is essential that regular channels of trade be as little disturbed as possible. He then listed a great number of materials which we are forced to import and which have been classified as strategic with respect to national defense.

Three ways to safeguard an adequate supply of these materials, he proposed. First, by having large reserve supplies. Second, by maintaining small nucleus production organizations in our country which can be expanded to meet the increased demands in an emergency. Third, by maintaining a large enough naval force to keep open at all times the trade channels for these materials. "No single nation would dare attack us," declared Dean Walker, in considering the military phases of national defense. "This is the age of allegiance in international politics." He then traced our traditional policy of aloofness, and pointed out that as a result it is all the more important that we be prepared for a major emergency against a possible combination of several powers.

IN THE VALLEY

...by...
"Zim" and "Zim"

This week sees the opening of the interfraternity baseball tournament. A new system is being tried out this year. In the place of the old one game elimination system, each team in the tournament will play three games. This method of conducting the tournament gives each team a fair chance and undoubtedly will create more interest in the games.

The members of the Husker track squad are taking things fairly easy this week in preparation for the Drake Relays. Track men from the University of Nebraska and from the other schools in this state won a majority of the points last Saturday at the Kansas meet and it looks as though Nebraska and indeed all of the other colleges in the state are in for a big year on the cinder paths.

It was but a few years ago that Nebraska was not regarded as especially strong in track. In fact other schools in the country did not consider Nebraska schools much competition. However, there has been quite a change of late and track athletes in this state can be favorably compared with those in any school.

Perhaps the fact that the state as a whole did not rate so high in track in years gone by was the lack of interest in the sport. Today, practically every big high school in the state has a track team and a competent coach to handle the boys. This has gone a long way in improving conditions and we now find the entire state taking much more interest in the sport.

Spring football is over and the weary, muscle tired athletes of the great fall sport are breathing a sigh of relief. Football is the great college sport and deserves a lot of prominence in college athletics, but it is a cold weather sport.

The athletic department of the University made a good move when they permitted letter men of previous baseball teams to play in the interfraternity games, but prohibiting them from playing the same position as on the Varsity. This adds more interest to the tournament but does not give any one team a decided advantage.

Competition for the tennis team has started and a number of likely players have responded for practice. While no Tildens or Richards have been uncovered, the prospects are bright for a fast team to represent the University.
